The Honorable Vincent S. Haneman, Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, administered the oath of office to the Speaker.

The Speaker on assuming the chair addressed the General Assembly as follows:

This will be an historic year. Not because a woman now sits as Speaker of this House for the first time in 189 years. But because of the far-reaching decision we will be called upon to make as the result of the reapportionment crisis thrust upon us by the courts.

However, I know you will excuse me if I acknowledge with complete humility the honor you pay me today. I would be less than honest if I did not say that I am conscious of the responsibility it imposes upon me as a legislator and as a woman. And I would certainly be remiss if I did not acknowledge the pioneering efforts of many women of both parties which led to the opportunity I enjoy today.

I also want to thank all the men for their assistance during my years in this House. But most particularly I want to thank the three men of the Higgins House. Without their help and patience and understanding I could not be here today. May I introduce my husband Bill, and two sons, Bob and Bill.

In assuming this office today, I am conscious, too, of the high standards set by my predecessor—Al Beadleston—one of the most able Speakers ever to serve this body. This House can be proud of its accomplishments under his leadership. Notable among the things he fought for were improvements in the legislative process. To mention a few:

control of lobbying activities; better liaison between the two Houses of the Legislature; putting a price tag on legislation involving State expenditures, and more effective use of Assembly committees.

All these added up to a foundation for a program to equip this Legislature to more effectively serve the people of our State. I intend to broaden this program. Because I believe that for far too long the Legislative branch has been the withered arm of State Government.

For far too long the Legislative branch has been seriously handicapped by the lack of staff help, and has been forced to depend too heavily on the Executive branch to provide the answers.

Last year we made a good start toward ending this deficiency. Some good examples of what this Legislature can do when it tackles a problem are found in the joint legislative study commissions formed last year. The studies carried out by two of these units produced facts that spelled out in detail the necessity for an expenditure of some 90 million dollars to meet immediate needs in the fields of education and institutions. Informed for the first time of the specific areas of expenditures, the people responded by approving bond issues for that sum at last November's election.

It is my hope that this year further progress can be made toward strengthening staffs so that the Legislature can more fully assume its proper role as a vital, creative force in State Government. I expect to have more to say about strengthening the legislative process as this session progresses.

Never was there a greater need for a forceful law-making body. Let us be frank and candid with ourselves and our constituents. We begin 1965 with the knowledge that we have more problems than solutions. Let us also begin with a determination to conclude this historic legislative session with the proper solutions to our major problems.

Certainly all of us can agree in numerous areas that cry out for attention. We of the majority party recognize that our first and foremost responsibility is to fairly reapportion our legislative and congressional seats as soon as possible to comply with the "one-man one-vote" doctrine laid down by the United States Supreme Court. Upon receipt of the Reapportionment Commission's recommendation, we should make redistricting legislation our first—and if necessary—our only order of business.

Top priority must also be given to the necessity to re-examine our State's fiscal structure with an open mind. We must put behind us the inflexible pros and cons of the past and determine how best this State can meet its responsibilities to the overburdened property taxpayers of New Jersey. We must find some way to lighten the crushing tax load on our homeowner.

Of equal concern is the necessity for the Governor to act with dispatch to evaluate the impact of Chapter 51. A prompt report to this Legislature on his part will permit us to fulfill our pledge and take any corrective action deemed to be necessary to prevent inequities to the homeowner or the businessman.

The Republican Majority is dedicated to seeing that there will be no lag in construction of college and institutional facilities authorized under the two 1964 bond issues. We also intend to pursue our efforts to revitalize the State's highway building program to realize the goal of providing more roads at lower cost.

To accomplish these ends I recommend that we reconstitute the three joint legislative study committees that last year were charged with the responsibility of stimulating legislative action in these fields. They will be directed to keep a careful check on implementing construction authorized by the bond issues, to give progress reports at stated intervals, and to continue to reassess our long-range needs in these areas.

It is the feeling of the Republican Majority that action in the following fields is a must in 1965. We believe:

We must accelerate the State's industrial development program so there will be more jobs and tax revenues available.

Assure that a Law Enforcement Council and Little Hoover Commission operate as effectively as possible.

Crack-down on the professional dope peddler, particularly those who prey on our youth.

Take additional steps to alleviate the property tax burden on our senior citizens.

Seek ways to provide more State aid for education and local roads.

Promote creation of two-year colleges in every part of the State and increase amount of State scholarship grants.

Begin the development of a modern mass transit system to get our commuters to and from work faster and more comfortably.

Secure full opportunities for all citizens by insuring that civil rights laws are properly enforced.

Mount a more effective campaign against increasing highway slaughter.

Give workers better workmen's compensation benefits at all levels and tighten up on administrative practices to end unjustified claims which make this program excessively expensive for employers.

Modernize the standards of weights and measures to provide better protection for the consumer.

Strive for passage this year of legislation to extend the State's scholarship program to young women seeking nursing training.

Provide for mandatory police training in order to help make our streets safe to walk on.

Take more steps to reduce the high cost of constructing State buildings so the taxpayers will get more for their money.

Protect additional workers under the Unemployment Compensation program.

These are some of the goals I believe the majority of members of this House feel must be achieved. They can best be achieved if a spirit of bi-partisanship exists in this House during the coming year.

I have come to know all of you well enough to predict with confidence that the welfare of our State transcends any personal ambitions any of us may have even in this election year.

This attitude is certainly reflected in your choice of men to lead the majority and minority delegations. Assemblyman Crabiel this past year has earned the respect of us all through his constructive efforts as Minority Leader, a post he will deservedly fill again in 1965. Assemblyman Bateman, who so well served this House as Assistant Majority Leader last year, has more than demonstrated his capacity to provide effective majority leadership. These men, I am certain, will do all in their power to foster the cooperative spirit so necessary to the success of our work.

While we intend to be a co-equal branch of State Government, we also intend to be a cooperative branch of government willing at all times to work in close harmony with the State's Chief Executive and his Administration. It is my hope that this year will see a two-way street of cooperation not only between the two parties but between the Administration and this Legislature.

For my part, I pledge to administer the office of Assembly Speaker in a completely impartial manner that will help foster the spirit of bi-partisanship. Such impartiality has been a tradition of this office, a tradition that was carried out faithfully by my predecessor.

While the spirit of bi-partisanship must necessarily be a group effort, the success or failure of this Legislature during the coming year depends also on the dedicated service of each individual member.

The place in history of this Legislature is already assured. It is assured by the fact that the form of representation under which this Legislature has functioned for 189 years must be changed this year.

What remains to be seen is whether this Legislature will go down in history only because of that fact. I would hope that we will also be remembered for the way in which we met the challenge of change as well as the many other challenges that face us.

Today is the time for ceremony and oratory. Tomorrow is the time for action.

The Speaker named as her Secretary, Frank V. Jerlinski.

Mr. Bateman offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Be It Resolved, That the Speaker appoint forthwith a committee of six to wait upon the Governor and inform him that the General Assembly has organized by the election of the Honorable Marion West Higgins of Bergen County as Speaker, and of Paul Boruta of Bergen County, as Clerk of the One Hundred and Eighty-ninth Session of the General Assembly of New Jersey, and is now ready to proceed to business.

THIRD ANNUAL MESSAGE

Mr. President, Madam Speaker and Members of the Senate and General Assembly:

We meet today in an atmosphere of change. This will be the final year of the New Jersey Legislature as presently constituted. Together, the Legislature and Governor have been called upon to take historic new action to revise the legislative branch of government in keeping with the mandate of the United States Constitution, as declared by the Supreme Court of the United States and the Supreme Court of New Jersey. While many respected viewpoints exist as to the wisdom of these decisions, there is no room for dispute as to the duty of obedience to the supreme law of the land.

This turning point for New Jersey coincides with what many people see as the opening of another era in the history of our great nation. In America, at this midpoint of the 1960's, a newly elected administration and Congress take office in an age which looks forward with real hope to the conquest of space, the achievement of peace for all men, and the equitable distribution of the fruits of man's genius.

In the same sense, as we write a close to one chapter in New Jersey history, we have the opportunity to begin to shape the story of New Jersey's future. The work before us will not be easy. The identification of our problems and needs is less difficult than the accomplishment of their solutions. This is not a time for political ease or political expedience, but a time for courage in coming to grips with the issues before our State. And this invokes a sense of responsibility for, as Theodore Roosevelt once said, "If we are to be a really great people, we cannot avoid meeting great issues. All we can determine is whether we shall meet them well or ill."

In New Jersey, the problems which confront most states appear in sharp focus. This is not a new concept. It was recognized 54 years ago when Governor Woodrow Wilson described New Jersey as a "laboratory" for the development of national solutions.

The years that since have passed have served only to intensify the problems he cited and to add many more to the list.

The problems of an adequate supply of pure water for human and industrial use; the assurance of pure air; the provision of adequate housing in our cities and the preservation of community life in these cities; planning the most useful development of our open land for industrial, residential and recreational use—these will be some of the major problems and challenges of the next 30 years and they will demand vigorous action before this decade ends if they are not to overwhelm us.

We must take action now—in the 1960's—to see that New Jersey does not become a grim preview of a polluted, congested world of the future.

We cannot permit our State to strangle in traffic congestion, to fail in its responsibilities to educate its children and provide jobs for them to make that education meaningful. We must assure that no Jerseyan be barred from the full exercise of his natural talents or his human rights because of his religion or race. We must build a framework of law and administration to protect the innocent against the unscrupulous. And we must ever bear in mind our duty, as a humane people, to provide for the needs of the ill, the handicapped, the disabled.

These indeed are imposing tasks. But we have been blessed with the means to meet them. We need only summon the will.

OUR HUMAN RESOURCES

EDUCATION—THE CORNERSTONE

Education is the cornerstone of the society in which we and those who follow us will live, and no part of the life of this State consumes more of the attention of our citizens than does the education of our children. We see in them the most priceless of assets, and thus we are united in the determination to build a first-class educational system, and have regularly dedicated to that effort the largest part of our spending, both on the State and local level. In many ways we have made substantial progress. Enrollment in the public schools has grown from 800,000 to 1¼ million in the past 10 years. Yet, today the supply of teachers needed is more nearly in balance with the demand than it has been during the past decade. This has been made possible through expanded enrollment in our State colleges and new programs of teacher-preparation in our private colleges and universities.

And commendable progress, too, has been made in the physical facilities of our public schools. A local school district building program averaging $100 million a year has decreased the number of pupils on half-sessions and in overcrowded buildings from 140,800 to 115,000 during the past year alone. The number of classes for the physically and mentally handicapped has increased, with more than 17,000 enrolled this year. New programs for the special training of teachers for handicapped children—a profession touched with a particular glory—have been instituted in many colleges. Our expanding efforts on behalf of the less fortunate can be a matter of pride to all New Jerseyans.

If we speak of higher education, significant increases in enrollment have been accompanied by curriculum additions and improvements. During the past decade, full-time enrollment in publicly supported colleges has risen from 10,000 to over 27,000. All six State colleges now offer full majors equivalent to those offered in any general college and have added special programs on the education of the handicapped, for school librarians, nurses, guidance specialists and remedial reading teachers. Last year, as an experiment, Newark State College and Jersey City State College made a special effort to orient a part of the senior class toward the needs of education in the disadvantaged sections of our large cities. As one result, 39 graduates of Newark State were offered and accepted positions in the Newark schools.

A CATALOGUE OF PROGRESS

The steady expansion of Rutgers—The State University has continued through a new Center for Information Processing for training and research in the use of computers, a new Radiation

Science Center, the addition of a chemical engineering curriculum, the dedication of the Center for Alcohol Studies, the installation of a huge Tandem Accelerator for research and training in nuclear physics, capped by the acquisition of 540 acres of Camp Kilmer land where eventually thousands of students will be accommodated with laboratories, classrooms and residential dormitories.

Additionally, I was pleased, in accordance with the Water Resources Act of 1964, to designate the University as the Water Resource Research Institute for the State of New Jersey. Moreover, this Administration is actively seeking the designation by federal authorities of Rutgers as the site for the Federal Water Pollution Laboratory for the Middle Atlantic States. The particular relevance of both of these Research Centers to the future of New Jersey is self-evident.

This year has seen, too, continued evidence of the partnership between University and government such as in the study of legislative procedures completed by the Eagleton Institute and the ongoing assistance of the Urban Studies Center to the Newark Community Action Program.

Last fall we dedicated the new Physics Building at the Science Center on the University's Piscataway Township campus. It is gratifying to note that this important Center is continuing to expand and not only contribute to the education of the State's undergraduate and graduate students but also to work cooperatively with industry in the State of New Jersey. The magnet-like effect of these developments has already been demonstrated in the decision of many industries to locate in the area, proof positive of the interdependence of advanced education and industrial progress.

TWO MEDICAL SCHOOLS

In a most heartening demonstration of cooperation for the public good, a bipartisan effort has made it possible for the State to take over the operation of the Seton Hall College of Medicine and Dentistry. At the same time, the State pledged additional future support of substantial nature for the further development of the two-year medical school at Rutgers. Thus, almost overnight, the State has made up for years of inaction and finds itself with two sorely needed medical schools, one of high reputation already in operation and the other in advanced stages of preparation.

On another subject, it seems to me that New Jersey, because of its preeminence in electronic manufacture, research in varied fields, and many other types of advanced technology, must be alert to special opportunities to develop educational resources to meet a particular need. As an example, there exists within our State borders the National Air Facilities Experimental Center at Pomona, in Atlantic County. Why should not this facility be complemented and a very great opportunity for New Jersey be realized by encouraging the establishment at that site of a four-year college program in the fields of aeronautical and air space sciences? A revised bill to lay the groundwork for this development will be offered to you for consideration.

One of the most exciting developments during my administration has been the providing of opportunities for higher education in the establishment of the two-year county colleges. Fifteen of our counties are now engaged in some state of county college development and five have been initiated already, having been approved by the State Board of Education. In 1966 the first of these will be opening their doors to new thousands of New Jersey boys and girls. Funds must be found for aggressive county college development, for we have made an outstanding start and cannot permit this program to founder.

NEW BLUEPRINTS

Research, experiment and self-analysis have continued to play an important part in our educational system. The past year has seen the publication of three education studies undertaken by the State—the Report on Higher Education, the Report on Special Education and the Report on Vocational Education. These are challenging and provocative studies and I commend them to your thoughtful attention. The Report on Higher Education has already induced a considerable amount of discussion and I hope that before any judgment is made on the recommendations it contains, there will be an even wider public discussion and an opportunity given to all who have an interest in the future of higher education in New Jersey to present their views to you.

Experimental demonstration projects have also been used to improve our system. For example, our Department of Education is presently engaged in an experimental nursery school program for four-year-olds in cooperation with the school system of Trenton. This program, known as the Junior Five Project, is designed to prepare children for a meaningful and successful school experience which such problems as mobility and low economic status would otherwise prevent. The program was started last year and now the first group is attending kindergarten. While the continuing study is not complete, the kindergarten teachers and other experts believe that those who were in the nursery school last year are more self-confident and independent, have greater language facility and physical coordination, participate more, and in general seem to have had great benefit through the nursery school year.

New Jersey was the first State to conduct a thorough statewide study of school dropouts and, through the use of data processing methods, a continuous flow of information is available concerning the number, the location and the cause of school dropouts. This information is used by the Department in follow-up studies to determine the fundamental causes underlying this problem.

New Jersey was a pioneer in instituting safety programs in such a peripheral area as school bus warning lights. The Society of Automotive Engineers has now mandated for the United States the broad beam flashing red light developed by this State. I am happy to report that since the installation of the New Jersey-developed flashing light system, accidents at our school bus stops have been reduced by 70 per cent. Suggested improvements in the enforcement aspects of these laws will be submitted to you.

While we have made progress, we should not be complacent. The needs in education of our fast-growing population are almost insatiable. As in many other areas, the crucial ingredient is money. The $40 million bond issue which was approved in November will provide additional needed facilities for our colleges, but it only begins to meet the needs. The Strayer Report estimated our minimal college needs between now and 1970 at $134 million. Unless provision is made for additional facilities in the very near future, a whole generation of college students will be lost. It is not a matter of pride for New Jersey to acknowledge itself to be at or near the bottom of the list of the states in degree of financial support of higher education.

A NEW PLAN FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

Rising costs of private colleges combined with inadequacies of space in State-supported institutions have rendered our program of scholarship assistance inadequate. To date the State has invested more than $14 million in scholarship aid—11,000 of our young people hold scholarships. In addition, more than 8,000 students are receiving the benefit of our student loan program. There is reason for pride in this situation, but we must note a serious shortcoming. Because of the disparity in admission fees between State-supported and private colleges, our $400 scholarship is realistic only in terms of attendance at the State-supported institutions. The recipient, faced with the substantially higher tuition costs of the private college, has little freedom of choice. Our State Board of Education, has, therefore, recommended a program of incentive grants which will provide the needed flexibility of choice. This plan goes beyond the present State scholarship program to provide additional tuition assistance to college students, to a maximum of $600 a year, related to the student's financial need and the cost of tuition at the college he selects. Such a program would enable a greater number of worthy New Jersey students to select private colleges and at the same time make a corresponding reduction in pressure of the demand for places in the State-supported institutions. This administration will propose appropriate legislation for your consideration in the near future.

TO LIGHTEN A BURDEN

The overwhelming burden for the cost of local public education continues to fall on the local property taxpayer, inasmuch as New Jersey's contribution by way of State aid to education (aside from teachers' pensions) is only 16 per cent of the cost of local public education. I have repeatedly called your attention to the proportionately small contribution made by the State to the local school districts. Although this amounted to $116 million in last year's budget and will be about $120 million this year, it still leaves a crushing burden of cost on the home owner and rent payer, and this burden should not and indeed cannot be carried much longer. To meet the recommendations of the State Tax Policy Commission, we should increase State aid by at least $90 million.

It has been ten years since the State aid formula was revised, and during that period changing conditions have rendered it inadequate. When the Foundation program was established at $200, the median per pupil cost was $262; today it is $476.94. The equalization factor has created an inequitable distribution of the tax burden which results in extremely wide differences in expenditure per pupil as between districts. In spite of the real efforts made by citizens in many low expenditure districts, the goal of equal educational opportunity is receding. In our older cities, particularly, the problem is acute. Almost all of them now find themselves imposing a high local tax rate yet achieving a program of per pupil expenditure which is inadequate for the special educational needs in this type of community. The local taxpayer has shown in his attitude toward a local bond referendum or the local school budget an increasing reluctance to go it alone. Unless we face up to our responsibility towards State aid, our educational system will be in jeopardy.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION—THE PROBLEM

In my last Annual Message I called your attention to the tragedy of our unemployed youth. It has been estimated that 50,000 of our young people between the ages of 16 and 21 are neither in school nor working. Even more alarming is the prediction that an average of 11,000 will be dropping out of school during each of the next five years. In a time when opportunities for the unskilled are almost non-existent, these young people face a life of unemployment, dependency and hopelessness, and present a stark and frightening problem with which the State must deal.

For many pupils, the academic, college-oriented school program often breeds frustration and despair. Handicapped by a home environment deficient in reading or conversational contact and faced with an educational program which has no meaning to them, they endure school only under the compulsion of law and drop out at the first opportunity—barely literate, untrained and unmotivated. Vocational education can and must serve the needs of the slow, the handicapped, the reluctant and the potential dropout, as well as those of high intellectual capacity who gravitate toward the practical type of life-work, if there is to be any meaning at all for the truism that “public education is for all of the children of all of the people.”

Young people vary widely in their abilities, interest and vocational goals. They also differ greatly in personality, emotional stability, family and home backgrounds and in physical and mental health. Recognition of these individual differences has led to the need for a very flexible and diversified program of secondary education in America.

Our Department of Education has recently completed a study of vocational education made by a distinguished group of business, labor and educational leaders. The findings of this committee are startling. Only 3 per cent of our secondary school youth were enrolled in federally reimbursed vocational programs in 1962. We ranked last among the states in the number of persons per 1,000 population enrolled in courses in vocational education and this program manifestly has not reached the disadvantaged to whom I refer. The committee expressed this thought:

“As important as general education is for the development of the individual and the preservation of our culture and way of life, it is not enough for the majority of New Jersey youth who will operate machines, shops, offices and provide our services * * * To the extent that secondary schools are not providing vocational opportunities, they share the responsibility for this situation.”

According to the Strayer Report, about 38 per cent of our secondary school graduates went on to college in 1962. For the remaining 62 per cent a pre-college program had limited utility; and for the 11,000 dropouts, no meaning whatsoever. Under these circumstances, vocational programs which embrace only 3 per cent of the school population are totally unacceptable.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION—A PLAN

The Vocational Educational Study Committee has urgently recommended that training for work be made an integral part of education; that vocational training or work experience be combined with meaningful, job-related general education. I will not take the time here to review the specific recommendations of the Committee, but I commend this study to you and all the citizens of our State.

The Commissioner of Education is deeply concerned about this problem and has been for many years. I have asked him to prepare a program to introduce such training into the regular school curriculum and thus to insure that every child, whatever be his needs, abilities or aspirations, receives from our educational system a meaningful experience which will prepare him for effective participation in society. There has now become available from federal grants under the Vocational Educational Act of 1963, and including State and local matching funds, the sum of $5,400,000 for vocational education. I have requested the Commissioner to consider using a portion of these funds to establish initial programs in appropriate school districts, those presenting a frighteningly high drop-out or youth unemployment rate. Some of these will provide for vastly enriched vocational programs in comprehensive schools and expanded counseling services where guidance will be balanced between the academic, college-oriented student and the occupational, job-oriented student.

The long-range program of the federal Vocational Educational Act of 1963 provides an outstanding opportunity for us to meet the needs of New Jersey youth. The broadened definition of vocational education to include the semi-skilled as well as the skilled—the service occupations as well as the technical occupations—will permit us for the first time to give training in such courses as appliance repair, dry cleaning, dental technician, heating and ventilation and nurse's aide. This new program also will permit a substantial expansion of the work-study concept which has been so successful in the few places where programs thus far have been inaugurated, and to which I made reference in my last Annual Message. These programs provide supervised work experience for persons enrolled in school and who, through a cooperative agreement between the school and employers, receive part-time vocational education in school and on-the-job training in industry.

It may be that further legislation will be required to implement the needed expansion of our vocational education program. I hope that at such time you will give such recommendations your earnest and urgent attention.

THE WAR AGAINST POVERTY

This year marks the opening of the full-scale national war on poverty declared by President Johnson, ratified by the Congress and relying on State and local governments to design the specific battle plans and carry the war to the front lines.

This unique legislation comes at an opportune time. It is unique because it creates self-help programs, not public assistance programs—projects aimed at eradicating the causes of poverty. It is not meant to be more of the same, more dole, more sympathy. It is meant to be for every individual and every family a real opportunity to escape from the vicious cycle of poverty.

It is also unique because it does not attempt to set broad national solutions for poverty problems, but rather puts that burden squarely on State and local government. The legislation recognizes that the causes of poverty and its consequences differ from state to state, from community to community, and calls for local initiative in determining what the problem is and what can be done about it.

It is unique legislation because it requires the involvement of the poor themselves in the planning and operation of these programs. It insists on broad community-wide representation—not doing for people, but people doing for themselves.

The war on poverty comes at a strategic time, because today, for the first time in our history, we in the United States have the resources and the knowledge to eradicate poverty. We know how to get at its roots, how to attack it through education, housing, health and welfare programs, and manpower training designed to meet today's needs.

A TEST OF FEDERALISM

Because it is unique, the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 has far-reaching implications not only for the forgotten families across the country and for New Jersey's 180,000 families living with incomes of $3,000 or less; it has far-reaching implications for the Federal System as well.

In effect, State and local government is being given a tremendous opportunity. The Federal government is saying, "We have marshalled the resources and we make them available to you. Can you mobilize community and State efforts to make a start on eradicating poverty in New Jersey?"

There are two alternatives: one is for New Jersey to sit back while the responsibilities we fail to meet are gradually and necessarily transferred to the Federal government; the other is to respond.

I propose that New Jersey face up to its responsibilities, and I contend that State government at its best is in a position to minister to the diverse needs of its constituents far better than impersonal national programs. I am not espousing archaic States-rightism, but a belief in a partnership under the Federal system which can be maintained and should be maintained only if the States face up to their responsibilities.

In this spirit, three months ago, I established by Executive Order a temporary Office of Economic Opportunity for our State. In those three months New Jersey has taken the leadership among the states in the war against poverty.

THE COMPONENTS OF LEADERSHIP

The principal effort here has been to coordinate the State's economic opportunity goals and to provide direct assistance to communities desiring to participate. By acting rapidly to take advantage of the Act, we have made substantial gain already, and every day sees more New Jersey communities launching programs:

- New Jersey was the first State to receive a grant under the Economic Opportunity Act.
- the Job Corps Center at Camp Kilmer, scheduled to open in mid-February, will be the first such center opened in the country.
- Newark was the first city in the country to sign a contract for a neighborhood youth corps program, providing experience for school dropouts age 16 through 21.

Thirty-one applications under this section of the Act from communities and State agencies have been filed in Washington, more than any other State. They will provide work opportunities and experience to young people in every section of the State, urban and rural.

Five community action programs are already under way. Soon this total will have grown to 12 fully approved community action programs functioning in New Jersey counties and communities.

The New Jersey Office of Economic Opportunity has developed a three-part program especially designed to stimulate anti-poverty efforts in rural New Jersey. The State Department of Health in cooperation with the Office has submitted a proposal for medical examinations and remedial help for school dropouts and draft rejectees taking part in New Jersey anti-poverty programs. The examinations and services will be provided on contract with community hospitals throughout the State. Our Department of Conservation and Economic Development and the Department of Institutions and Agencies have both applied for Federal funds to provide work-experience opportunities in State parks, forests and recreation areas and in State institutions.

New Jersey has already been allocated $561,000 for adult education programs aimed at the poverty population. Moreover, the sum of $1.2 million has been earmarked for New Jersey students in need of part-time and summer work to continue their higher education.

Already more than $14 million in Federal anti-poverty funds have been committed in New Jersey, and this is only a beginning. Given good programs, more than $20 million should be committed by June 30th.

The New Jersey Office of Economic Opportunity has met with more than 60 communities, 13 counties, and numerous private organizations. Its small staff, supplemented by the services of other State agency personnel, has provided major assistance in the development of every community action application from this State.

These new anti-poverty efforts are not written on a blank page. They are intended to expand to full fruition the basic social efforts which have been the concern of State and local government for many years. There are few departments of State government whose programs do not in some way involve New Jersey's poverty population.

If this new infusion of Federal funds is to make a significant beginning in the final eradication of poverty in New Jersey, however, we must not rely solely on our early enlistment in the war against poverty, but must continue our efforts until the final battle is won. Let us spell out new efforts to reach old problems and very serious ones.

TO BREAK A CYCLE

Next fall about 115,000 of our children will be starting school. Of that number, approximately 15,000 will come from the poverty population homes with family incomes of less than $3,000. On their first day of school, many of these children will be doomed to become eventual school dropouts; not because of low I.Q.'s or physical disability, but simply because the home-life which they have experienced has not prepared them for school. They may have the ability to learn but not the motivation. They may never have seen a book before, or never been engaged in any kind of meaningful conversation. Thrown into the school environment with little preparation, with vague and uncertain goals, little incentive, unable to keep up with better prepared classmates, they may be discouraged and frustrated from the very first day. School may become a bitter experience and the path which leads to the dropout may be clearly seen by the end of the first year.

The cost to all of us of this pattern is obvious. Modern technology will almost completely wipe out unskilled jobs by the time these children seek employment 12 years from now. When they do work, they will command low pay. Many will not be able to avoid unemployment and will have to depend on tax-supported public welfare for their subsistence. Left on their own, their children are likely to follow a similar pattern and repeat the unhappy cycle in the next generation.

If we do nothing, for many of these 15,000 five-year-old children, this is exactly the future they will face. But we have it in our power to do something—and do something we must.

I seek your support for a State-wide summer school preparedness program, to begin this summer, tied to the federal Economic Opportunity Act. We have already demonstrated what can be done in a pre-school program to identify and eliminate the problems these children will bring with them on the first day of school—the Trenton Five Project to which I have already referred. We owe it to these children and to ourselves to give them this opportunity.

Ten summer weeks of individualized attention and concentration on these weaknesses, may awaken a desire for success in school which will literally change a child's entire life.

FINANCIAL INCENTIVES

To launch this program which hopefully could reach in this next summer at least 5,000 of those disadvantaged who will be entering school next September, a minimum of funds will be required from State government. In most cases, the Federal government under the Economic Opportunity Act will pay 90 per cent of the costs involved in this program. Much of the remaining 10 per cent can be met by in-kind contributions from communities and the volunteer help we hope this program will induce. But the added incentive of some State dollars and guidance from the State Department of Education can be the spur which initiates local programs.

I will propose in my budget message that a sum of $200,000 be set aside to insure the State's full participation in Federal anti-poverty programs. When added to the $1.8 million in Federal Funds which this State money will generate, a total of $2 million will be available to communities for the following purposes:

- (1) to stimulate summer preparedness programs on the local level for disadvantaged children.
- (2) to provide funds to communities for the purpose of keeping schools in economically deprived areas open beyond the normal school day for the purpose of tutorial, vocational, recreational, adult education programs and other programs under the Economic Opportunity Act.

The New Jersey Office of Economic Opportunity will coordinate these programs with the Department of Education, communities participating in the war against poverty and other agencies which should be involved.

So that State agencies may take advantage of additional funds which are available under the Economic Opportunity Act, I propose that transfer of appropriated State funds be permitted where necessary to make up the required 10 per cent non-federal share. This would permit the New Jersey Office of Economic Opportunity to continue the development of programs such as I have described with the several State Departments.

The small state investment proposed here, with the help of the 90 per cent matching federal formula, on-going state programs, and local contributions, can multiply into a major effort, and the savings to the State in unemployment benefits and welfare programs in later years will make this outlay seem small by comparison.

NEEDED LEGISLATION

In order to give full impetus to the efforts of New Jersey's communities to organize Action Programs under the Economic Opportunity Act, I am submitting legislation to clarify existing State Law on the question of non-profit community corporations.

Many communities have chosen a non-profit corporation or organization as the vehicle through which to channel their anti-poverty efforts. The question has arisen whether local governments and county governments may contribute public funds to such organizations. I will propose that existing State Law be amended to provide that community action organizations recognized under the Federal Economic Opportunity Act are clearly eligible to receive support from municipal and county governments.

These immediate efforts related to the Federal Economic Opportunity Act are not isolated. I refer to many other programs in this message today which complement and supplement our endeavors. The expansion of our vocational education, revision of the ADC program, a State Health Aid Act, a more effective program of state aid to local school districts, and a vigorous program of revised labor benefits for our workers. These must all go hand-in-hand with the continuing responsibilities of State government for the education, health and social welfare of its citizens.

CIVIL RIGHTS—GOALS TO BE REACHED

We observe this year the 20th anniversary of the passage of the first modern civil rights law in New Jersey. The enactment of the landmark Civil Rights Act this past year has seen America pass a crucial milestone in its reach for a society in which citizens accept by their actions, as well as by their words, the self-evident truth that:

“All men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.”

It might be useful for us to reflect for a moment on the progress of human rights in our State and the goal we seek for all our people.

We in New Jersey have always shared the American dream of a better life for our children in a land where the doors of opportunity stand open to all; where our aspirations are limited only by our ability and talent; where hope is made tangible by a progressively more prosperous society. But this abundance has not been shared by all our citizens. Some New Jersey citizens, because of their color, their religion or their national origin—all purely chances of birth unrelated to ability—have been blocked from opportunity, frustrated from hope, and deprived of their share in the American dream.

Our goal is to assure to all citizens those rights we desire to be safeguarded for ourselves. When a citizen of New Jersey, because his skin is dark, cannot acquire the home he can afford, the property rights of all are threatened; if he cannot become a member of a union and thus gain a job for which he has the requisite background and skill, the job security of all workers is threatened; if he cannot attend a school whose standards are as high as any in his community, then all educational standards are lowered; if, in short, he is not free to pursue on equal terms the dream that is the American way of life, that dream itself is diminished.

THE MEASURE OF INEQUALITY

In New Jersey:

- 41 per cent of all non-white families earned less than $4,000 in 1960.
- 38 per cent of the non-white population in Trenton and 52 per cent of the non-white population in Newark were renting dwellings or habitations classified as deteriorating or dilapidated.

A Negro in New Jersey:

- has one-thirtieth the chance of becoming an apprentice in a labor union.
- has one-half the chance of becoming a primary or secondary school teacher.
- has one-ninth the chance of becoming an engineer or technician.
- has two times the prospect of becoming unemployed.

New Jersey has long been a leader in the field of guaranteeing by law the rights of its citizens. We do not intend to lose that leadership now. We are doing and must continue to do all within our means to guarantee equality of opportunity especially in the fields of public accommodation, education, housing and employment.

The State Division of Civil Rights was transferred at the request of this administration to the Department of Law and Public Safety. Its current record of enforcement has vindicated the wisdom of this transfer. The Division in 1964 achieved corrective action in more than 100 cases, the highest in its history, and obtained affirmative implementation of equal opportunity in many additional cases where the specific complaint could then be dismissed.

The Division has used the broad investigatory powers recently granted to it and has established new working relations with many county and municipal human relations councils. It has issued educational materials and has counseled many fair employment, fair housing and other groups throughout the State.

FOR EXPANDED EFFORT

This expanding role of the agency is evidence of the beneficial impact it is having on the maintenance of better human relations and improved opportunity in New Jersey.

In my budget message, I will request additional funds to permit the expansion of the staff of the Division of Civil Rights. In contrast to New Jersey's small staff of 17 professionals, New York State has a professional staff of 200, handling a case load only slightly larger than New Jersey's. Pennsylvania recently augmented its civil rights staff from 53 to 85 professionals.

I also intend to request additional funds to permit this agency to publicize its activities and services more widely and make itself available to more of our citizens.

I am pleased to note the increase of local voluntary and official civil rights activities, especially in the efforts of community race and religion conferences, local private and official human relations councils and civil rights commissions. This administration, through the Civil Rights Division, will continue its efforts to stimulate the formation of similar groups in many more New Jersey communities.

The growing economic and social partnership between business, labor, civil rights and self-help organizations is one of the most enduring developments of the past year. Such partnerships will outlast the problems of the moment to become permanent instruments for better relations among all groups of our society.

This administration will continue to seek to expand employment opportunities through every means available to it. We must be sure that all those willing and able to work can seek employment on an equal basis with all other citizens.

A PATTERN IN SCHOOLS

During this period of rapid social change in New Jersey, we may take pride in the foremost decisions concerning school integration made by any state department of education in the nation. These decisions have been tested and upheld in the Courts and have taken their place in the law journals across the country as precedent-making opinions. Although much remains to be done in this area, a pattern has been established which is guiding local school districts in their efforts to provide full and equal opportunity to all children as guaranteed by the Constitution and statutes of this state.

For several years the Legislature has been urged to pass an amendment to our fair housing law which would represent the determination of this state that no person shall be deprived of the right to own a home because of his nationality, his color of skin or his religion. This important measure deserves your support and I recommend its adoption.

The single most encouraging development of the past year has been the development of machinery at the national and state levels to combat the root causes of much inequality of opportunity—I speak of the War Against Poverty.

As I have noted, the New Jersey Office of Economic Opportunity is already deeply involved in the development and encouragement of programs designed to break the vicious cycle of poverty and lack of opportunity that strikes hardest at the non-white citizen. This administration is committed to this great effort. I am convinced that it is the only way by which our most disadvantaged citizens, especially the young, can gain the skills and opportunities to enjoy fuller, more meaningful lives.

INSTITUTIONS AND AGENCIES—HUMAN IMPACTS

In no area is the impact of government on the individual citizen more profound than in the work of the Department of Institutions and Agencies. In one way or another—whether it be care for the mentally ill, work with retarded children, administration of a variety of welfare programs, rehabilitating young offenders, planning for local hospitals, or so many others—this Department touches directly the lives of some 200,000 of our fellow citizens every day.

Thus, I have sought during the last three years to emphasize, and even dramatize, the needs of our institutions and agencies. Here we are all involved—in cost, in conscience, in humanity. We have had successes, such as the recent institutional bond issue and our Purchase of Care Program for the mentally retarded and the completion of the Woodbridge State School project. We have had setbacks, such as the 1963 Bond Issue which would have provided $60 million for institutional construction to be repaid from the earnings of the New Jersey Turnpike. While a review will show considerable progress in these years, we must bear in mind that New Jersey's remarkable increase in population and urbanization has its most direct reflection in the additional demands placed upon our institutions and agencies. In this light, I would like to review in some detail the achievements and needs of state government in this area.

A major duty facing this Legislature is implementation of the report submitted in 1961 by the Mental Health Commission that was charged four years earlier with the task of reviewing the body of laws concerning the mentally ill and mentally defective. The recommended legislation failed of passage in the sessions since 1961 because of concern about the source of funds that would carry out the recommended changes. As a result, I asked the Department of Institutions and Agencies to work closely with citizens' groups to make new legislative recommendations in this area. I am pleased to report that the Department, working with the New Jersey Mental Health Association, the New Jersey Association for Retarded Children and the New Jersey Welfare Council, has submitted to me proposed legislation which would implement many of the major recommendations of the Mental Health Commission within present budgetary limitations.

We must be forewarned, however, that future amendments will be required to further carry out the recommendations of this outstanding report. And these amendments will require new expenditures of State funds.

A word about the Purchase of Care Program which I recommended and which you enacted last year. As a result of the $1 million appropriation, there now are more than 230 mentally retarded children placed in private care, and a total of 300 will be placed by the end of the fiscal year. We intend to sustain this program in the coming year.

HUMAN AND DOLLAR SAVINGS

Of equal significance in meeting the needs of the retarded is the Department's Day Care Program which began in fiscal 1964 and has been expanded in 1965. I shall recommend a further increase in the next fiscal year. This program permits care and training of retarded children who need not be forced into institutions. The public savings of such a program are obvious. But the human benefits are perhaps even greater: a loved child can remain in a family environment and hope can be maintained that a mentally handicapped human being can be trained for a more useful life which will give real meaning to his existence.

During the past year, the Department, in an effort to improve its services for mentally ill children, established specialized units for afflicted children below the age of 17 at each of our four State mental hospitals. In the last two years a total of 147 new staff positions have been authorized to partially fulfill the requirements of these facilities.

In its concern for the mentally ill and retarded and those otherwise handicapped, the State government is assisted in an important way by two special groups which correlate citizen and government interest and knowledge. These are the Governor's Interdepartmental Committee on Lifetime Disability and its Citizens' Advisory Council, and the Mental Health Planning Project. I want to commend the efforts of the citizens and State officials involved and to express the hope that we can continue to enjoy the fruits of their generous labors.

A SPECIAL EMPHASIS

In an urbanized State such as New Jersey, the demands of welfare programs take on special emphasis. The needs in this area have gained increasing recognition at the Federal level; this has had its impact on State government.

Let me cite a specific example: for three years New Jersey has not implemented the new Federal law which would make children of unemployed fathers eligible for Aid to Dependent Children. These amendments were designed to strengthen family life by eliminating the apparent advantage to a family whose father had deserted over a family with an unemployed father in the home. The existing inequity is apparent. Furthermore, these changes would bring an additional $6 million annually in Federal funds to New Jersey. Because the reduction in cost would benefit municipalities while counties would have to assume additional costs, the necessary legislation has faltered. Unless there is a change in legislative attitude, the solution to this difficulty would seem to lie in an increase in the present level of State aid for county welfare programs. Again, as in so many other vital areas, new state revenues would be a prerequisite.

We are looking in 1965 to bring to reality a number of important recommendations made in a survey by Federal authorities of the Division of Welfare at the request of the Department. The recommendations are designed to strengthen the organizational structure of the Division and they are being reviewed by the Board of Public Welfare and the State Board of Control, with a view toward making them effective at an early date.

NEW REHABILITATION EFFORTS

A major concern of the Department is, of course, in the field of correction. We must deal with the ever increasing pressure on institutional facilities resulting from a steady rise in commitments. To meet this problem, the Division of Correction has undertaken a number of new actions during 1964. The State's reformatories were brought together under a single Board of Managers and a single administrator. We have begun construction of a new 900-bed institution at Yardville. This institution will serve as a center to receive and scientifically classify all male youthful offenders to the end that their detention shall be in the most appropriate institution from the standpoint of security and rehabilitation. Yardville will eliminate the overcrowding of the male reformatories and, when properly staffed, will provide the State with a unique opportunity to gain new knowledge in the successful training and treatment of the young offender.

AN ACHIEVEMENT IN VETERANS' CARE

This year we will witness the beginning of an historic expansion of New Jersey's veterans care. Through funds made available under the 1961 bond issue, the State undertook construction of 80 infirmary and 120 dormitory beds in the Menlo Park Soldiers' Home. These will become available in early 1965. Even more significant for 1965 will be the implementation of the Department of Institutions and Agencies' priority for 400 new geriatric beds at the Vineland and Menlo Park Soldiers' Homes. This has become a reality as a result of the passage of the 1964 bond issue and, when construction is completed, New Jersey will have more than 900 beds for the care of veterans. This will be more than double our present capacity and it is an achievement to which we can all look forward with pride.

WOMAN'S OPPORTUNITY—NEW POTENTIAL

It was my privilege during the past year to establish a Governor's Commission on the Status of Women. For the first time in the history of this State, there is an official group of representative citizens of varied backgrounds concerning itself specifically with the needs and opportunities of the women of New Jersey. The work of the Commission comports with the national goal to assure equal opportunity as well as the full use of the talents of all Americans. Among its activities, this Commission is reviewing the possibility of legislation to assure that women will have the opportunity and means whereby they may fulfill their goals. Any recommendations developed by the Commission concerning this important matter will be promptly presented to you.

CONCERTED EFFORTS FOR THE AGED

The needs of our elderly citizens must always remain high on our list of social priorities and it is incumbent upon us to concern ourselves not only with the older people of today, but also the aged of tomorrow.

We have the solemn charge to provide the leadership for a concerted and continuing program to meet the challenge posed by the growing number of older citizens faced with such needs as income, housing, health, recreation, education and welfare.

Approximately 10 per cent, or 650,000, of our citizens are already 65 years of age or over. Our 1965 budget of $104,000 for the Division of the Aging can be broken down to an average expenditure of 16 cents per person for those of age 65 and over. It does not take into account services needed for those preparing to retire.

Our goal should not be a roster of isolated programs but the enlargement of existing programs so that they may include older people for whom we have been heretofore unable to provide services such as housing, health and community planning.

The Division of the Aging has most recently focused its immediate attention on the problem of suitable housing. Our Conference on Local Planning for Housing for the Elderly last year at Rutgers University was attended by more than 300 people and climaxed three years of cooperative effort by local planners, builders, architects and the State agencies. Progress in this field is marked by the fact that an additional 9,578 units of public housing for the elderly have been completed or are under planning by municipal housing authorities. I am pleased to note that there has also been an increased development of private housing for the elderly.

In the area of traffic safety, the Division has sponsored Older Driver Seminars with the Division of Motor Vehicles. These have given the elderly an updated concept of safety on the highway, and the overall program achieved national recognition at the Symposium on Senior Drivers and Pedestrians at the University of Denver College of Law in Colorado last year.

While significant strides have been made in the interest of the elderly, it must be noted that inadequate appropriations for urgently needed personnel have severely limited activity on priority programs. At least one request per day for help, especially from communities throughout the State, regretfully must be turned down because of staff cuts due to fiscal shortages.

Last year I submitted legislation to improve the structural makeup of the Division of the Aging in the interest of better public service. The bill was not passed by this body. I once again recommend that it receive your endorsement when it is resubmitted for your consideration this year. It will certainly enable us to do the best with what we have for our senior citizens.

YOUTH, A VARIETY OF PROGRAMS

Among the many current activities of our Youth Division is its work on the organization of Youth Guidance Councils to cooperate with juvenile and domestic relations courts in the municipalities. A conference sponsored by the Division at Rutgers last year has already shown results with the establishment of guidance councils in several communities.

I was privileged to sign the abused child legislation which was proposed and drafted by the Battered Child Committee of the Youth Division.

The Division has also established the Venereal Disease Committee which is at work on a pilot survey in the northern part of the State to determine the background of young people contracting these diseases.

The Division's Youth Fitness Committee is developing a project to encourage improved physical fitness programs in elementary schools.

I am sure that all of the people of New Jersey share a deep sense of appreciation for the work of a multitude of citizens with varying professional backgrounds who have lent their services to the activities of the Division with no rewards save the satisfaction of dedicated public service in the interest of our young people.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH

The State in the past several years has strengthened its efforts to protect the health of our citizens through improved and expanded public health programs. Some of the most dramatic work has been undertaken in the area of preventable diseases. Last year, the State Health Department, in conjunction with the medical societies and local groups, coordinated the greatest mass vaccination program in our history. As a result of this effort, more than 10 million doses of oral polio vaccine were administered to the State's population. The groups most susceptible to polio were effectively covered by the program and this has been reflected in the near elimination from the State of the disease of polio. During the past year only two cases were reported.

Less dramatic but equally significant efforts were carried on by the Department in other areas. The Crippled Children Program has approximately doubled during the past three years. In addition, a screening program for hearing and speech defects surveyed approximately 50,000 children. In the area concerning radiological health the Department has conducted more than 10,000 X-ray machine inspections since 1962 and has located more than 23,000 specific defects for which corrective instructions were issued. Continuing inspections are being made to insure compliance with the radiation protection code. Comparable reports could be made in regard to many other public health programs.

Notwithstanding this gratifying effort on behalf of our health officials, however, there remains the need for expanding and improving our health efforts. I am, therefore, recommending that the Legislature consider the adoption of three new basic programs necessary for the well-being of the people of New Jersey.

1. State Aid to Local Health Services

The basic health protection services which are provided by many municipalities of our State are admittedly inadequate. As a result, our citizens who live in or who visit these municipalities are continually subjected to unnecessary health hazards. In a small state such as New Jersey, it is to the immediate benefit of everyone to maintain health standards at the highest possible level. I, therefore, recommend that the Legislature give prompt attention to a program of State aid for local health services which has been developed by the State Department of Health in conjunction with the Public Health Council and the Rutgers University Bureau of Government Research. Legislation will be introduced shortly to provide for three separate, but equally important, types of state health aid:

(a) Basic state aid for county health services would provide $25,000 for each county and would require an annual State appropriation of $525,000.

(b) State aid for local health services would be made available on the basis of local need and ability to pay. The Department estimates that when the entire State participates approximately $3,350,000 in State appropriation would be required annually.

(c) State aid for emergency and special services would be made available for allotment by the Commissioner of Health for a limited period to cover emergency situations and in order to stimulate the development of health services. An annual State appropriation of $500,000 is suggested in the legislation.

2. Public Health Sanitary Sewerage Facilities Planning Act

It has been the policy of the State Department of Health, in line with the report of the State Advisory Committee on Sewage Disposal, to encourage multi-municipal regional and valley sewerage projects in contrast to the old program of providing sewage disposal facilities on an individual municipal basis. The experience of the State Department of Health in recent years indicates that, even though relatively small sums of money are involved, the lack of appropriations to provide for feasibility studies in order to lay the groundwork for regional sewerage projects is a major hurdle. The money involved usually amounts to only a few thousand dollars per municipal entity, but usually such funds are not provided for in municipal budgets because most municipalities do not anticipate or agree upon the necessity for making such an inter-municipal study. The State Department of Health is convinced that, if funds could be made available on a State grant basis for feasibility studies, a great stimulant would be provided toward the planning, design and construction of much needed regional sewerage facilities.

The proposed legislation would authorize grants for the preparation of inter-municipal feasibility reports and it would provide further for loans from the State to municipal entities for planning and engineering of such projects. It is suggested that the moneys for feasibility studies would be outright grants from the State. The moneys for planning and engineering would be loans payable at the time the project was placed under construction or, if construction was not initiated within a three-year period, the planning and engineering loans would be repaid to the State at a low interest rate.

The Department believes the grant section of such a program could become operative with an annual appropriation of $500,000. The loan program would eventually require the creation of a revolving fund perhaps as large as $15 million. It could be activated, however, for a substantially lesser amount.

Both of these programs have been designated by the Department as highest priority needs if the public health of this State is to be maintained in the face of terrific growth pressures. As can be seen from the cost figures I have cited, these programs will require the appropriation of considerable sums of money. Should you agree with me as to the need for these programs, it will be necessary for us, cooperatively, to work out the required finances.

3. Air Pollution Control

Although I have noted the extent to which the Department of Health has increased its activities in many of the critical areas under its jurisdiction, a particularly vigorous enforcement effort has been carried on with regard to air pollution control. Since July 1962, more than 6,000 initial and follow-up air pollution investigations have been conducted. Two thousand enforcement actions were undertaken during this period.

Last year an additional State appropriation permitted the Department to qualify for one of the largest Federal grants made to any State for air pollution control activities. As a result of the additional State and Federal money, the Department was able to increase its staff in this work from 21 to 51 persons. This has provided the means for a strengthened program. I cannot stress too strongly, therefore, how important it is to the success of our efforts for the State to continue to support financially our air pollution control program.

Again, the improvements of the past cannot justify a relaxation. The fight against air pollution demands new efforts and new authorizations. Unlike the previous programs I have discussed in the area of public health, the proposals for an expanded air pollution control program concerning motor vehicles will not require the immediate expenditure of large sums of money. If the Legislature is willing to act, this program can be adopted forthwith.

As you know, the New Jersey Air Pollution Control Commission has been conducting an extensive study of this problem for more than a year. Its report, issued last September, points out the immediate need to vest authority in the State to require the use of air pollution control devices as effective equipment is developed.

Throughout this message, I discuss the responsibilities imposed upon us by the growth of the State. In dealing with the protection of our most vital natural asset—the air we breathe—these responsibilities must be recognized and exercised, diligently and with dispatch. The recommendations of the Air Pollution Control Commission have been developed into a four-point program. Enactment of this program not only would provide the appropriate State agencies with the necessary authority to act but also would recognize that the science of air pollution control is still developing and that it may be some time before truly effective devices are produced to control certain air pollution problems. I, therefore, urge the Legislature to give every consideration to legislation to accomplish the following:

(a) Authorize the Air Pollution Control Commission to adopt standards of emission of contaminants from motor vehicles; standards of quality of motor vehicle fuels; and standards for motor vehicle air pollution control systems; and authorize the Department of Health to review and approve such systems.

(b) Prohibit the registration of motor vehicles in this State unless they are designed, modified or equipped for the control of air pollution in conformity with standards adopted but providing that such a prohibition shall apply only to motor vehicles manufactured after the adoption of such standards.

(c) Enforce, through the motor vehicle inspection program, any requirements adopted that motor vehicles control the emission of contaminants in accordance with adopted standards.

(d) Make it a disorderly persons' offense (1) to operate motor vehicles emitting smoke in excess of standards adopted by the Commission; and (2) to sell motor vehicle fuel which fails to meet quality standards promulgated by the Commission.

ANOTHER NEED

In another health area, there is a need for action. Many of our counties and municipalities are confronted with increasing difficulties in finding adequate land areas for the disposal of garbage and other solid waste matter.

It has been suggested that a commission be established to study the availability of land sites and to consider various alternative methods for the elimination of this waste. I recommend the creation of such a commission.

PROTECTION OF THE CONSUMER

During the past fiscal year, the Consumers Fraud Bureau processed nearly 5,000 complaints and obtained refunds for consumers totalling nearly $400,000. While this worthwhile accomplishment attests to the effectiveness of our relatively new consumer protection program, unfortunately it is also symptomatic of the spread of sharp dealing by marginal operators.

New Jersey is in the forefront of those states which have adopted a progressive and enlightened approach to the age-old problems of consumer protection. Through a comprehensive system of licensing and regulation, we have branded unethical conduct also as unlawful conduct wherever abuses have appeared, and through a network of effective State agencies, we have enforced these laws with vigor and vigilance. The Bureau of Securities, another such agency, has put out of business most, if not all, of the "boiler shop" operations in this State and thereby has saved our citizens from the dangers inherent in illusory financial investments. Recent experience, however, has indicated that even more legislation in the field of consumer protection may soon be needed.

New Jersey does not, but should, have a law to require hotels, motels and other places of public accommodation to post their rental rates in each room. We should have a uniform and centralized system for the mandatory licensing and registration of door-to-door solicitors and peddlers. Our laws should require that used, reconditioned and rebuilt appliances, including radio and television tubes, be clearly labeled as such to eliminate deceptive guarantees and fictitious price reductions. There may be a need for regulatory legislation to protect prospective buyers of new homes from the consequences of contractors' defaults in performance. A model state securities registration act is now under review.

AN IMMEDIATE TARGET

Legislation in this area soon will be offered for your consideration. As to one particular target for corrective action, however, I urge your serious and immediate attention.

At my request, during this past year, the New Jersey Real Estate Commission has conducted an extensive investigation in the area of secondary financing commonly referred to as the "second mortgage" field. This investigation was occasioned by numerous and continuing complaints from individuals indicating the existence of a pattern of unethical and possibly unlawful conduct on the part of lenders. I am satisfied from my review of the Commission's report that there is a definite need for strong remedial legislation.

The investigation has revealed the existence of abuses with respect to certain aspects of secondary financing. There are those—and they should be distinguished from the established financial community—who engage in misleading advertising calculated to induce potential borrowers to consolidate their debts with the expectation that they will ease their financial plight. In a great many instances, the expectation of borrowers are defeated and their financial predicaments made worse. In most cases, hidden charges, unspecified fees and unfair interest rates result in a final indebtedness grossly in excess of the principal amount of the borrowing.

There is need, in many instances, for secondary credit and financing. Many people, despite existing primary obligations involving the mortgage payments on their homes and installments on automobiles and appliances, have continuing financial needs not the least of which may involve the cost of the college education of their children or the medical bills of their parents. Often, they can be met only by obtaining further credit.

In view of these circumstances, I have directed the Department of Banking and Insurance to work with the Attorney General and my legal staff toward the preparation of a new legislative program which will bring proper regulation and supervision to the field of "second mortgage" financing.

There is already established within the Department of Banking and Insurance a Division of Consumer Credit which now administers such important laws in this area as the Retail Installment Sales Act, the Home Repair Financing Act and the Small Loan Law. Through effective enforcement of these laws, this agency has obtained countless thousands of dollars worth of goods and services for consumers, and has collected thousands of dollars in penalties and fines from violators. The legislative program now contemplated will be a further step in the direction of assuring proper and safe practices in an area of financing which vitally affects the public.

THE PEOPLE'S SAFETY—DRINKING AND DRIVING

The relationship between consumption of alcohol and highway fatalities is now well known. A continuing program conducted by the Motor Vehicle Division and the Traffic Safety Council has shown that deaths of 56 per cent of drivers killed on the New Jersey highways each year involve an alcohol factor.

For the past two years, I have urged the Legislature to enact measures providing that the application for a driver's license implies the applicant's consent to submit to an alcohol determination test, when arrested on suspicion of drunkenness.

I feel that this legislation is imperative to the most effective enforcement of our motor vehicle laws. It could become a major factor in the reduction of the tragic death toll on our highways.

It is important that in considering this legislation you take equal care to protect the rights of the accused and the safety of those who use our highways. The measures I request take careful note of the constitutional rights of the accused as interpreted by the United States Supreme Court.

RENEWED EFFORTS

We persist in our efforts to persuade the State of New York to conform to a national standard by raising its minimum drinking age to 21. Rebuffed time and again, we have recently renewed our appeal to the Governor and the Legislature of our sister state in the name of those young people who we know must die on the highways because of the tragically unique law of New York.

I have heard many arguments, some of them inspired by dollars and cents considerations, that there is no causal connection between teenage drinking in New York and the carnage on our highways. In answer to these, I offer the unhappy statistics of death and serious injury among our youth who find easy access to alcoholic beverages across our borders.

As you know, I have named Ned J. Parsekian, former Director of Motor Vehicles, as my special consultant on the teenage drinking problem. It was Mr. Parsekian who prepared the excellent report which we presented to the New York State Joint Legislative Committee to study the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. As my consultant, he will continue to put to use his unquestioned expertise and will serve as an effective representative in our dealings with the State of New York.

Let me make it clear that we shall never abandon what we believe is a just cause. In the coming months we shall enlist the support of civic, governmental and religious leaders in New Jersey as well as New York in our endeavor to bring to bear every moral force in a struggle we must continue if we are to save the lives—even one life—of our young people.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

A paramount consideration of government is the protection of the persons and property of all who live within the social compact. Effective law enforcement is not an ordinary governmental service, but an absolute obligation owing from the State to its citizens. It is a matter of record that New Jersey in recent years has discharged that obligation faithfully and well.

A network of liaison and communication has been established among the Attorney General, the county prosecutors, the local police departments and the law enforcement agencies of the Federal government. The resulting close contact and coordination of activities have left no room for regional rivalries and duplication of effort. In New Jersey law enforcement is becoming, more and more, a concerted quest for the detection and elimination of unlawful activity wherever it may be found. During the past year, the Criminal Investigation Section of the Division of Law has conducted numerous investigations and criminal prosecutions in conjunction with local officials, and has amassed much valuable information concerning gambling, narcotics, vice and persons with established criminal reputations. County Prosecutors and municipal police chiefs have requested and received enforcement assistance from State officials, and in turn have cooperated to the hilt with the Attorney General's office.

NEEDED LEGISLATION

But it would be no favor to our citizens to dwell further upon the good quality of our present law enforcement apparatus. This is an area in which we cannot afford to stand still. With increasing urbanization, there are new problems which require greater sophistication in the field of law enforcement. One remedy lies in alleviating the manpower problems of our State and local police forces. Another rests in the adoption of a mandatory police training program. There are needs for a uniform system of crime reporting, and for legislation to secure vital testimony in criminal proceedings through a grant of witness immunity.

I have recommended all of these measures to you before, and it goes without saying that the need for their adoption persists from year to year with increasing urgency. I hope that the new session at last will produce a response to this need, for the unexplained inaction of the past does not present a record of concern for the public good.

Last year I advised you that the Attorney General was preparing legislation to update our existing laws regulating the sale and possession of firearms. Such legislation will soon be introduced for your consideration. The proposed bill is intended to embody a fair and balanced approach to this subject. Whatever minimum restrictions upon individual convenience might be involved, they are more than warranted by the need to provide maximum protection to the general public.

NARCOTICS—A NEW APPROACH

Recently I approved the basic proposal of the Narcotic Drug Study Commission which represents a pioneer adventure in the area of narcotic addiction control. The new program is directed toward the prevention and elimination of drug addiction through treatment and rehabilitation.

The accomplishments of this Commission demonstrate, in the most vivid sense, the constructive results which bipartisan effort can achieve even in a controversial area. When I first proposed this study in 1962, I was supported by Senate President Sandman and others of both parties, and this agreement laid the basis for the results which we have now acclaimed, with all the new hope that it means for the future. The legislation so recommended fulfills the mission I expressed in December, 1962, when I asked the Commission to determine a “new approach to the overall narcotics problem * * ” and to “ * * seriously explore the benefits that can come from a comprehensive integrated program of treatment and prevention.”

The Commission is continuing its study and we should all stand prepared to give prompt attention to the findings and recommendations they may submit.

The Department of Institutions and Agencies is now preparing to implement the new legislation. I have requested the Commissioner of the Department to prepare for submission to you a full report concerning the establishment of this program.

NEW CULTURAL HORIZONS

New Jersey lies between two of the world's great metropolitan centers of art and culture, New York City and Philadelphia, described 200 years ago as "The American Athens." This geographical fact has influenced greatly New Jersey's cultural development just as it has determined her development in other fields.

The proximity of these two great centers of art and learning provide for New Jersey citizens the opportunity to enjoy the theater, music of all types, great museums and libraries and all forms of popular entertainment with a variety and scope unequaled anywhere in the country and few places in the world.

The strong influence of and easy access to these great cities has in the past limited the development in New Jersey of more than a few great public institutions devoted to the arts. This lack has not, however, left New Jersey barren of culture or unresponsive to the arts. The converse is true. New Jersey citizens have long evidenced their involvement in the arts. Some of the nation's and the world's greatest poets, artists, writers, teachers and musicians have been Jerseymen.

And in New Jersey today there are tens of thousands of citizens engaged in the practice or active appreciation of one or more of the arts. It could be a member of a Garden Club arranging a floral display; an amateur actor on a suburban stage; a professional composing or interpreting music; or a stockbroker participating in a community orchestra. In our largest city, Newark, business and community leaders are working closely with the city administration to establish a cultural center in the former Mosque Theatre. And so on through an almost endless list.

As we enter our fourth century, however, New Jersey is preparing to assume a more active role for itself in the arts. We will seek to prove in the years ahead that a great industrial state can provide for its people the quality of cultural life as well as quantities of goods and services.

As a state often described as a single city-suburban complex, we will seek to show the nation that the elements of the aesthetic life can be made available not only to the wealthy patron of the arts but to those of modest means. We will attempt to demonstrate that the exaltation of art can inspire all people to achieve better than they had hoped for themselves, and thus recognize the hunger of the spirit as a part of the whole man.

We will open next month a new State Library, the first of the buildings in our new Cultural Center. This new structure will enable the State Library to exhibit properly the intellectual and cultural heritage of New Jersey. It will also provide adequate quarters for collections and services of great value to the three branches of our State government.

Within a few months, our new State Museum will open its doors. Its exhibitions will tell our citizens, especially our school children, the story of man's physical world and civilization. Our new planetarium will be one of the most modern in the country. It will unfold the new worlds of space and permit us to appreciate more graphically the scope and nature of the universe.

The State Museum will also undertake a program of support and acquisition in the fine arts, encouraging private donors to give or lend to its collection.

Our Art Commission created by this Legislature and including four of its members, is now conducting a definitive inventory of the arts in New Jersey. The Commission is ably assisted by a large and distinguished group of experts in all cultural fields, many of whom are men and women of national and international reputation. The Commission has already accumulated impressive evidence of the wealth and vitality of cultural activities now existent throughout New Jersey. The Commission's report, due at the end of this year, will help guide state action in this field. The modest financial needs of this Commission should be provided.

In his State of the Union Message last week, President Johnson outlined a new nationwide effort to "landscape our highways and provide places of relaxation and recreation wherever our roads run."

New Jersey has always made an effort to keep our highways aesthetically pleasing as well as functionally adequate. The landscaping of the Garden State Parkway is a good example.

A MAJOR STEP

I am pleased to announce today that we are to take a major step beyond this goal. I speak of the establishment of a Garden State Arts Center at Telegraph Hill on the Garden State Parkway in Monmouth County.

This center will include an amphitheater for concerts and a drama playhouse to be designed by an internationally famous architect. This cultural center ultimately will include an historical mall, botanical gardens and nature trails. All these facilities will be easily accessible to our mobile population, centrally located in our State near our urban places.

I will release further details on this new cultural center within a few weeks, but in the meanwhile it is fair to say that the new center will rival any similar facility in this country, and will be a place where natural beauty and art will combine to offer enjoyment a few short minutes from our cities.

Matthew Arnold once called culture "the acquainting of ourselves with the best that has been known and said in the world, and thus with the history of the human spirit." It is with this hope that I dedicate New Jersey to the pursuit of excellence in all fields. It is in this spirit that New Jersey must now seek to bring culture within the reach and into the lives of all our people.

OUR ENVIRONMENT THE DEVELOPMENT OF NATURAL ASSETS

Our forebears in a younger America were blessed with an abundance—even an overabundance—of natural resources. Land and the riches beneath it, the sea and its wealth, pure streams that laced the landscape, tall forests that spanned the horizon, all were theirs in seemingly inexhaustible supply. Today, we enjoy an abundance of another sort in the products of a technological civilization. But this is not an unmixed blessing, particularly in our urbanized New Jersey.

The resources that once appeared limitless now must be carefully treasured. Conscience and wisdom alike must dictate the public investment necessary to develop to the full our water supplies, to preserve our rapidly disappearing fields and woods and lakes, to develop these green areas for the enjoyment of our urban multitudes and to reclaim for community development the stretches of meadowland that were bypassed in the earlier growth of our cities and towns.

We have turned our strength in this direction, particularly in the last decade. For New Jersey, high among its assets, can list a public sense of prudence. Let us look now at some of the results of this foresight.

WATER—A SPECIAL CONCERN

Water supply has been a subject of special concern to this State. I am pleased to report to you some of the noteworthy progress that has been made in the past year to assure our future water resources.

The Spruce Run-Round Valley Reservoir system was originally designed to produce an expected dependable yield of 130 million gallons per day. At the termination of hearings before the Water Policy and Supply Council—and with ingenuity which deserves the compliments of every citizen of the State—our Conservation Department devised a distribution plan which will increase this potential output to 200 million gallons per day. The additional 70 million gallons which will result from the use of the Raritan River has the effect of providing another reservoir at no added cost to the State. The meaning of this vast water supply to the northeast metropolitan area of our State is obvious.

We anticipate that the Tocks Island Reservoir, to be developed by the Delaware River Basin Commission, can provide 150 million gallons per day as an additional source of water to Round Valley. Beyond this, New Jersey is seeking 150 million gallons per day to be taken from the River at Frenchtown for distribution out of Round Valley. Thus Round Valley may justly be described as the "hub of the waterwheel of the State." The initial storage of 55 billion gallons can be increased economically to 75 billion gallons for storage of pumped diversions of water from the Delaware River and other sources to increase the availability of stored water on a safe dependable yield basis to 300 million gallons daily or more.

In another significant development last year, a total of 2,000 of the 6,000 acres required for the Hackettstown Reservoir on the upper Musconetcong River was purchased under our open space program and our Conservation Department is actively negotiating to acquire the remainder. This was done in compliance with the comprehensive plan approved by the State and the Delaware River Basin Commission for optimum development of the water and related natural resources of the interstate Delaware River Basin. These lands have high immediate recreation potential and are necessary to eventual development of the water resources of the Musconetcong River for the future needs of that valley and adjacent areas. By maximum utilization of this site, a dependable gross supply of 58 million gallons daily can be developed for use in the valley.

SETTING ASIDE FOR THE FUTURE

With our State's continued growth, we find ourselves competing with other land uses for reservoir sites. For this reason I shall request from the Legislature in 1965 authorization to use funds dedicated in 1958 for site acquisition for the purchase of a major reservoir site on the Six Mile Run in the Millstone Valley. This reservoir will provide the storage necessary for maximum utilization of the 100 million gallon daily diversion from the Delaware River Basin authorized for our use by the 1954 United States Supreme Court decision. Through this storage, the year-round usable water from the Delaware and Raritan Canal can be increased by 28 million gallons daily. The total net dependable supply, including that developed by the natural runoff on Six Mile Run, will be 38 million gallons daily. We have been working closely with local and county officials in Franklin Township and Somerset County to develop this multi-purpose water and recreational facility which will produce great benefits for the entire area.

In parallel developments, preliminary engineering studies and land-value appraisals have been completed for a third reservoir system on the Manasquan River. This system is designed to meet the expanding needs of Monmouth and Ocean Counties. Also, the site of the lower intake reservoir adjacent to Allaire State Park is about to be acquired.

In addition to our State's reservoir program as such, three new reservoir projects approved by the State Council of Water Policy and Supply have been developed in recent years by local water supply interests to meet the demands of their respective service areas. The latest of these to be readied for service is the Point View Reservoir.

Progress has also been made in the state-wide investigation of ground water resources which is of special interest to the coastal plain areas of South Jersey. In this ground water survey the United States Department of the Interior is a full participant with New Jersey—another vivid example of the federal-state partnership which means so much to the people of New Jersey.

A CONTINUING DANGER

While New Jersey is blessed with rich ground water resources in the coastal plain area, such fresh resources are subject to contamination by salt water as a result of excessive pumping.

Three studies of salt water intrusion have been completed and released. One of these has revealed the need for immediate action in the Sayreville area. Preliminary engineering studies are near completion. At the appropriate time I shall request authorization by the Legislature to acquire the site and begin construction of a tidal dam and recharge pond on the South River. Early action on this project is essential to protect the Old Bridge formation from the salt water encroachment which destroyed much of the Far-rington Sands water bearing strata more than three decades ago. This development will augment the natural yield of the Old Bridge Sands water bearing strata by an estimated 30 million gallons daily by recharge from the South River.

As has been true in other fields, New Jersey achieved another first when, by virtue of the Private Surface Water Diversion Act of 1963, we established 100 per cent regulatory right over our water resources. This Act has insured that these vital assets will be wisely and effectively utilized.

The comprehensive program of the States of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware and the Federal government to harness and conserve the waters of the Delaware River Basin has evidenced sustained progress by the Delaware River Basin Commission during the past year. Water supply policies adopted and budgetary actions recommended would insure the timely progress of construction of major multi-purpose dams and reservoirs within the Basin, including Tocks Island. This has protected New Jersey's interests on a truly state-wide basis. Tocks Island and the other Basin projects will guarantee the maintenance of adequate flow in the Delaware River and will protect South Jersey's water supply for generations to come.

Our State program of developing water resources is one of the most enlightened in the Nation. As Governor of New Jersey I have confidence that we have secured an adequate water supply for this State well into the 21st Century. We must, however, never forget our obligation to future generations to preserve our existing water resources and to continue the battle against the pollution of our streams and waterways. More and more we must use these streams as sources of supply and conduits to distribute water.

The bright hopes mentioned by our President for the purity of America's water supply we hope will come to fruition in New Jersey and be aided by the establishment here of a Federal water pollution laboratory for the Middle Atlantic States.

THE VISION OF GREEN ACRES

The past year was one of continued accomplishment in our State's Green Acres Open Space Land Conservation Program. During 1964, the State doubled the acreage acquired in the first two years of the program, bringing the total to 30,000 acres of land purchased or under contract for purchase. Last year, the number and amounts of grants paid to counties and municipalities under the Green Acres Matching Assistance Program was more than doubled.

Green Acres has already provided the people of New Jersey with many significant new park and other outdoor recreation areas. Lake Wawayanda, Greenwood Lake shore, Palisades-Alpine area, Corsons Inlet Beach, and the Collier's Mills addition among a number of others have been added to our State's impressive inventory of public parks and forests.

To help preserve the natural beauty of the Palisades and hand down to succeeding generations some knowledge of the historical fullness of the events which occurred there during the War for our Independence, we have moved promptly to acquire open space there which otherwise could be destroyed by commercial encroachment.

In 1964, Green Acres added to Shepard Lake tract to Ringwood State Park, the area at the lighthouse at Cape May Point, the Double Trouble tract, a major portion of Monmouth Battleground, and many conservation acres of wetland along the Atlantic and Delaware Bay coast.

Scheduled to be purchased in the coming months are such significant areas as Liberty Park, overlooking not only the Statue of Liberty but the recently recommended national historical site on Ellis Island in New York Harbor, Great and Little Piece Meadows, Troy Meadows, Hackettstown Reservoir and recreation site, Cedar Island, Higbee Beach, and many other natural areas.

NEW JERSEY—A MODEL

In fulfilling the mandate of the people, our State has demonstrated the leadership and foresight which has made our Green Acres Program a model for similar open space land conservation programs in the Nation. And the people are sharing in this leadership, in the form of the consultation and assistance the Department of Conservation and Economic Development is receiving from the Green Acres Citizens Advisory Committee.

Our pioneering efforts in this vital field have resulted in extra benefits under the provisions of the Federal Open Space Assistance Program of the HHFA. New Jersey presently has pending applications totaling nearly $7 million which will be used to make further State land acquisitions.

The total commitments of the Green Acres Program now include 122 projects involving approximately 5,000 parcels comprising 175,000 acres. Under the matching program, in addition to the grants paid, the State has given at least preliminary approval to 194 local applications. Nine of our counties and 83 municipalities have made one or more applications in this program.

It is now imperative that we act forthwith to implement and prepare our lands for early and multi-purpose use. The Federal government has recognized the outdoor recreation needs of our citizens in the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1964. The Department of Conservation and Economic Development is actively pursuing the State's participation in this federal-state matching assistance fund for the development of these land areas.

The entrance, admission and recreation use fees that will accrue to the State as soon as these new areas can be opened to the public will help sustain and maintain these properties; but meanwhile, it is incumbent upon all of us to recognize and support the capital improvements and maintenance programming that will be required to continue New Jersey's progress in recreation.

ENJOYMENT OF THE LAND

In our continuing efforts to provide parks and recreational facilities for the people of New Jersey, I am happy to list the following among our accomplishments during 1964:

1. Completion of more than 750 new campsites throughout the State to more than triple the number available.
2. Construction of a new bathhouse and 800-car parking lot at Sandy Hook State Park.
3. Completion of a new general utility building at Island Beach State Park.
4. Completion of a new Batsto Recreation-Reception Center Building and formal opening of the Revolutionary War Iron Center.

5. Completion of a new day use area with expanded picnic facilities and new bathing area at Stokes State Forest to accommodate 2,000 persons.
6. The acquisition of the new 541-acre Shepard Lake addition to Ringwood State Park under the Green Acres Program, and the opening of this Park to the public.
7. The opening of Wawayanda State Park, consisting of more than 4,000 acres for a variety of uses, including boating, hiking and fishing.
8. The addition of approximately 10,000 acres of land for development as hunting and fishing areas with suitable facilities.
9. Installation of ticket-dispensing machines at major park areas to speed up the flow of traffic and save operating costs.
10. As a result of thorough research, 376 historic roadside markers were placed throughout the State for the further enrichment of our citizens' understanding of its magnificent heritage.

Constantly seeking new ways to protect the State's existing resources, we have established a Conservation Law Enforcement Board to direct the overall enforcement of the conservation laws. This Board provides for maximum utilization of men and equipment, including the use of radar, helicopters, mobile and marine patrols on a coordinated basis. One significant result of its activities has been a marked decrease in the littering of our coast. This is an important factor in the protection of our seashore and our resort industry.

Strict enforcement of New Jersey's boating laws by paid marine patrolmen resulted in the safest boating season in our history last year. Despite the record number of 200,000 boats on New Jersey waters, the number of fatalities in 1964 dropped to 16 as compared with 32 in 1963. And we have fostered the continuing growth of recreational boating in another significant way. This administration encouraged and has signed into law a provision removing the threat of local property taxation from pleasure boats. The Legislature has indicated its intention to substitute a registration system, this yield of which would be used for the improvements of waterways.

URBAN AREAS—AN OPPORTUNITY FOR ACTION

New Jersey has set a national standard in the conservation and preservation of natural resources with our Green Acres program of open space acquisition, development of State parks and forests, and a far-reaching water resources development program. But it is equally essential and the opportunity is again present, for our State to seek leadership in the vital field of developing and conserving our urban resources.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

The need for a Department of Community Affairs becomes more urgent almost daily. President Johnson has spoken persuasively of the need for a similar agency on the federal level. And we, the most urban state in the nation, with 85 per cent of our citizens in urban areas, can no longer ignore the obvious need for the new department at the State level. It is needed to administer the many programs and bring together for better service the various agencies whose major responsibilities are directed toward serving our local communities.

I advanced the concept of this new Department in my campaign for the governorship in 1961. Early in this administration we began a careful effort to implement the idea. A painstaking study developed specific and well-documented recommendations. Last year, we introduced legislation carrying out the report of this study. The plan has won commendation from numerous groups concerned with the administration of local government. It has been discussed in a number of significant public forums. The Legislature has had extensive opportunity for review of the proposals.

The cost of this Department would be modest indeed when compared with the efficiency and service it could bring to local government and to State agencies serving the counties and municipalities.

To date, the Legislature has ignored this proposal. I call on you to take action in 1965 for a Department of Community Affairs on behalf of improved government on the level at which it is closest to the people.

MIDDLE-INCOME HOUSING

The present deficit in New Jersey's middle-income housing supply is estimated at 100,000 units and growing. It is obvious that this is the area of need that private enterprise has not been able to fill, and, therefore the State must take the initiative.

The middle-income housing program I proposed last year, using low interest, long-term State financing, would in effect permit private developers to construct housing which our middle-income families can afford. This program would aid the construction industry and set an example of cooperative effort by government and private industry to meet a serious need in our society. It would apply to all municipalities in the State and not be restricted only to first class cities. I again commend this matter to your attention.

HOUSING FOR THE ELDERLY

In the field of housing for the elderly, our State can indeed be proud of its accomplishment. We have more low-rent public housing for the elderly than any other state. A good beginning has been made in the middle-income housing for the elderly program administered by the Community Facilities Administration. Under this program, which provides low interest, long-term loans to private, non-profit corporations, consumer cooperatives and certain public agencies, three projects have been approved and several more are in planning.

But the need for this type of housing will continue to increase as our population grows older and medical progress prolongs life spans. We must be alert to our future needs and be prepared to provide this housing. I am therefore requesting the Bureau of Housing to analyze our future needs in this vital field and prepare a program of State participation to meet them.

URBAN RENEWAL

The Federal urban renewal program offers tremendous potential in revitalizing our cities, preventing and clearing blight, and correcting the effects of many years without planning. Close to fifty New Jersey municipalities have initiated 105 urban renewal projects, representing a gross investment of $370 million.

Under present federal legislation, one-third of the total cost must be borne by our local communities and two-thirds by the Federal government. In many communities, the one-third requirement poses a real deterrent and has resulted in deferment of many projects.

If we are to achieve the real potential of urban renewal in our State and develop the improved environment which will provide benefits for all aspects of our society—residential, commercial and industrial—the State must be prepared to invest in the future and render direct financial assistance to our local municipalities. Here again, an increased level of State revenues is vital. With new resources, the local financial burden could be eased, permitting acceleration of the program to rebuild our communities. The increased ratables resulting from urban renewal, the saving in municipal services, and the strengthening of our local economic opportunities would make State participation a unique investment for the future of all our citizens.

THE SEARCH FOR ECONOMIC STRENGTH

In the past three years, and particularly in 1964, our State and Nation have enjoyed one of the greatest periods of economic prosperity and expansion in our history. It can truly be said that we now are in the second industrial revolution. The birth of this great economic era has been fostered by our extraordinary scientific and technological achievements. New Jersey is among the leading states in research and development, international commerce and industrial investment for new plants and equipment—each a basic index of the new industrial era. As the most urban State in the nation and with our exploding population growth, with intensive automation in manufacturing, and with the essential need for new jobs, we must be quick to recognize the obsolescence of plant equipment and techniques, particularly in our urban centers; we must meet the challenge of competition from other states, and we must prepare the rapid and constant change of emphasis in defense-oriented industries and in almost every other field of industrial endeavor.

While we have achieved, over the years, considerable success within the present framework of our economic development structure, we should carefully scrutinize the structure itself to determine what changes are necessary to ensure that our State continues to remain the leader in these fields.

I believe we have demonstrated during the past year the ability to move in a decisive and positive manner. Among our achievements has been the establishment of an International Commerce Section in the Department of Conservation and Economic Development, a move vigorously supported by leading manufacturers. We have opened the first out-of-state commerce and promotional office at Rockefeller Center. We distribute at this center material and information on New Jersey's tourist and resort centers, industrial potential and commercial opportunities.

AN EXACTING SCIENCE

Industrial development is rapidly becoming an exacting science. To meet the ever-mounting competition, many state development agencies are analyzing in detail the components of their respective economies to determine their strengths and weaknesses. Industries today do not capriciously or arbitrarily locate their new facilities. Decisions of the magnitude that these moves entail are made only after months and, in many cases, years of research and analysis of all factors which could conceivably affect the companies. And these state industrial development agencies are being staffed and manned by personnel who can communicate convincingly and knowledgeably on these topics; and they are prepared to answer questions, often highly technical and complex, which industries need to make their decisions.

We must recognize that New Jersey's prominence in our nation's economic structure cannot be maintained, in the face of the present fierce competition for new industry and new job opportunities, without decisive action.

To meet this challenge I recommend the establishment of a full Division of Economic Development with broadly expanded responsibilities to replace the present Bureau of Commerce.

I further recommend the formation within this Division of a broadly representative New Jersey State Economic Development Council to aid and promote sound industrial development and expansion as part of this major reorganization of the State's economic effort. The Council would advise the Commissioner and the Division on policy relating to all phases of the State's development program, and would serve as liaison with all phases of private business endeavor within New Jersey.

BROAD REPRESENTATION

The Council would be composed of representatives of the top echelon of industry, labor, banking and finance, commerce, utilities and the professions. New Jersey would draw upon their expertise, experience and knowledge in their respective fields to promote a complete community of endeavor for the future economic well being of the State.

Within the Division a new convention and tourist bureau would be established to aid and assist New Jersey's largest single industry—the $2 billion-a-year resort and tourist trade which comprises the economic base for over one hundred New Jersey municipalities. Its function would afford effective coordination with the resort organizations to formulate publicity campaigns and convention and tourist attraction programs.

New Jersey must continue to advance decisively in the field of international commerce, finding new markets for New Jersey products and attracting overseas investments to our State. This would be another important operation of the new Division.

A prime function of the Division would encompass all phases of the State's industrial and commercial development. It would have major responsibility for the direct solicitation of firms and would assist prospective industries in finding suitable locations within the State. Experienced technical representatives would be assigned to work within specific industrial specialties such as research and development, chemicals, pharmaceuticals, electronics, and the many others that contribute to our total economic structure. Teams of specialists made up of industrial and labor representatives of the industry involved as well as State personnel, would act as economic task forces, bringing to each industrial mission the full economic resources of the State—public and private.

ANOTHER APPROACH

And I propose that we broaden those resources. The traditional approach of this and other states to industrial development has been in the area of advertising-related promotion. While I am convinced that we must continue to make known New Jersey's manifest advantages through these means, the sophisticated nature of today's competition for industry demands more.

I propose, therefore, that our State program be reoriented to encourage industries to find out the facts about New Jersey on an economically scientific basis. In this first year, I recommend that a special fund of $200,000 be established for a program in which the State would agree to pay up to 50 per cent of the cost of approved surveys which would explore the feasibility of contemplated private investment in New Jersey. The State, of course, would have to be satisfied that :

1. The proposed private investment would contribute to New Jersey's economy and to the creation of jobs here; and
2. There would have to be reasonable prospect that the survey would result in an investment.

The survey would normally explore and analyze the technical economic feasibility of proposed investments. This would include analysis of the potential market, plant location, raw material availability, zoning requirements, topographic characteristics, labor supply, profitability and other financial considerations.

If the prospective investor proceeds with the project following the survey and his undertaking is successful, he would be expected to repay to the State those funds which have been advanced to him. The investor would retain exclusive rights to the survey. But if the prospective investor does not undertake the investment under study, the survey would then become the property of the State government for use in other industrial development efforts.

I think you will agree that industries which take this business-like look at New Jersey will find our State attractive and will invest here. I believe this approach, which stresses a hard look where it counts, will represent a meaningful broadening of the promotional-type programs we are now conducting. Furthermore, the funds which we shall continue to appropriate for industrial promotion would be used to disseminate information on this new industrial survey program.

A STATISTICAL RESERVOIR

This intensified effort to win new industry would depend, in great part, on a full reservoir of economic data, especially statistical information. This material should be readily available to the industrial service information center that would be part of the new Division of Economic Development. Here would be a dramatic use for electronic data processing equipment to be employed by the State government on an interdepartmental basis. I discuss that program in fuller detail elsewhere in this message.

We are challenged today to provide a livelihood for new millions of New Jerseyans in coming decades. This requires an administrative structure that can meet and surpass our competition. I believe that the economic development program that I have proposed for your consideration will maintain and enhance New Jersey's leadership in this basic responsibility of government.

LABOR, A CHANGING DEMAND

Industry in New Jersey is strongly oriented toward research and the technical areas of manufacturing. Our county colleges promise to play an increasingly important role in meeting the need of numbers of skilled technicians. We must insure that the development of these institutions meets the particular requirements of our industry and the economy as a whole.

I would hope that labor and business will take an active interest in the development and direction of the colleges and their vital role in strengthening New Jersey manpower resources.

The Department of Labor and Industry will continue to work closely with New Jersey business and industry to obtain advanced notice of impending job displacements as insights into longer range manpower develops.

Defense Department policies are having a profound effect on employment patterns in defense-oriented industries and areas surrounding military installations. We will take every action to minimize the disruption of our labor force and the impact of these changes on our local economies.

I have repeatedly fought not only to retain existing defense work and installations but to bring additional Federal work into the State. I am pleased to report that where we have lost a Federal installation—such as the Raritan Arsenal—there have been developed by careful planning great new industrial parks which will create hundreds of new jobs.

TRENDS AND NEEDS

In the area of labor activity last year, there were exhibited the signs of growth and change which are the mark of this State. Current trends indicate continued expansion in 1965 with growth in personal income and employment matching or exceeding 1964.

Total employment, now nearly 2.5 million, is at an all-time high. Throughout 1964 the jobless rate was the lowest since 1956.

The Cabinet Economic Committee, created by the administration has documented the hallmarks of growth in almost every area of our economic life.

However, our record of accomplishment leaves much unfinished business. General prosperity is of little consequence to the workers displaced by automation and technological change, to the young worker ill-prepared to take his place in an increasingly competitive job market, or to the many thousands of workers who remain unprotected by legislation on our books. Over the years our labor laws have been riddled by exceptions and their floor of protection remains inadequate for the high cost of the basic American standard of living in the 1960's.

THE JOB AHEAD

This Legislature inherits from its predecessors the need to address itself to:

- * A meaningful minimum wage bill without those countless exceptions perennially proposed in the Senate so that full-time working heads of families do not remain on a roster of the working poor.
- * Prompt enactment of the modern comprehensive worker health and safety bill. Present law hampers modern industrial processes and leaves a million workers wholly unprotected in their work places.
- * Prompt action on the recommendations of the Joint Legislative Study Commission on Workmen's Compensation.
- * A review and adjustment of benefit rate schedules of workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance and temporary disability benefits in the light of current circumstances.
- * Development of a labor relations law which will facilitate and expedite peaceful settlement of labor-management disputes, including those in industries franchised by the State.

In many other areas our Department of Labor and Industry is working to improve opportunities for those who seek employment in New Jersey. The past year has seen substantial improvements in the housing of the migrant worker, with improved sanitation and heating facilities. Central heating systems have been installed in more than 80 camps, and indoor facilities for bathing and washing have replaced hand pumps.

Regulations governing the installation of heating facilities have been developed with safety experts and will be issued in 1965 as a further safeguard of lives and property.

Continued mechanization of farming will further reduce the number of jobs for migratory workers. If they are to be productive members of society, they must be equipped with the necessary skills to take their place in vastly different jobs. Our State Office of Economic Opportunity is working with the Department of Labor and Industry, the Department of Education, and the communities of the State to develop programs to train the migratory worker.

THE LINK OF THE ECONOMY—TRANSPORTATION

Few problems involve New Jersey citizens so immediately as their daily confrontation with inadequacies of transportation. The vexations of traffic congestion, insufficient parking facilities, uncertain commuter railroad service and the tragedy of a steadily rising highway death toll are constant concerns for all of us.

And nowhere in America are the problems of transportation more acute than in our State—the most highly urbanized and heavily traveled in the Nation. Our widely dispersed industry, combined with a growing urban mobile population, impose ever-increasing demands for an improved transportation system. We are a motorized society. The number of motor vehicles owned and driven by New Jersey residents has tripled in the past generation to almost 3 million this year. We now have almost one vehicle for every two residents. This trend shows no sign of leveling off. Estimates show that registrations a generation hence will reach almost 6 million. These figures speak for themselves and must concern all who live and work in our State.

Only through foresight and advance planning can we safeguard the established patterns of our community life against unnecessary disruptions and insure the most effective use of all forms of transportation. The present Federal Highway program makes no provision for sharing the costs of adapting our roads to recognize their impact on our communities and on the natural beauty of our countryside. The Congress will soon be considering new legislation to succeed the present Interstate Highway program. I will urge them to build into this new program provisions to permit us to plan our highways so as to harmonize with their environment. Transportation must advance our economy, but not at the cost of destroying our neighborhoods.

THE EFFORT TO KEEP PACE

During the past 10 years New Jersey has made strenuous and often pioneering efforts to meet the transportation challenge, yet the available financial resources have constantly been inadequate and the list of our needs has grown even longer. The State Highway Department has taken significant steps in the past three years in its all-out battle to modernize our overloaded highway system. For instance, the last two annual construction programs of the Department—totaling about $350 million—represent a major advance in fiscal planning. The Department achieved the difficult goal of matching all available Federal aid one year in advance of the time when some of it would ordinarily have become available. This was accomplished as a direct result of an accounting modernization program within the Highway Department which began shortly after this administration came into office. This management effort, among other things, permits faster and more effective use of available State funds.

Much has also been accomplished in the field of electronic highway engineering, utilizing machines installed in 1962. Engineering problems are being solved more rapidly with great savings. Another important development has been the use of electronically processed safety data to help establish priorities for remaining projects in the Department's present Master Plan. Roving teams of traffic engineers form a mobile safety division, to check continuously for highway design deficiencies at high-accident locations.

Recent years have seen increased emphasis on the planning which is so essential to the continuing development of adequate systems. We have recognized the importance of a balance of all modes of transportation and have developed programs designed to move people, rather than merely automobiles. At both ends of the State, executive leadership has played a crucial role in forging inter-governmental and interstate arrangements to secure comprehensive planning. The Penn-Jersey Transportation Study promises to provide a blueprint for sound transportation in the Philadelphia-Camden region and, in the New York metropolitan area, the Tri-State Transportation Committee has been engaged in the most comprehensive regional transportation study ever undertaken in this country. In other urban areas of our State, planning groups have been established by the Highway Department. Moreover, in order to create an overall transportation policy for the State, I have appointed an Advisory Committee on Transportation, consisting of Karl E. Metzger, Paul L. Troast and G. Raymond Wood, and I am pleased to report that this group has already made a start in its studies for a State plan.

METROPOLITAN GAINS

Through the efforts of our State government, regional mass transit improvements have been accomplished in both of our metropolitan areas—the Delaware River Port Authority's Kirkwood Transit Line in Camden County and the Port of New York Authority's acquisition and improvement of the Hudson and Manhattan Tubes. Rehabilitation of the Hudson Tubes is proceeding rapidly and some new cars are about to be placed in service. Only a few months from now, in June, with the delivery of 162 new cars—the only all-air conditioned rapid transit fleet in the Nation will be in use.

Continuance of railroad commuting service has been assured for the time being by passenger service contracts covering the principal commuter lines and a start has been made on reorganizing rail service on a sounder basis. The integration of the Boonton Line and Greenwood Lake Division on the Erie-Lackawanna was accomplished last year—not only benefiting the railroad substantially by reducing its operating costs, but providing better service for many commuters. Construction to consolidate the passenger facilities of the Pennsylvania and Central Railroads under the Aldene Plan is under way.

In highway construction we can also report progress. More than a quarter of a billion dollars worth of highway construction has been completed in New Jersey since January 1, 1962. Yet this amount plainly has been insufficient when one considers the towering cost of highway construction in this urbanized state. New Jersey ranks third among all the states, in fact, in the cost per mile of constructing its highways, and costs of $10 million a mile in our urban areas are not unusual as compared with an average nationwide cost $1 million a mile for interstate highways. Acquiring land for highways is also a major problem in a state such as ours where open space is being consumed rapidly.

As the demand for space builds up, the cost of land for highways skyrockets.

A YEAR'S DEVELOPMENTS

This past year has seen the opening of the Bergen Expressway from the George Washington Bridge to the Garden State Parkway. Significant sections of Interstate Routes 287 and 295 have been opened to traffic. Route 3, the major approach to the Lincoln Tunnel, has been greatly improved all the way to Route 20 and the bottleneck at the Hackensack River eliminated. In the southern part of the State the Atlantic City Expressway from Camden is now a reality, and purchase of right-of-way for the Route 55 Freeway has started. The Cape May-Lewes Ferry is in operation and the Gloucester-Chester Bridge has been approved. In the center of the State, planning has started on a Trenton spur to the Turnpike which will connect with a modernized and dualized Route 33 to give rapid and convenient access between Trenton and the Jersey Shore.

Progress has likewise been made in the area of research and traffic safety. Experiments are progressing with low-level lighting, special pavement protection and the development of pavement designs of greater strength and durability. The products of past research—center barriers, jug-handle turns and creeper lanes—are modernizing our highways throughout the State and saving lives.

None of these occurrences, however, detract from the fact that we face a transportation crisis in this State. If we move forward resolutely, our progress to date can provide a solid foundation for the solution of our problems. If, on the other hand, we dodge the issue, we face major risks the loss of new industry inconvenience and danger to our people and decline in our position as a leading business State. Despite our progress, our major shortcomings remain inadequate staff, inability to make advance purchases of right-of-way and lack of an adequate and stable source of construction funds to maintain a vigorous program.

—If we had sufficient funds, for example, it would be easier to come to agreement with local officials and residents more quickly on the alignment of the new freeways so badly needed in our urban areas. These local controversies have delayed many essential projects to the point of almost complete frustration.

- If we had sufficient funds to invest in advance purchase of right-of-way, the taxpayers of New Jersey would save many millions of dollars.
- If we had sufficient funds to invest in staff, much could be saved by eliminating the need to pay a fee, profit included, to engineering consultants.
- If we had sufficient funds, we could maintain a meaningful program of State aid to counties and municipalities which would enable these local governments to contend with the tremendous volumes of traffic entering and leaving the State highway system.

The successes and the failures of our highway program in meeting our transportation problems can be precisely measured by the degree of this State's willingness to spend money.

THE COMMUTER—SPECIAL NEEDS

In the area of mass transit, I have noted that our subsidy program has thus far preserved essential commuter service, but all who use these services recognize the precarious nature of this continuance. Most of our commuter railroads find themselves in financial straits and inevitably seek to eliminate or cut down these unprofitable services. These commuter services are essential and they must be continued. We must mutually resolve that the commuter lines continue to provide ample convenient service.

Last year I approved a new Railroad Passenger Service Law which permits us to tailor the allocation of our subsidies to meet the particular needs of each of our commuter lines. Under this program substantially greater help is being given to those railroads with more desperate financial need. We will continue this program, and even modestly increase it. But the railroads on their part must accept the responsibilities inherent in the public utility nature of their business. We offer help and encouragement with the consolidation and integration of commuter lines, but we shall fight with all our strength any attempts to seek curtailment of commuter service. We will cooperate in the projected reorganizations of the eastern railroads, but we shall insist that our railroads participate and benefit from these consolidations, as a matter of their survival.

The aid we have given to date has been substantial. Last year subsidy payments amounted to $7,240,000. Since the inception of the program, the railroads have received over $30 million from the State. Just last month I signed a bill which offered substantial savings to the railroads by the total elimination of Class I and Class III taxes. Consolidation of existing lines at State expense, as at Aldene, has and will result in substantial operating economies. Local communities are now permitted by law to share in the cost of maintaining and improving station facilities. Our efforts to date have been many and they have been resolute. I invite other suggestions from the Legislature, and I will give full consideration to any recommendations it cares to make.

Our task—which the State has carried out alone to date—is made the easier by the passage by Congress of the Urban Transportation Act of 1964. At my direction, our Division of Railroad Transportation is perfecting plans to have New Jersey fully participate in this program.

The integration of commuter rail and bus service must be encouraged. By the coordination of services and easy transfer between various modes of transportation, needed flexibility can be given to our fixed rail lines, making them convenient to the commuter and relieving rush-hour congestion on our highways. I have asked President Hyland and Commissioner Palmer to undertake the study and implementation of this proposal.

THE BROAD LOOK, REGIONAL PLANNING

Our accomplishments in the field of transportation planning have been substantial, yet unless we take affirmative action in the very near future our leading planning agency will be destroyed. The Tri-State Transportation Committee cannot much longer continue to operate under an informal executive arrangement. To insure the development of a truly satisfactory master plan for the development of transportation in the northern area of this State and to meet the requirements of the Federal Highway Act of 1962, it is imperative that a formal interstate arrangement be legislated.

Nine million dollars, principally from Federal funds, has already been spent in the most extensive regional planning investigation ever conducted in this Nation. This investment must not be lost. But beyond that, the money loss would be but a shadow of the resultant damage to the millions who live in this region.

I intend shortly to arrange a bipartisan meeting of Governor Rockefeller and the New York legislative leaders and our own legislative leaders to consider this vexing problem. It is my hope that this group will work out the final answer. When such a solution is presented, I hope you will give it your urgent and prompt consideration, for the crucial date of July 1, 1965—by which time our regional relationships must have been legislatively formalized—is almost upon us.

JETPORT, A CONTINUING SEARCH

We are all too familiar with the most recent developments concerning the proposed jetport to require the repetition of these facts. I remain firm in my conviction that a new major jetport is a necessity to the economic growth of this entire region and that New Jersey as a state represents the best possible location for such an installation.

I have therefore directed Commissioner Roe and his Bureau of Aeronautics to keep in close contact with all of the agencies that will be concerned in a final resolution of this matter, including the Port Authority, the Federal Aviation Administration and the military authorities who will determine the future utilization of McGuire Air Force Base.

I shall report promptly to you any developments concerning this most important project.

AN URBAN FRONTIER—THE MEADOWS

Continued progress was made this past year in our efforts to plan for the reclamation and development of the Hackensack

Meadows, one of the last large tracts of unused land within the metropolitan area.

The overall program is unique and is unquestionably one of the outstanding examples of regional, local and inter-governmental cooperation in our Nation. It is being coordinated by the Meadowlands Regional Development Agency (MRDA), consisting of 13 municipalities which share the Hackensack Meadows. Federal, State and private agencies are also deeply involved in the Meadowlands plan. When all the various agencies complete their studies, we shall be well on our way to realizing the age-old dream of putting these wetlands into productive use.

Although the planning and engineering solutions are necessary and important first steps, dependent upon each other for the development of a feasible and workable plan for reclamation and development, we also recognize the multitude of jurisdictional, fiscal and administrative problems which have impeded past attempts at development. Calling upon the varied resources and expertise of Rutgers, the State University, and with Federal financial assistance, a joint, area-wide plan of implementation is being formulated.

As part of the program, the Commission to Study Meadowland Development, consisting of outstanding private citizens and chaired by my predecessor, former Governor Robert B. Meyner, is insuring that the overall public interest is considered and that all efforts are coordinated in achieving the desired results, including the solution of riparian land problems, within the boundaries of legislation which might have to be adopted to meet this problem which is as old as New Jersey itself.

The dedicated efforts of all agencies at all levels of government will lend direction to this program for application in other areas of the State. The coordinated approach which has evolved for the development of the Meadowlands will result in great economic and social benefits not only to the Meadowlands communities but to the entire State and region as well.

FEDERALISM—THE FRUITS OF OUR PARTNERSHIP

New Jersey has nurtured a stronger partnership with the Federal Government and this has had tangible meaning for our people. In 1962, we gained for the recreational use of New Jersey and its visitors 460 acres of Sandy Hook. Our Department of Conservation and Economic Development moved quickly to develop this as a place of recreation and in its first year of operation hundreds of thousands of people were accommodated. In 1964, as Governor of New Jersey I had the honor of receiving from the hands of the President of the United States the transfer documents turning over 271 additional acres of magnificent beachfront and bay shore area, the last such land remaining in its natural state in this metropolitan area. This increased the size of the facility by 60 per cent and will enable Sandy Hook this year to serve more than a million citizens.

I think we all feel a sense of pride in this development of a playground for all the people.

The concern of New Jersey as a state and the action of the federal-state partnership which it invoked, has meant uncounted benefits for our seashore area upon which depends much of our first industry, travel and recreation. It meant salvation for seashore counties devastated in the worst storm in our history. The vigor of our municipalities in carrying their part of the burden has helped us write together a history of courage and accomplishment which will brighten the pages of New Jersey's future.

In 1965 we can look forward to financial assistance from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund, a grant-in-aid matching fund program to help states plan their recreational systems, acquire land and provide recreational facilities. This 25-year national fund would be a timely supplement to our Green Acres program.

Also, we shall continue to participate in the Federal Housing and Home Finance program for open space land acquisitions. We are aware of the opportunities for Federal assistance in geological surveys of our ground water resources and the ever-lurking threats in some areas of salt water encroachment. And we shall continue to work for development of off-the-right-of-way-parks along our highways for motorists to rest and relax amid nature's beauty.

The vistas before us are broad and they are bright. We move forward into years of further accomplishment.

PUBLIC UTILITIES—SENSITIVE REGULATION

In the past three years, the Board of Public Utility Commissioners has guided the accomplishment of utility reductions, refunds and other tariff revisions resulting in consumer savings of some $24 million. During this time, the Board also has taken decisive action in the area of public safety by investigating and initiating legislation to eliminate the hazards of explosions attributable to leaks from gas mains and distribution pipes. The safety measures proposed by the Board finally were enacted last year, and the Board has taken immediate steps to implement them.

The past several years have seen the growth of a new industry known as CATV, or community antenna television service. This is a television antenna system which receives signals transmitted by television broadcast stations, and redistributes them by wire or cable to members of the public who subscribe to the service. CATV systems flourish primarily in areas which receive marginal or intermittent TV service because of their distance from broadcasting stations. Since long stretches of coaxial cable used in CATV operations are subject to deterioration, resulting in progressively poorer TV signals, CATV systems often use common carriers to provide microwave links with their antennas in order to insure signal quality and to avoid cable failures.

An increasing number of these television systems are coming into operation in the southern portion of New Jersey, particularly along the Atlantic Coast. CATV companies are currently operating with a minimum amount of governmental control, and because of their current expansion, conflicts will result between competing companies over franchise rights. Thus we are presented with a classic example of the birth of a public utility, with all of the attendant hazards to the consumer of unrestrained competition and service without prescribed standards. Legislation will soon be introduced to regulate this new industry by bringing such companies within the present statutory definition of the term "public utility."

PRESERVING OUR AGRICULTURAL HERITAGE

It is the firm conviction of this administration that we must spare none of our efforts to preserve agriculture as a vital part of the economic and social life of New Jersey. With this in mind, we have taken significant steps which we believe are truly in the interest of those engaged in agricultural pursuits.

Among these was the approval of a constitutional amendment prepared by the Governor's Committee on Farmland Assessment. This amendment permitted the assessment of farmland for tax purposes on the basis of its use for agricultural purposes. Its adoption and passage of implementing legislation, which was also prepared by the Governor's Committee, comprised a significant move to preserve the agricultural industry and the family farm in New Jersey. It also will provide urgently needed "open space" for all citizens.

Another important legislative achievement has been the establishment of fur farming, a $2 million annual business as an added segment of agriculture. I am happy to report the reorganization of the Department's structure has resulted in streamlining in all of its operations for greater efficiency in serving the farms of New Jersey. Furthermore, the Department of Agriculture has worked closely with the Department of Health in the establishment of modern laboratory facilities to provide another essential and important service for those engaged in every phase of agriculture.

These achievements have strengthened the agricultural industry in New Jersey—a vital $300 million a year business—and will enable it to continue as an essential segment of the economy of the State.

A. TRANSFER OF RESPONSIBILITY

With the completion of the new Health-Agriculture laboratory building, the time is appropriate to transfer from our State University certain responsibilities which are the proper function of a regulatory agency. I refer to the laws administered by the State Chemist and State Seed Analyst at the Agricultural Experiment Station.

I am pleased to report that a satisfactory agreement has been reached by the Board of Governors, the State Board of Agriculture, President Mason Gross and Secretary Alampi to make this transfer.

Consequently, I shall ask your approval of appropriate legislation to assign the offices of the State Chemist and State Seed Analyst to the State Department of Agriculture and to provide funds for laboratory facilities to accommodate the work in the new building of the Department.

THE FRAMEWORK OF GOVERNMENT

THE LEGISLATURE—PROFOUND CHANGES

On June 15, 1964, the Supreme Court of the United States signalled the end of the constitutional system of legislative representation to which New Jersey has adhered for many years. Our own Supreme Court has brought the message home to us by declaring that the legislative article of the New Jersey Constitution must be adjudged to be invalid insofar as it deals with the apportionment of the members of the Legislature. By order of the Court, this body soon must give way to a new Legislature to be elected next November under an apportionment plan which meets the newly enunciated Federal standard of equal representation for all the people of this State.

So profound an event in the history of our State and Nation could not possibly have occurred without producing divergent public reaction. Some have welcomed this basic change in the structure of State government, while others have decried it and have sought to nullify it. The responsible concensus, however, has recognized that the time for debate on the merits of the Supreme Court's action has passed, and that any attempt to turn back the clock would be out of step with the progressive traditions of this great Nation. In that spirit, the Legislature has established a bipartisan commission of distinguished public officials and private citizens to formulate a plan for the apportionment of the interim Legislature which must be elected this November.

At the same time, however, there remains in the Legislature an unfortunate but substantial undercurrent of negativism and opposition to any change in the status quo. A resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to permit states to apportion the membership of one legislative house "on factors other than population" recently was defeated in the Assembly by the narrowest of margins. The leadership of the Senate has indicated that a similar resolution will be introduced in that House during the forthcoming session. Such maneuvers are associated inescapably with certain efforts which have been made elsewhere to evade the force of the equal protection clause of the United States Constitution in related areas, and are entirely foreign to the heritage of New Jersey.

I would urge all legislators to abandon any further efforts in that direction, and to concentrate all their energies upon the adoption of a meaningful apportionment plan for the next election. It would be tragic if this, the last Legislature elected under our present system, were best remembered only for having presided reluctantly and bitterly over its own demise. This Legislature instead could live forever in our history as the body which paved the way for an orderly and constructive transition from the old way to the new way, in obedience to the supreme law of the land. The choice is yours.

TWO CONTINUING OBLIGATIONS

In addition to reapportionment, there are two other internal legislative matters which warrant early consideration by the Legislature this year. The first concerns the enactment of a workable conflicts of interest law.

During the past session, the two Houses for the first time were able to agree on the passage of legislation to define and prohibit conflicts between the official obligations and the private interests of members of the legislative and executive branches of government. This bill embodied the approach, long favored by the Senate, of granting to each House the exclusive power to hear and determine, in closed session, all charges of impropriety against its own members.

Primarily because of my conviction that no conflicts of interest law can be of value unless it provides the assurance of a full and fair public hearing on such charges by an impartial body, I found it necessary to return this measure to the Senate with certain recommendations to strengthen it in that regard. Specifically, I proposed that the State House Commission, as an appropriate independent tribunal composed of responsible members of the executive and legislative branches, be empowered to adjudicate the truth or falsity of complaints involving alleged violations by members and employees of both branches. This recommendation was offered as a possible compromise between the criminal sanctions preferred by the Assembly and the illusory enforcement provisions advocated by the Senate. To the gratification of many, there was some indication that the Legislature might repass the bill with the substance of my recommendations, thus breaking a long-standing deadlock between the two Houses and giving this State its first meaningful conflicts of interest law. Unfortunately, this responsible action failed to materialize during the past session. I am hopeful, however, that the Legislature in this session will accord early recognition to its responsibilities in this area, and that a new bill adopting my suggestions for certain and impartial enforcement of the law will soon be introduced and passed.

The second piece of unfinished internal business for this Legislature relates to the measure enacted last year to require the registration of "legislative agents," as that term is defined by the act, and the filing of quarterly reports by legislative agents and certain other persons engaged in the influencing of legislation by direct communication. As I observed when I approved this law, I was skeptical as to whether it would in fact establish an effective program of lobbyist control because of its rather imprecise definitions concerning those persons who are subject to its provisions. Because of my wholehearted agreement with its stated objectives, however, I signed this law with the understanding that it represented no more than an experimental first step which subsequently might be extended by the Legislature on the basis of actual experience if that experience should so warrant. While the first definite indication of this law's success or failure will not manifest itself until the advent of the first quarterly filing date, the signs so far have not been encouraging in terms of the number of persons who have registered as "legislative agents." I would urge the Legislature to watch closely the development of this situation, and to prepare to make any necessary clarification or extension of this law which may prove to be needed in the near future.

NEW DEMANDS ON THE COURTS

The framers of our 1947 Constitution conceived a new court system which soon achieved international recognition as a prototype for the swift and impartial administration of justice. Streamlined in its structure, evenhanded and efficient in its operation, distinguished by the services of many dedicated judges and incorporating new concepts such as pre-trial procedures, this court system converted the abstraction of equal justice under law into an everyday reality upon which our citizens have come to depend.

Perhaps it is ironic that while the New Jersey judicial system continues to be admired and emulated elsewhere, serious external pressures today threaten its continued effectiveness as an instrument of justice. The world has changed during the past 17 years, and the change has been reflected in the needs of every state. There has been a population explosion, and the personal and business affairs of the average person are more complex than ever before. New social and governmental relationships have emerged, and there are new concepts of civil duties, rights and liabilities. There has been an increase in the crime rate, in part due to the great increase in our population. The use of the automobile has become such a part of modern existence as to congest our highways and contribute to an alarming increase in injuries and property damage.

In another day and age, our existing court system might have functioned effectively for many years without need for re-examination or revision. The stresses of the unique time in which we live, however, are taking their toll and urgently suggest the need of a comprehensive study with a view toward determining those areas in which our judicial system should be adjusted to meet the new circumstances which could hardly have been envisioned even 17 years ago.

A BROAD REVIEW

After discussing this subject with the legislative leaders, I have requested Princeton and Rutgers to undertake a joint study of this problem. This analysis will be wide in scope, and will include questions of court structure; jurisdiction and procedure; the term, tenure, and qualification of judges; and salary and pension arrangements for members of the bench. While both universities are willing to undertake this review, a project of such magnitude will require some financial assistance by the State. I intend to request the Legislature to make a suitable appropriation for this purpose on the basis of cost figures which will be made available later. I am certain that the amount involved will be moderate, particularly in view of the benefits to be achieved, and I commend this problem to your urgent attention.

While the results of this study may not be forthcoming in time for early consideration by this Legislature, there are two immediate and urgent needs for improvements in the court system which no study is needed to establish, and which warrant early legislative response.

THE UNDENIABLE NEED FOR JUDGES

The first is the undeniable need for more Superior Court judges. An unprecedented surge of litigation has crowded the court calendars far beyond their capacity for timely disposition of law suits and criminal indictments. The people are being deprived of their right to prompt redress of their legal grievances, and the administration of criminal justice is lagging. The impending breakdown in the capacity of our present bench, despite the faithful hard work of our judges to deal with the case backlogs, threatens the administration of justice in a very real sense.

Last year I called for legislation to increase the number of Superior Court judges from 44 to 60, and a bill to that effect was introduced with bipartisan sponsorship. However, a committee substitute limited the number of new judgeships to eight. While I am gratified that the Legislature was partially responsive to the problem I must reiterate that the additional judges are urgently needed by the people of New Jersey. I am hopeful that the Legislature will act soon to provide them.

SALARY INCREASES—AN IMMEDIATE CONCERN

The bipartisan proposal last year also provided for comprehensive increases in the salary of judges with the necessary cost to be defrayed by increasing certain court fees, which had not been elevated since 1955. This request was not acted upon by the Legislature.

Meanwhile, in the Federal system substantial increases have been made in the salaries of all Federal judges, which brings into sharp focus the failure of our judicial salaries to be compensatory in terms of the rising cost of living.

No court system can be better than the judges who are called upon to exercise its functions. Thus far we have been fortunate, perhaps more fortunate than we could expect, in the high caliber of men who have forsaken lucrative law practices to ascend to the bench. The fact that such men have subordinated material rewards to the ideal of public service cannot excuse us from compensating them on a scale which will enable them to meet their reasonable personal and family requirements and expenses. Judicial salaries in New Jersey have fallen markedly out of step with today's cost of living. For this reason, it has become increasingly difficult to attract the best qualified and otherwise willing attorneys to a judicial service which entails so much financial sacrifice. Although public service traditionally and properly is not the road to wealth, it should never become a calling in which only those of independent means or fortune can participate, or a sinecure for those who do not meet the high qualifications which we expect of our judges. I seriously urge that the Legislature consider this problem with realism and wisdom during this session.

THE SERVICE OF THE PUBLIC

State government exists for the benefit of nearly seven million citizens. But it has a special relationship to employees at local as well as State level—those people responsible for the effective functioning of government. And like any employer, the State has a responsibility for the reasonable protection of those public servants who in turn show loyalty to the State through their industry and efficiency.

We have instituted, through our Department of Civil Service, a variety of modern personnel programs to enhance the capability of public employees. One result is the fact that, in the State service, our employees render a professional performance that has helped New Jersey achieve the lowest per capita cost of government of any of the fifty states.

It is appropriate to review a number of personnel programs undertaken by the Department in recent years to demonstrate the variety of its accomplishments. They include:

Major expansion in the use of practical performance tests for technically skilled positions instead of the former complete reliance on written examinations.

A broadening of the program for Civil Service examinations for all levels of government. Instead of limiting tests to Friday evenings and Saturdays, they are being held throughout the week, thus permitting quicker scheduling after public announcement, shorter waiting periods for issuance of employment lists and, as a result, maintenance of interest by applicants for public employment.

A wide ranging program of classification and salary surveys for government at all levels. Over the past three years, sixty-six such surveys were made by the Department, reviewing the duties of more than 23,000 employees. In the last fiscal year, one of these projects included classification or reclassification of 5,200 positions in the State service.

A GOAL OF EXCELLENCE

A sharp growth of in-service training programs conducted by the Department. In fiscal 1962, 275 executive employees were involved in such training courses. The following year there were 625, and in 1964 we trained 844. This rise was achieved with no increase in training staff. Semi-annual meetings of graduates of the Management Training Seminar have been instituted to reinforce the original training. Based on the success of this seminar with State officials, a similar program was begun for county and municipal executives in 1963. This is the only program of its type in the Nation.

Stepped up recruitment efforts among college seniors and recent graduates which resulted in an increase in graduates attracted to our college classification tests from 900 in 1962 to 1,438 in 1964.

A helpful factor in the Expansion of the State Employees' Suggestion Program was an increase from $1,000 to $1,500 in the maximum award. Last year these suggestions saved the State more than $144,000.

These activities comprise a major aspect of our personnel program. But as every businessman recognizes, an employer must manifest a concern for the material welfare of the men and women who staff his enterprise if that enterprise is to succeed.

EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

The State government has been engaged in a continuing effort to shape a program of public employee benefits in an era when such employer concern is a daily fact of life. We believe that improvement of benefits has kept pace with developments in private industry.

Pensions have received particular attention. In 1962, we enacted legislation to restore to certain disadvantaged members of the Public Employees' Retirement System and Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund pension benefits which they had been led to expect but which had been foreclosed by abrupt changes in Federal law. In 1963, also in fulfillment of a pledge to the people, I was privileged to sign into law a bill permitting members of the retirement systems to purchase substantial supplemental retirement benefits based on the variable annuity concept. Last year, we took further action to improve inadequate pensions.

The entire benefit and contribution schedules of the Police and Firemen's Retirement System and the Consolidated Police and Firemen's Fund were revised only last month. Also in 1964, we took action to protect widows' pensions in the Prison Officers' Pension Fund. Other recent legislation permitted increases in the contributory insurance programs of the several systems and allowed the purchase or grant of additional prior service credit.

Last year we extended the State Health Benefits Program to provide basic hospitalization and medical-surgical coverage, as well as major medical insurance protection to teachers and other county and municipal employees, while extending the program to retired employees for the first time.

These achievements, however, should not becloud the need for continued improvement of employment conditions. At one time, the security and other benefits connected with public service made it highly competitive with private employment, although public salaries frequently were lower. Today, the situation has changed. Security is a major consideration with private firms, and many of our latest "fringe benefits" are modeled on existing private programs.

COMPETITIVE SALARIES

There is a further competitive factor—the attraction of the Federal service. This has been enhanced by the recent action of Congress in voting a substantial salary increase for the entire Federal establishment.

Although salary adjustments have raised average State salaries from $4,800 in 1962 to $5,300 in 1964, and the minimum State salary from $2,500 to $3,042 in that period, we have not kept pace with salary improvements in private industry and with the Federal government.

Therefore, in my fiscal message, I will make detailed proposals to bring State salaries into better line with changing conditions.

This consideration must include the principal executives of State government, the department heads whose salary levels are disproportionately low compared with those with comparable responsibilities in the Federal government or in neighboring states. Similarly, we must take steps to maintain the traditional high quality of the judiciary. I outline elsewhere in the message my suggestions concerning the courts.

Thus, the Legislature and Governor are called on to assume the obligations of a responsible employer. I am most hopeful that we will not shirk that responsibility.

ADVANCES IN ELECTRONIC DATA PROCESSING

To improve the administrative efficiency of State government, a significant effort is being made to expand the use of electronic data processing. This effort yields a double benefit. First, the use of the data processing technique has enabled us to forestall immediate additional costs. But more importantly, it has made it possible for the State to meet growing workloads with minimum additional costs.

In the current fiscal year the State budget has provided $1,178,222 for data processing equipment rentals and purchased services, to enable the speedy and economical issuing of our driver licenses and vehicle registrations, auditing tax returns, preparing hospital patient billings, issuing our employee paychecks, designing highways, issuing unemployment benefit checks, maintaining our pension records, compiling the Table of Equalized Valuations, and a growing list of other vital tasks.

At present the State is conducting advanced data processing studies in the following areas:

1. The Division of Motor Vehicles is seeking to reduce traffic deaths through electronic correlation of driver records, driver licensing, and traffic accident reports.
2. The efficiency of the State Police communications system is being increased through electronic message switching.
3. The Department of Labor and Industry is considering the possibility of getting New Jersey's unemployed back to work sooner through an electronic system to match unemployed skills with job opportunities.
4. Initial steps have been taken to utilize electronic data processing techniques in legislative research and bill drafting.
5. The Treasury Department is actively studying the feasibility of integrating, through electronic data processing, present budgeting, accounting, and procurement operations.

In planning for the future use of this effective administrative and management tool, the State is proceeding on two fronts. First, we will continue to evaluate and coordinate data processing installations for better utilization. Second, we will continue to analyze and to select other activities in the State government that offer feasibility and opportunity for improved efficiency through the application of electronic data processing.

FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY THE BASIC QUESTION

I cannot close without commenting specifically upon what most responsible people agree is the outstanding problem confronting State government today: the need for sufficient revenue to enable the State to meet the requirements of its people.

Although it is customary to withhold from the legislative message discussions relating to fiscal problems, because of the importance of this problem, I do not think a candid statement on it should be delayed. I have, therefore, undertaken throughout this message a discussion of many programs which will require strong financial support in order to be implemented. The programs which I have detailed or recommended are clearly essential to the health and welfare of our people and to the proper functioning of our governmental agencies both State and local. These proposals range through the entire gamut of State activities—from education to public health, from increased State aid to local government to accelerated capital construction needed by the State.

In addition to these programs, I shall submit within the next several weeks, a report on the proposed capital improvement program prepared by the Interdepartmental Committee for State Planning which projects the capital requirements of State government for the next five years. Some of the proposals in this report are touched upon in this message. Others will be commented upon more fully in the Budget Message which I will deliver on February 1st. It is my hope that the budget I present on that date will provide the funds necessary to carry out our present programs, somewhat expanded and enriched, within the existing fiscal structure. The satisfaction of a balanced or near-balanced budget, however, should not encourage us to ignore the price which we must pay for such an accomplishment.

THE COST OF PROGRAMS

Many of the new programs I have set forth today are not and cannot be paid for within the framework of our existing fiscal structure. Their detailed costs can be calculated only after the passage of specific legislation.

It should be apparent to all, however, that even a modest beginning on these programs will require substantial sums. The capital requirements for highways, higher education and mass transportation alone must be considered on a multi-year basis before the amounts available under any approach can be viewed as adequate.

Any revision or expansion of the existing aid programs to municipalities, counties and school districts can be meaningful only if they approach, in total, an annual expenditure of about $100 million. All of this points to the inevitable conclusion that no matter how conservative, no matter how skeptical we are as to our total needs, even the most restrictive concepts of these needs require a recognition that they can be satisfied only through an expansion of the State's revenue base. This should come as a surprise to no one.

In my Inaugural Message, three years ago, I commented that "we must make our contribution to the common good * * * by a willingness to accept the cost of the many services required by the people of their State and local governments."

Two years ago, I approached the Legislature, in my Special Message on the Bond Issue, to report on the need for additional revenue and to suggest a method to provide the revenues required short of the broad based taxation we have all sought to avoid. I must say in candor that this proposal although adopted by the Legislature, was repeatedly attacked by the political party which now controls both Houses of this Legislature and the bond issue was rejected by the people.

Last year, I repeated what I believe we now have come to accept—the continued need of this State for a means to satisfy the just demands of the people. As you know, I suggested a personal income tax capable of raising the sum of approximately $155 million a year. Again the majority party in this Legislature, while not seriously disputing the existence of these needs, resisted that proposal. Some of you, individually, and in response to the dictates of conscience, recognized a need for action and suggested an alternative broad based tax. I remarked then and I say now that I stand ready and willing to approve any reasonable and responsible revenue-producing measures which can provide the means for satisfying the legitimate expectations of our people for services and for better government.

I am not able to offer any magic or painless solution to the fiscal problems of this State. I know of no easy way to escape the responsibility which is ours. I have sought, in a manner which I believe to be in keeping with my responsibilities as the Governor of this State, and in fulfillment of my pledge to the people, to encourage the Legislature to meet our situation in a forthright manner. I shall continue my efforts to convince this Legislature that we have a joint responsibility to provide the revenue needed.

In light of the record, however, I feel that it is not unrealistic for me to state quite frankly that the next move belongs to the Legislature. During the past year I have been reminded by some members of this body that it is the function of the Legislature to legislate and that the Executive should not intrude upon this province. I respect the separation-of-powers concept and have no wish to arrogate to myself those powers which rightfully belong to you. But it is self-evident that those who would seek to have power must accept with it the responsibility to use that power wisely and for the benefit of the people they represent.

CHAPTER 51

There is one aspect of the fiscal problem which is, perhaps, more acute than any other at this moment. I refer to the local taxation of business personal property under Chapter 51. As you know, Chapter 51 was a legislative proposal designed to end the difficulties encountered in local property taxation as a result of the court decision in Switz v. Middeltown. It was a law enacted prior to my term of office. By legislative action, it was postponed for three successive years. Last year the Legislature determined that this law should go into effect despite repeated attempts by some legislators, supported by the elected officials of many of our municipalities, to again effect a postponement or a repeal of this law.

We are all aware that much of the thrust behind this effort to avoid the imposition of Chapter 51 is the fact that this law will place the taxation of business personalty on a uniform basis for the first time in the history of the State. While uniformity, as an abstract concept, has much to commend it, the practical effect of placing our local property tax system on a uniform basis will be to shift, in some cases drastically, the tax liabilities of our businesses and industries. Some businesses may benefit; many others stand to incur a substantial increase in their local property taxes. Justified though such a revision in the tax structure may be, the adjustment in a single tax period of tax inequities built up over many years undoubtedly will result in hardship in many individual cases. In addition, the business personalty tax, as I pointed out at the time that I approved the only amendments to Chapter 51 that the Legislature would pass last year, is fundamentally a poor one. It is in no way related to the capacity of business to pay and may bear more heavily on taxpayers who are less capable of paying while it leaves virtually untouched many more prosperous businesses.

My recent industrial trip to Europe only served to reemphasize the pressing need for stability in the area of business taxation. I was questioned time and again by knowledgeable European business leaders about the local business tax situation in New Jersey. These gentlemen know of our problems and are following our actions.

I am convinced from discussions I have had with business leaders in New Jersey and elsewhere that we are jeopardizing our impressive record of industrial growth through the uncertainty that has been created as a result of our local property tax disputes. In many cases the concern of businessmen has been directed not so much to the level of the taxes as it has been to the uncertainty of the burden. Chapter 51, by imposing a uniform and relatively well-defined method for establishing the local business tax level, may serve a useful function. It may have to suffice until more appropriate methods of taxing business personalty or taxing our businesses and industries can be derived.

Chapter 51, by virtue of your decision last year and in view of the Supreme Court's decision last week, is an accomplished fact with which we must expect to live, at least for the immediate future. I have, therefore, appointed a representative Committee on Local Property Taxation for the specific purpose of considering the impact that this tax will have upon our communities and our local property taxpayers. Pending their findings, we face the stark fact that we cannot avoid the fundamental problem of Chapter 51; namely, the tax shift and the resultant hardship that must occur as we change from the previous system to the uniformity dictated by Chapter 51.

This, therefore, is another compelling reason why the Legislature should consider this year, expanding our existing State aid formulas. Our municipalities will require additional revenues to cushion the shock of such a tax shift. Without the assistance of such revenues, many of our local property taxpayers, especially the small businessman, will be adversely affected.

CONCLUSION

The executive article of our Constitution requires that "the Governor shall communicate to the Legislature, by message at the opening of each regular session * * *, the condition of the State and shall in like manner recommend such measures as he may deem desirable." Too often the ceremonial aspects of this annual occasion tend to obscure the fact that it represents the observance of a solemn and functional constitutional obligation.

Our forefathers imposed this obligation with the hope that the coming together of Governor and Legislature at the start of each legislative session might spark an annual renewal of our mutual dedication to the cause we serve together. Today I have communicated to you the condition of the State as I see it, and I have recommended to you the important measures which I deem desirable at this juncture of our quest for a better way of life for all the people. If I have communicated a sense of accomplishment, it is because New Jersey today stands as a strong and progressive State in many respects. Let us work together to maintain these strengths. If I have communicated a sense of frustration and urgency, it is because we have much unfinished business and many unsatisfied needs. Let us work together to eliminate these weaknesses.

Each of you has my best wishes for a happy and productive year.

Governor Hughes delivered the following Budget Message.

BUDGET MESSAGE

Mr. President, Madame Speaker, Members of the Senate and General Assembly:

I present to you today a budget which is balanced and which requires no new taxes. Of the four budgets which it has been my duty to draft, this is the third which maintains taxes at existing levels.

Within New Jersey's manifest fiscal limitations—limitations which I have discussed at length in my Third Annual Message—this 1965-66 fiscal program not only will continue our present programs in an effective manner, but it will provide necessary expansion for many of them. Furthermore, it will undertake a number of new programs which this administration considers essential to the progress of our vital State. Our present fiscal framework, however, cannot encompass all the aspirations, and even many of the basic needs of New Jersey. For instance, we cannot undertake a long-needed revision of our State school aid formulas to relieve the evermore burdensome weight of local property taxes. Nor can we fully meet New Jersey's obligation to its youth through the needed major expansion of our colleges and universities.

But this program does provide for the taxpayer a dollar's worth of services for every dollar spent; and this is reflected in statistics that give New Jersey the lowest cost of State government per capita¹ and the lowest number of State employees per capita¹.

With prudence imposed by necessity as well as principle, we have applied strictest priority in determining the public needs.

Thus, I have recommended reductions in the budgets of some departments. I feel that these reductions will not detract from the departments' abilities to function effectively next year. But in the majority of programs, particularly those that deal with fundamental human problems—education, welfare, institutions, transportation, health and conservation—this budget provides for broadened and enriched activity.

This budget is $56.6 million higher than appropriations for the current fiscal year. This results from our rising population, improved State services and from the changing character of our society—a society which demands better education and training for the young, better provision for the increasing number of aged, new opportunities for the deprived and handicapped and, above all, full participation by our people in the continuing development of the greatest society of free men our world has ever known.

Most of the increased resources available to balance this budget are attributable to two factors: the above-average growth of New Jersey business, and the general prosperity of the Nation. But we should not overlook a continued striving for economy in the various State departments which turned back to the treasury some $7.8 million in unspent appropriations as of last June 30. On that date our surplus was $29.1 million. On next July 1, we expect our surplus to be a gratifying $32.5 million, principally as the result of revenue overruns of $17.3 million during the current year. Revenues for the fiscal year covered by this budget can be expected to be $623 million so that, altogether, total resources of more than $655.5 million will be available to cover the expenditures I am recommending.

Because certain recommendations which I am making are of a non-recurring, investment nature, the anticipated revenues include a sum of $11.5 million to be derived by requiring the payment of taxes on insurance premiums in the fiscal year in which they are earned. By adopting this pay-as-you-go principle, a non-recurring yield of $11.5 million will be produced in 1965-66 only.

Fiscal responsibility demands that we should not apply non-recurring revenues to recurring or continuing expenditures, else we pyramid such expenditures into future years without a known tax base to support them. Hence, I recommend that this item of non-recurring revenue finance non-recurring expenditures only.

While I discuss these non-recurring expenditures in the pages which follow, I want to summarize them at this point:

Sanitary Sewerage Revolving Fund	$5,000,000
Advance Purchase of Right-of-Way Revolving Fund ..	4,000,000
Acquisition of New Commuter Railroad Cars	2,000,000
Addition to Highway Office Building	980,000

BUDGET REQUESTS

Department heads formally requested of the State Budget Director $869.7 million for fiscal 1965-66. Had our revenue structure been geared to seriously consider these requests, my recommendations would have been considerably higher than those presented today. Quite obviously, the area in which the greatest cuts were made was in that of capital construction. Very little latitude existed for reductions in either the General State Operations or the State Aid area.

I have trimmed approximately $222 million from the requests in arriving at the amount recommended in this budget. Of this total, approximately $34.2 million was pared in the General State Operations section, and State Aid requests were reduced by approximately $28.4 million. Requests for Capital Construction were reduced by $159.4 million. The greater part of the cut made in the capital construction area was in the highway field. Our need for additional funds to accelerate our highway program has been documented on many occasions in the past, and I see no need for reiterating what has been stated heretofore.

REVENUES

As I have noted, we have enjoyed unprecedented revenue collections this year. It may be remembered that last year doubts were expressed in several quarters as to our ability to earn the sums which we anticipated for the current fiscal year. From the results of tax collections for the first six months of the current fiscal year, we can see that these doubts were unfounded.

As examples, overruns are expected as follows: $4 million from corporation taxes; $2 million from inheritance taxes; $2.8 million from cigarette taxes; $3.7 million from motor fuels and motor vehicle receipts; and $1.5 million in earnings on investments.

These, added to similar overruns in other areas, will produce the $17.3 million in unanticipated revenues during the current year. The estimates of revenues for 1965-66 have been developed on the foundation of 1964-65 and the trend which has been apparent over the past 10 years.

Therefore, we see that New Jersey, despite the growth in our fiscal structure, stands in a most favorable position when compared with other states, particularly our neighbors.

Nevertheless, there are certain segments of our revenue raising structure that require further review. In the next fiscal year, we anticipate $1.5 million from our recently enacted Motor Carrier Tax. The administrative costs to collect this tax, in my opinion, are excessive when viewed against the actual amount collected. I have directed the Division of Taxation to undertake this review.

Another area which should be studied with the ultimate purpose of granting relief, since such relief seems to be equitable, is in the field of premium taxes applicable to our domestic life insurance industry. Among the 50 states, New Jersey stands second—exceeded only by New York—in the amount of assets held by domestic life insurance companies. Present taxes assessed on premiums earned by our domestic life insurance companies place them at a disadvantage with competitors who can develop annuity, pension and group health plans on which such a tax is not applicable.

I recommend that this weakness in our tax structure be seriously studied by the Legislature so that taxes assessed against such companies might be revised to assist our domestic life insurance industry in retaining the enviable position it now enjoys in this most competitive field.

THE BUDGET IN BRIEF

Estimated Surplus, July 1, 1965 (after providing for supplementals)	$32,544,690
Estimated Revenue for 1965-66	623,025,454
Total Resources for 1965-66	$655,570,144

242 MINUTES OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

	Recommendations
General State Operations		$297,925,996
State Aid		275,785,681
Capital Construction		73,118,072
Total Recommendations		$646,829,749
Reserved		2,200,000
Estimated Surplus, June 30, 1966		$6,540,395

In arriving at the indicated net surplus of $6.5 million, there is reserved $2.2 million for two important contingencies. I am sure that all of us will wish to provide for them when our responsibility to undertake them unfolds.

The largest portion, $1.5 million, is for the State's share of training and re-training of unemployed and underemployed persons under P. L. 8-415 of the 87th Congress, otherwise known as the Manpower Development and Training Act. This program is now 100 per cent federally-financed and is being operated through our State Departments of Labor and Industry and Education. Last year, more than $2 million was spent under MDTA and it is expected that expenditures in the current fiscal year will reach $2.5 million. In the year ahead, expenditures are expected to climb to at least $4.5 million. It now appears that the Federal government may require one-third of this cost to be matched by the State in the next fiscal year. I shall, however, make every effort, in co-operation with New Jersey's delegation in the Congress, to convince the Federal government that it should continue this program without requiring State matching funds. Many of those who will be beneficiaries of this program have emigrated from states which have had severe unemployment problems. New Jersey's taxpayers should not be compelled to bear costs which primarily are a national obligation. Should we fail to obtain 100 per cent Federal funds, not only will we need one-third in State funds, but an amendment would be needed to our State law which now prohibits State financial participation.

The remainder of the reserve—$700,000—is for a contingent deficit in next year's operations of our New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry. We have no basis on which to make an appropriation as of this date, particularly since the Board of Governors who will be responsible for contract agreements must be given sufficient opportunity to formulate a budget request.

The $6.5 million net surplus, approximately 1 per cent of our total budget, is a reasonable amount to meet any additional costs arising from future legislation, or to compensate for any unforeseen reductions in revenue collections.

EDUCATION

This administration will continue to assure that education receives the first priority in New Jersey budget making. This we owe to our future. Recommendations in this budget for educational purposes total $257 million, an increase of $18.2 million, not counting the non-recurring appropriation of $4.3 million made last December for purchase of the facilities of the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry. Of this increase, $8.9 million is allocated to General State Operations for education; $8.2 million for State aid to local education, and $1.1 million for capital construction.

HIGHER EDUCATION

A major component of this increase in General State Operations for education is $3.5 million for the State colleges. Essentially, this represents the increased cost to enroll an additional 8,100 students next year in our six State colleges, bringing the total number of enrollments to 55,400. Of the increase, about 1,900 will be full-time undergraduate students; the other 6,200 will be part-time students taking both undergraduate and graduate work. Full-time undergraduate students enrolled next year in the six State colleges will aggregate 16,780.

This number is a milestone. It approximates 250 per cent of the number enrolled in the State colleges in 1958 and indicates that the goal set by the State's 1959 Educational Bond Issue, which was to double enrollments by 1965, will be surpassed when our colleges open their doors next Fall. But we must do more—much more—if we are to meet even the conservative objectives for the year 1970 as outlined in the Department of Education's Strayer Report.

The expected full-time undergraduate enrollments at the colleges call for an additional 119 faculty members to maintain a faculty-student ratio of 1-16. But more enrollments mean more costs in areas other than instruction. It will be necessary to include 103 additional employees to cope with the expanded administration, maintenance and supervision problems which a larger student body generates. Because of the expansion in the graduate work in the State colleges, recognition has been given to an increase of 12 academic positions as State support of the graduate program. Moreover, full provision has been made for the self-supporting part-time, extension and summer programs.

To meet the pressure of increased applications for enrollment, we have decided to rent classroom facilities adjoining the campus of the Newark State College. Were it not for the availability of this rented space, we could not enroll 400 of the 1,900 additional full-time undergraduate students projected for all six colleges. Use of these facilities for perhaps the next two years will permit the College to advance, by at least two years, enlargement of the student body as contemplated in the bond issue of 1964.

The increase in appropriations for the operation of Rutgers totals $2.9 million. Of this, $2.6 million is for the University in general; $125,000 is for Douglass College and $146,000 for the Agricultural Experiment Station. The recommendations for General University purposes include some $400,000 for the new two-year medical school in preparation for the admission of the first class in the Fall of 1966. It should be noted that we make provision, with total recommendations of $24.5 million, for two-thirds of the State University's operating costs, exclusive of self-supporting enterprises.

One million dollars of the Rutgers increase results from the fact that, in the current fiscal year, an equal amount became available for operating purposes to the University from an insurance dividend account. This circumstance permitted an offsetting reduction in the appropriation made by the State for 1964-65. This fortuitous condition will not recur in 1966.

Our appropriations to the University next year will provide for the education of the equivalent of 510 additional full-time students. To continue the well-established standard of one teacher for every 12.6 students at the University, funds are recommended for 40 additional faculty members. The larger student body will require 48 other employees to provide related services.

For the Newark College of Engineering, I am recommending an increase of $400,000 to purchase higher education at this fine institution. Its enrollment next year will total 3,357, an increase of 153 when equated to full-time attendance.

The increase in the college age population is very evident in New Jersey's publicly-supported institutions of higher education. In all, 115,155 full and part-time students will be enrolled, an increase of 10,718 over the current year. Of that rise, 8,100 will be in the State colleges, 1,752 at the University, 271 at Newark College of Engineering and 595 at Trenton Junior College.

We can expect that the new structures authorized under the recently enacted bond issue will permit us to enroll increasingly larger numbers of young people who are able to benefit from a college education. But we also know that the pressure of the high school graduates justifiably seeking places in colleges and universities will become even greater than it is today. We must seek to honor our obligations to these young people in two ways:

First, we must plan and, hopefully, provide college facilities in addition to those included in the 1964 bond issue.

Second, we must encourage full utilization of higher educational opportunities in colleges other than our public institutions where costs are higher than in the State-supported institutions. Toward this objective, as I indicated in my Third Annual Message, I am recommending $600,000 to permit awards of at least 1,000 incentive scholarships for students in colleges whose costs necessarily are greater than those in New Jersey's public institutions.

Our continuing program of scholarships and student loans, now entering the sixth and fifth years, respectively, is given additional impetus in this budget. I am asking for an increase of $370,000 to provide a total of $4.5 million to finance 13,000 scholarships next year—exclusive of the incentive grants. I am recommending an even more dramatic increase of $950,000 to bring to $1.5 million the statutory 20 per cent reserve for new student loans. This will enable some 10,275 students to obtain $8.4 million in loans of as much as $1,500 each from lending institutions with repayment guaranteed by the State. In my opinion, the loan program has particular merit in that it enables youngsters to provide for their own futures and instills in them a serious desire to complete their college education.

AID TO SCHOOL DISTRICTS

The increase in this budget for State aid to education is $8.2 million. Too often overlooked in judging the amount of State aid available for education is the State's contribution for teachers' pensions, life insurance premiums and social security. Only a few states budget these costs at the state level; most leave these costs to the local districts. The total contribution of the State government to local education in the next fiscal year is $188 million, of which $64.5 million represents the State's contribution to the Teachers' Pension Fund and costs of social security. This item alone reflects an increase of over $5 million.

The formula requirements for contributing to operating costs and school construction reflect an increase of $3 million. This includes the cost of classes for the emotionally disturbed and for adult education.

NEW AID FOR LIBRARIES

An indispensable component of any system of education—public or private—is the public libraries. Traditionally, our public libraries have provided the books and other learning materials which have served Americans of all ages in achieving educational and cultural objectives. In recent years, we have seen a vastly increased use of our library resources as the knowledge explosion and the changing curricula of our schools and colleges have sent students in ever-increasing numbers to the libraries. This unprecedented demand for library books speaks well for the vigorous spirit of inquiry in America.

In 1959, we adopted the State Aid to Libraries Act establishing a formula of State assistance for these invaluable facilities. Since then, however, we have not been able to meet the requirements of this formula and a great many public library systems perennially have been handicapped by lack of funds.

This year, I am proud to recommend the full amount of State assistance under the 1959 State Aid to Libraries Act. This will increase the State's appropriation from $800,000 this year to $1.4 million in 1965-66. These funds, together with the construction funds being made available under the Federal Library Services and Construction Act, will give a much-needed boost to institutions which cannot be allowed to stagnate in an education-based society.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

In my Third Annual Message to the Legislature, I outlined a series of proposals for the expansion and improvement of vocational education opportunities for the 62 per cent of our youth who are not college-bound. One million dollars was appropriated this year to make a start on a program whose importance the Committee to Study the Needs of Vocational Education in New Jersey has since described with these words: "No investment carries a higher priority for New Jersey today than vocational education." The Federal Vocational Education Act of 1963 will make available approximately $6.5 million to New Jersey by the end of 1966 to improve and expand existing programs and to establish new programs and facilities. I am recommending $1 million in State funds in fiscal 1966, which together with funds already appropriated, will provide $2 million to help local school districts obtain the substantial Federal assistance available.

In the near future, I will present to you recommended legislation which will enable us to carry forward this very vital part of our educational endeavors along the lines recommended by the Vocational Education Study Committee.

COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Funds in the amount of $1.9 million for construction of county community colleges have heretofore been appropriated by the State. This is still available for expenditure in 1965-66. I am recommending an additional $1 million in the next fiscal year which, together with the unspent State funds and $2.6 million in Federal funds, will enable the State to participate in the development of five county colleges that will cost approximately $13.3 million. The State's appropriations should be adequate to provide the State's share of cash needed to meet costs of construction as the work progresses in the next fiscal year. This plan has met with acceptance by representatives of the county Boards of Chosen Freeholders. I stand ready to recommend to you all payments that will be required in succeeding years. This obligation we cannot neglect.

EDUCATIONAL CONSTRUCTION

The Department of Education and the State University are embarking on a major construction program financed by the College Bond Issue of 1964. Therefore, I have not recommended any major construction for the State Colleges or the State University in this budget. However, since we adopted legislation late in 1964 providing that the State University establish a medical school, I am including an amount of $1 million for planning and initial construction activity for this unit of the State University. This is the first part of $6 million in capital aid the State will provide for the Rutgers Medical School.

DEPARTMENT OF INSTITUTIONS AND AGENCIES

To maintain the State's highly personal responsibility for the very lives of thousands of citizens in its care, I am recommending increased appropriations of $8.9 million for the Department of Institutions and Agencies, of which $5.5 million is for operating costs, $2.9 million is for State aid for welfare and $500,000 is for capital costs.

MENTAL RETARDATION

One year ago I disclosed to you plans for a four-front attack on the tragic problem of mental retardation. Today

I can report to you that substantial progress has been made in the last 12 months toward providing more adequate care for the retarded—both within the State institutions and in the community.

The new Woodbridge State School began the admission of severely retarded patients on January 4 of this year. It is expected that by the end of this budget year, Woodbridge will be filled to capacity, admitted both from the waiting list and by transfer from other State institutions which, in turn, will admit from the waiting list. Full activation of the Woodbridge facility requires an additional $1.5 million and 338 more positions.

The program to purchase care for the severely retarded in private facilities has developed rapidly. As of mid-January, 1965, a total of 275 retarded persons were receiving care under this plan. I am recommending new appropriations of $500,000 next year which, together with anticipated unexpended balances available from the current year, will continue this valuable service.

Several notable improvements are under way in our existing institutions for the mentally retarded. At New Lisbon, 12 new resident cottages are nearing completion. These cottages will replace six old and inadequate structures and help relieve overcrowding in the remaining cottages at this institution. I am recommending 33 new positions at New Lisbon to staff the replacement cottages.

At the Edward R. Johnstone Training and Research Center, a new 118-bed Readjustment Unit is scheduled to open in July, 1965. This will be the first facility in the State specifically oriented toward the care and treatment of retardates with major behavior problems. I have recommended $232,000 to activate this unit and operate it during 1965-1966.

At the remaining institutions, I am recommending 92 new positions primarily for the purpose of providing adequate care for a steadily increasing proportion of severely retarded patients who require substantially more staff-time and effort than do the less retarded residents.

The day care program for the retarded has continued to expand. Currently over 150 retardates, who can reap particular benefit by remaining in the community, are enrolled in day care centers receiving partial support from State funds. But more remains to be done. Surveys reveal that a total of more than 500 retardates are in need of day care services. And in those cases where the State is providing no support, individual day care programs may be terminated upon exhaustion of local resources. Accordingly, I am recommending $225,000 to triple this year's appropriation so that we can strengthen this much-needed service.

In sum, we can be justifiably proud of our accomplishments in the field of mental retardation. But we also must work to improve these programs in the next fiscal year. I think that the recommended increase of $2.5 million in this area is meaningful from a humanitarian as well as an economic standpoint.

MENTAL HEALTH

With the addition of 54 new positions in this field, we continue to emphasize more effective medical-surgical and children's services.

Improved staffing is provided to implement a balanced program of rehabilitation and specialized services to expedite the release of children to the community. The State hospitals are emphasizing comprehensive active treatment in order to cope with increasing admissions. Through regional decentralization of clinical services, the hospitals are concentrating and unifying their efforts. Training programs, at all levels, are supplemented by Federal funds. The State hospitals are faced, however, with significant care problems involving the geriatric patient population.

We can, however, take pride in the reduction of 564 in the patient population, from 13,974 in 1963 to 13,410 in 1964 and we expect a further reduction this year. The Department is devoting particular attention this fiscal year to the completion of its two-year project to develop a plan for comprehensive mental health services for New Jersey. This should point the way for more effective community services for those individuals who seek and need treatment.

CORRECTION

The Youth Reception and Correction Center at Yardville, now under construction, will be a unique institution when it opens in July, 1966. It will provide central reception and classification of all reformatory commitments and a special treatment unit for seriously disturbed reformatory inmates. Under Chapter 65, P. L. 1963, the existing reformatories are grouped into a single administrative system to provide centralized planning for the youthful offender to develop the greatest potential for rehabilitation. The Yardville institution will help relieve overcrowding which now is of serious proportions at the existing reformatories. Funds and positions are allowed in this budget for Yardville, to begin staff build-up in preparation for the opening, to plan and develop programs and procedures, to recruit and train personnel, and to purchase initial operating supplies.

NEW FACILITIES

This budget also provides for other new facilities. Two new cottages, a special treatment unit, and a work camp to be located in the Wharton Tract, for inmates of the State Home for Boys will relieve that institution's overcrowded cottages, provide for more selective treatment of the young offender and present an opportunity for proper classification.

Construction is progressing on the Stokes State Forest Work Camp to accommodate 60 boys. It will provide relief from overcrowding and overmanned work details at Annandale Reformatory.

A program has been conceived for a new 200-bed training school for boys 13 years of age and under, and funds are recommended in this budget for personnel to aid the architects in planning this facility. This training school will provide safe custody and adequate classification and treatment for these children and will minimize the extreme contrasts in age, offense, and social and psychological backgrounds which now exist among the boys in the State Home at Jamesburg.

PUBLIC WELFARE ADMINISTRATION

The past year has seen a continued rise in the number of welfare assistance recipients carried on the rolls of the Division of Public Welfare. As these increases continue, if even at a slower rate than heretofore, the requirements for administrative personnel, caseworkers and supervisors must keep pace. Budget recommendations for Public Welfare operations aggregate an increase of $846,000 over current appropriations. For the Bureau of Assistance, which administers public welfare programs at the State level, I am recommending 10 new positions to strengthen the administration of the Division and provide more adequate staff for the quality review program required by the Federal government as a prerequisite to financial assistance.

Considerable improvements in the welfare program during the coming year must be concentrated in the Bureau of Children's Services. Although the number of caseworkers authorized this year was intended to provide a stable case load of 53 per worker, the sustained growth in the number of new cases added each month has already resulted in a case load of 70 per worker and threatens to rise even higher.

I am recommending 114 new positions for the Children's Services program in an all-out effort to reduce the case load, based on current projections, to the 1 to 53 level. Anything less would be inadequate and might easily set the stage for virtually uncontrollable conditions inconsistent with the objectives of the Children's Services program.

STATE AID FOR WELFARE

Appropriations in the current year for State aid for welfare were geared to an estimated 177,040 welfare recipients. The amount and number were predicated upon what had been a clear trend in case load. Fortunately, the expected case load and the average cost of grants have not materialized. These conditions result from the improved economy of the State and Nation. Because the rate of increase in the case load and cost of grants were not as high as expected, there should be $3.6 million in unexpended welfare appropriations as of June 30, 1965.

We must, however, recognize that there will be a continued increase in the numbers of recipients during the next fiscal year, even though the increase is at a lower rate than that experienced in the past. Therefore, I am recommending an increase in appropriations for welfare of only $2.9 million which, together with the unexpended balance of $3.6 million in the present year, should be adequate for our needs.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

The impact of New Jersey's position as the most urbanized state in the Union is perhaps felt most sharply in the field of public health. Our State Department of Health, with the report of the State Advisory Committee on Sewage Disposal as a foundation, has outlined a bold and imaginative attack on the problem of inadequate sewage disposal facilities. In my Annual Message I gave details of this program of grants and loans designed to foster sewerage projects on the more efficient basis of inter-municipal action.

So essential do we regard this co-operative action, that I have made provision in this budget for a $5 million appropriation so this inter-municipal activity can begin on a meaningful basis. Of the total, $4.75 million will constitute a revolving fund from which loans will be made for the planning and engineering of regional sewerage projects. The loans would be repayable at a low interest rate to be spelled out in legislation.

The remainder, $250,000, will constitute a fund for the preparation of inter-municipal feasibility reports on these projects. Such reports would be financed on a State-local matching basis. When the districts or regions have decided upon construction plans, and funds are made available for such construction, we can anticipate additional funds from the Federal government. The funds loaned by the State then will flow back to the revolving fund, to be used to underwrite needed sewerage projects in other areas.

In my Annual Message I stated that the Department of Health estimates that the loan fund should realistically be in the amount of $15 million. Should funds in that amount become available, I would not hesitate to recommend that they be placed at the disposal of the Department for local allotment. By recommending $5 million for both grants and loans, we will be making a start on a program which is vital to the health of New Jersey's residents.

And it is a good start. This $5 million appropriation should generate an annual expenditure for sewerage construction of between $60 and $70 million. This would represent a substantial annual attack on the pollution which remains an ever-present threat in areas that are not served by sewerage systems. This $5 million is the major portion of the $5.3 million increase I am recommending for operation of the State Department of Health. Total recommendations for the Department are $9.9 million.

This includes funds for 31 new positions for air sanitation, for identification of tuberculosis and other preventable diseases, for radiological health, for food and drug inspection and for other necessary health services. The control of tuberculosis requires an increased effort if this deadly and costly disease is to be eliminated. It is disturbing to know that 15,000 persons are carried on tuberculosis case registers in our State, and that there was an increase in reported cases in 1964 over the prior year. This budget also includes funds to expand tuberculosis case-finding activities and provides for anti-tuberculosis drugs.

I am asking for $75,000 to maintain vigilant surveillance throughout the State of arbor viruses which threaten the public health. Last summer, modest funds available to the Department enabled it to detect an outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis which was not previously recognized in the northeastern part of the country. We must have funds to continue studies of the thousands of specimens of mosquitoes and blood samples of wild birds and animals in order to determine the control measures needed to stop the spread of these viruses. Linked to this effort is the State program of control which is conducted by the Department of Conservation and Economic Development. I am recommending an additional $50,000 to augment the State's appropriation which is used to encourage the various counties to apply mosquito control measures.

Increased State appropriations last year made it possible for the Department of Health to receive a $250,000 grant under the Federal "Clean Air Act" to assist its efforts to this important program. The funds recommended in this budget will permit an expansion of the air monitoring system established this year and also will permit the establishment of a field laboratory in the northeastern area of the State where half the State's population and two-thirds of its industry are located.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR AND INDUSTRY

Of the $700,000 increase in the $8.5 million Department of Labor and Industry budget, 73 per cent is for the costs of rehabilitation services to the disabled. To accommodate the increasing case load of rehabilitation clients, 13 new positions are provided. Further, I recommend an additional $350,000 for the cost of medical, physical and other outside services to be rendered to such clients. I am also asking $145,000 for research and demonstration projects which are designed to show how new approaches to rehabilitation can be implemented. Last year, 2,890 persons were returned to the labor force by our Rehabilitation Commission. We hope that with the funds recommended next year, 3,510 can be placed in a useful occupation.

I am asking for a total of 11 additional positions for the Bureau of Engineering and Safety and the Wage and Hour Bureau. Some of these positions will aid in the enforcement of the Construction Safety Act so that the frequency of worker injuries can be reduced. Some will help to insure compliance under the Prevailing Rate statute passed last year.

The number of workmen's compensation claims which require processing in the State Division of Workmen's Compensation continues to outstrip the pace at which they can be heard. To manage this case load and help reduce it, I am asking for the approval of two additional judges of compensation.

DEPARTMENT OF LAW AND PUBLIC SAFETY

In the Department of Law and Public Safety, with its varied enforcement programs, I am asking for a total of $26.4 million, an increase of $1.4 million over appropriations in the current year.

DIVISION OF STATE POLICE

One million dollars of this increase is for the Division of State Police. Increased efforts in highway safety, made mandatory by the shocking increase in highway deaths, call for more uniformed personnel. Therefore, I am recommending 50 additional State troopers to bring the total State Police force to 928. This is in addition to 227 State Police paid from toll road revenues. The new positions will require an expenditure of $315,000, including salaries, clothing, automobiles and related costs. It should be noted, however, that these funds are included with the understanding that we may not fully absorb the additional personnel into the force until October.

It has been the State's policy over the years to pay State Police a daily allowance for meals which they must consume away from home while on duty. I am proposing, in this budget, that the present daily allowance of $4.50 be raised to $5 and have included the sum of $135,000 for this purpose.

About $188,000 of the State Police increase results from the fact that the current year's appropriation included funds for 60 troopers for six months. Those positions are filled, or will soon be filled, so that next year's budget reflects the cost for a full year.

New Jersey has been justly proud of its pioneering efforts in police communications which have gained us a nationwide reputation in this field. To maintain our position as a leader in this important area, I am recommending $100,000 to modernize the State Police teletype network. These funds will permit the installation of the most modern computer-controlled teletype switching system available. It will increase vastly both the speed and effectiveness of the network and, as an added dividend, will permit the return to road duty of 10 troopers by releasing them from communications work.

The remainder of the increase is accounted for by normal increments and for other non-salary operating costs.

POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION

Last year, I asked for an appropriation of $25,000 for the Police Training Commission to establish a course in police administration at the State University. The Legislature did not see fit to grant funds for this purpose. It should be apparent to all that professional upgrading of our local police departments is a necessity. I hope you will see fit to appropriate the modest funds needed for such a course.

DIVISION OF MOTOR VEHICLES

In the Division of Motor Vehicles, this budget also provides for more vigorous measures against the mounting toll of traffic accidents and deaths. We are strengthening the inspector force programs of driver testing, driver improvement and driver safety education by recommending 10 additional inspectors and by stepping up the recruitment and training effort in this unit. The vehicle inspection activity is also being supplied with funds aggregating $110,000 for additional facilities and night hours in order to speed up the detection and rejection of unsafe vehicles, which are now averaging almost one in every three examined.

Finally, as a further move against the problem of driver irresponsibility, we are recommending additional staff for closer controls over the convictions and accident information flowing into the new driver licensing-driver record computer system. This system, which is now operational after a three-year conversion period, is one of our most important weapons against unsafe and reckless driving on our roads.

The total staff increase of 77 positions being recommended in this Division's budget includes the initial permanent complement of 48 positions for the Motor Carrier Road Tax program which the Division administers.

DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS

I am asking for an appropriation of $250,000 next year to operate this Division, so involved in one of the central questions of our time. This agency has important duties in the complementary areas of enforcement and education. As I indicated in my Annual Message, this budget includes a significant additional sum—$61,000—to help the Division meet the requirements of a dynamic civil rights program.

CAPITAL CONSTRUCTION—LAW AND PUBLIC SAFETY

The growth of the State Police organization has resulted in extremely crowded conditions in the departmental headquarters in West Trenton. Therefore, I am recommending $385,000 for an addition to the Division headquarters building and for sewage disposal facilities that will meet the modern sanitary criteria.

For the Division of Motor Vehicles, I am recommending an amount of $160,000 for purchase of land necessary to establish a new three-lane motor vehicle field installation in Morris County.

Plans of the City of Newark to renew an urban area around the downtown motor vehicle station make it desirable to relocate this activity. Therefore, I am including $55,000 for advance planning and design of this new station.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

The funds which I am recommending for the State Highway Department next year total $101.3 million, representing an increase of $7.6 million over 1964-65. But cold figures stating the amount recommended for this Department, and the increase which it represents, would hardly do justice to the new programs and many changes which are reflected in the Highway budget.

ADVANCE PURCHASE OF RIGHT-OF-WAY

My recommendations include $4 million as the start of a revolving fund for the advance purchase of right-of-way—a purpose for which a manifest need has existed for years. From this fund, the State will be able to purchase rights-of-way at a cost which will be a fraction of that which we would otherwise spend if, as in the past, we were forced to buy after the lands were improved. When this property is used for highways to be constructed out of joint Federal-State matching funds, we shall be able to replenish the revolving fund from these matching funds and be able to continue the process of buying land in advance of immediate needs. Furthermore, the Federal Bureau of Public Roads recognizes the need to plan ahead in acquiring rights-of-way as long as seven years prior to the need to place the property in a roadbed. We should take advantage of the Federal government's willingness to co-operate with us in such acquisitions.

MAJOR REVISIONS

Management studies conducted by consultants hired by the State Highway Department indicate a number of areas in which the Department may improve its operations, its organization and its efforts to construct highway construction activities. On the one hand, these studies have suggested directions which the State should take to increase its potential to accelerate highway construction. On the other hand, the studies have pointed to savings which the Department can effect in its existing appropriations.

Accordingly, this budget eliminates 100 positions in the maintenance and operating force while, at the same time, it provides an increase in staff necessary for the Department's expanded highway construction program. Thus, in large measure, staff needs of the Department are being met in this budget by savings in areas which our survey determined were over-staffed. The studies also point out that we should make more effective use of personnel now available for highway maintenance and operation by revising existing performance standards. This is being done.

One of the areas to which we will devote these savings is that of highway research. In this budget, it is proposed to begin the expansion of the research program to a point where it engages in all phases of highway research including pavements, bridges, traffic surveys, foundations, safety features and highway capacities, among others. New Jersey is justified in developing a more extensive research program at this time. It is hoped that improvements in methods as well as materials of construction will result in better highway construction techniques at considerable public savings.

Appropriations to operate the State Highway Department give effect to further reorganization whereby long-standing vacancies have been eliminated in favor of establishing positions needed to decentralize the Department's operations. With this decentralization, authority to act will be delegated to personnel who will be able to make non-policy decisions on the spot.

CAPITAL CONSTRUCTION

Let us now consider recommendations for the capital construction program of the Highway Department. To implement our construction program, first things must come first. The acquisition of right-of-way is obviously a prerequisite to any highway construction program. In order to acquire the lands upon which we will build the roads, I am recommending an appropriation of $362,000 for 56 additional positions to process their acquisition. Recent studies of our construction program indicate that the Right-of-Way Division must acquire as many as 6,000 parcels of land per year to keep far enough ahead of the Department's construction force, and thus assure an orderly construction program. That is not to suggest that this workload level can be obtained in one year. It may require several years.

Other sums for new positions are recommended to give effect, in the construction program, to the decentralization policy which I already have described in the area of highway maintenance.

Over the last decade, and particularly since the implementation of the current federally-financed interstate highway program, the State Highway Department has relied to a considerable extent on outside engineering firms to provide the skills necessary to plan and design the interstate highway system. For the most part, the decision to follow that course was well chosen. When the interstate highway system became a reality in 1956 and the multi-millions of dollars from Federal sources became available, the Department was under a compulsion to construct highways as fast as possible in order that those Federal funds could be utilized in the years for which they were made available.

The Commissioner made a considered judgment that the construction program could be implemented quickly only with reliance on professional engineering firms because the State could not possibly have hired and trained enough competent technical employees to expedite the program as rapidly as could professional firms. The fact was that civil engineers were not available for hire by the State at salaries which the State could afford to pay.

The Highway Commissioner and I share the opinion that we have now reached a point where the State can hire more of its own staff—not all at one time, but over a period of several years—so that a staff of State employees will be available to produce approximately 50 per cent of the total amount of planning and design work necessary for the construction program. It is clear that we must continue to rely on professional engineering firms for the balance of the planning and design work involved in the program. Such a distribution of work between State staff and independent professional engineers will give us desirable flexibility to cope with the fluctuating nature of the work.

Accordingly, I am recommending that funds which may be required for planning and design services related to the highway construction program be made available to the Department either for professional engineering services or for staff services as the Highway Commissioner may determine.

The funds recommended for highway construction include $28.3 million to match the Federal allocation of funds for the fiscal year 1966-67; thus we are matching Federal funds one year beyond the fiscal year for which this budget is being submitted.

NEW COMMUTER CAR PROGRAM

In 1960, this State adopted a policy that essential rail passenger services must be preserved as an integral part of the State's transportation system. Since that time, trains have continued operating under contracts between the State and the railroads. Nevertheless, it always has been recognized that one of the major factors in any long-range solution of the rail transportation problem must be the acquisition of new equipment. Of the cars presently in New Jersey suburban service, 99 per cent are more than 30 years old. They are expensive to maintain, uneconomical to operate and certainly uninviting to the traveling public. The numerous equipment failures have adversely affected schedule dependability—the most cherished characteristic of railroad transportation.

First priority is the acquisition of new multiple unit electric commuter cars to be operated in the suburban services provided by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The cars will be leased to the railroad at a token rental. The railroad will assume all maintenance costs for the cars. This carrier has indicated that, if New Jersey adopts a car acquisition program, it would agree to provide commuter services for a period of 15 years without cash subsidy. In 1964-65 subsidy payments of $1.8 million were made by the State to the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The enactment of the Federal Mass Transportation Act of 1964 provides matching funds. If this Act is supported by adequate appropriations, some assistance can be anticipated in the financing of new cars. In order to initiate acquisition of this much-needed equipment, I have recommended that $2 million of the money that would otherwise be appropriated for carrying out the passenger service contracts be earmarked specifically for acquiring new cars—provided that no less than an equal amount is made available from the Federal government. The total of $4 million would then purchase 16 of the most modern, high-density, high-performing passenger cars that today's technology has been able to produce. This will be the beginning of a program for all commuter railroads that the Railroad Transportation Division estimated in 1962 would involve costs totaling $85 million. Hopefully, there would be substantial Federal participation in these costs.

CONSERVATION AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

The total amount recommended for the Department of Conservation and Economic Development is $18 million or approximately $2.8 million more than the current fiscal year. Of this increase, $1.6 million constitutes amortization payments on the bonds issued for Green Acres and for water supply resources at Round Valley and Spruce Run. As I announced in my Annual Message, I am including $200,000 for co-operative economic development studies in which the State would pay up to 50 per cent of the cost of feasibility studies for private industries interested in locating in our State.

I am asking an additional $100,000 to strengthen our program to promote New Jersey's industrial, commercial, recreational, agricultural, educational and residential advantages. While many promotional efforts are being made in the private sector on behalf of New Jersey, the State has an obligation to strengthen its own activity in this area.

CONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENTS

Added sums for capital construction include $350,000 for the rehabilitation of the Shark River Inlet jetties and concrete wall. With the rebuilding of these installations, we will be able to turn over to the Federal government their maintenance as part of the Federal waterway program.

For improvements at the various State parks and recreational areas, some of which were acquired under the Green Acres program, I recommend an increase of $117,000.

SHELLFISH INDUSTRY

Additional funds have been recommended to better enable our shellfish industries to combat disease and over-harvesting. These funds should also permit the Department to participate in Federal programs by which additional seed beds can be developed and the means found to prevent shellfish diseases.

WATER RESOURCES

Revenues expected to be derived from the sale of water in Spruce Run and Round Valley during 1965-66 are estimated to be sufficient for the operation of these facilities. In 1966-67, these revenues should be sufficient not only to provide for operation but, in addition, to begin repayment to the State for the debt service payments already advanced and for at least part of the payment to be made in the future.

WORLD'S FAIR PAVILION

Upon the expiration of the New Jersey Tercentenary Commission's term on December 31, 1964, we transferred the operation of the World's Fair Pavilion to the Department of Conservation and Economic Development. To operate New Jersey's Pavilion to the close of the Fair by November of 1965, we estimate that $150,000 will be required.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

There is recommended for the Department of the Treasury the sum of $21.6 million or $1.9 million more than that appropriated this year. The increase includes $980,000 for construction of an addition to our present State Highway Building in order to meet the needs of that growing department and to relieve its present overcrowding. The other major increase represents an additional $500,000 to be returned to the counties as their share of increased inheritance tax collections.

There also is included $50,000 to begin a permanent inventory of personal and real property owned by the State. You will recall that in my recent veto message of a bill proposing a State property inventory, I indicated that an inventory as contemplated by the bill would be too costly. I proposed that more careful guide lines be established for the inventory system. This sum will permit an inventory—with efficiency and economy as its objective—to begin with needed criteria.

I am asking for $35,000 to study the feasibility of establishing a computerized file for use in State planning. This would give us an opportunity to improve our State's capability to make long-range planning and managerial decisions.

ADVANCE PLANNING

The benefits of having a fund available for advance planning and design of building construction was amply demonstrated this year when the Legislature provided $400,000 in anticipation of passage of the Educational and Institutional bond issues. As a result, we are much farther advanced toward construction of those facilities. Therefore, to prepare for future construction, I am recommending that $250,000 be appropriated as a revolving fund for costs of advance planning and architectural services. These expenditures should be returned to the revolving fund from appropriations which will be made for the projects' construction.

DEPARTMENT OF CIVIL SERVICE

To finance the ever-increasing workload of the Department of Civil Service there is allotted $1.8 million, approximately $70,000 more than the current budget. The number of counties, municipalities and other autonomous bodies covered by Civil Service is constantly increasing, as is the number of employees in these local governments.

To aid in handling the mounting workload $61,200 is recommended for rent of data processing equipment, an increase of $40,000 over the current year. But use of this equipment will enable the Department to eliminate seven positions.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

The sum of $1.8 million is recommended for the Department of Agriculture. This is $43,000 more than was granted in the current year. Except for two new items, amounting to $120,000, this Department's budget decreases from 1964-65. The two new items are: $100,000 for Thoroughbred Breeders' Awards; and $20,000 for Standardbred Breeders' Awards.

It is the considered opinion of the Racing Commission that the establishment of this new program of awards for New Jersey bred horses will help to maintain the high level of tax receipts—$28.5 million in 1964—from our tracks. These award funds, to be administered through the Department of Agriculture, are designed to stimulate the breeding of New Jersey stock.

Nearby states have recently provided strong financial incentives designed to encourage the production of more and better horses, resulting in marked increases in revenue. Such programs have seriously affected the availability of horses needed to fill New Jersey races to best advantage. Since racing revenue is highly dependent upon the quantity of horses available, steps must be taken to ensure an abundance of native racing stock.

DEPARTMENTAL BUDGET REDUCTIONS

I am pleased to report that in three departments I have been able to reduce total recommendations below the level of expenditures in 1964-65. And these reductions, I feel, will not impair the quality or the extent of services rendered by these agencies—Banking and Insurance, Defense and Public Utilities.

While these cuts are modest in size, it should be remembered that the recommendations, nevertheless, provide for normal salary increments, as well as a number of necessary increases in operating costs. The reductions we have been able to make, however, more than offset these rises. We shall continue to make similar cuts—in the interests of a full dollar's value for the taxpayer—wherever and whenever they can be done without impairment of service.

DELAWARE RIVER BASIN COMMISSION

New Jersey's share of operating costs of the Delaware River Basin Commission is $126,000 in the year ahead, a modest increase of only $9,000 over the current year. In the Capital Construction section of the budget, however, there is a relatively minuscule amount of $1,000 which I am asking you to appropriate as evidence of the State's intent to participate in the long-range plan of this Commission. This will eventually cost New Jersey $26.4 million as its share of the water supply portion of multi-purpose dams which will be constructed from funds being advanced by the Federal government. These developments represent real provision for future generations.

JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION

In addition to salary increases for members of the State's court system, which I discussed elsewhere, there is a need to recognize the constant rise in proceedings which the courts' employees must process. Those of you who are lawyers have special knowledge of the vast amount of paper work that must be performed in connection with court proceedings. To accommodate this ever-increasing workload I am recommending 25 new positions at a cost of $112,000 to help the courts keep abreast of the demands placed upon them.

STATE EMPLOYEES' PENSIONS

Amounts required for our various pension funds (not including the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund) total $22.3 million. This is an increase of $2.3 million over the amount required for the current year. Of this increase $1.5 million is allotted to the Public Employees' Retirement System and $470,000 additional is required for the State's share of Social Security taxes. An increase of $300,000 is allotted to grant pension improvements under our present Pension Increase Act.

STATE EMPLOYEES' HEALTH BENEFITS

Our Health Benefits program will be entering its fifth year in this budget. The appropriation recommended for State employees' health benefits in 1966 is $200,000 greater than in 1965. This increase represents: (1) a rise to 33,250 in the number of employees who are expected to participate in the program and (2) a small increase anticipated in premium rates.

RENT

I am recommending an increase of $470,000 in general fund appropriations for rent. The bulk of this increase, $370,000, is for payments to our pension funds which were used to construct our new Education, Cultural Center, and Health and Agriculture buildings. Other major increases for rent are to be found at locations outside of the downtown Trenton area. They cover space for such agencies as State Police, Workmen's Compensation, Children's Services and the Highway Department.

THE STATE EMERGENCY FUND

Traditionally we have appropriated $200,000 as a State Emergency Fund to cover unforeseen contingencies. In this budget I am requesting an additional $200,000 to assist the various agencies of the State in meeting the State's share to match funds available from the Federal government under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. This sum is to be utilized only when in-kind contributions are inadequate to provide the 10 per cent of the cost of the program which the State must finance.

SALARIES IN THE STATE SERVICE

In my Annual Message, I discussed the State's obligation, as a responsible employer, to compensate adequately the men and women who administer and give life to the laws we have enacted. At my direction, the Civil Service Commission made a comprehensive survey of wages and salaries paid in private industry and in comparable public service. This survey disclosed that there is a gap of approximately 13 per cent between compensation levels in the State service and those in private industry and other governmental jurisdictions. To narrow this gap for the rank and file of State employees, I recommend an across-the-board salary increase which will elevate each employee's salary by one range grade, effective on July 5. This will cost $9.4 million. In addition, those eligible for normal increments will receive them on their anniversary dates.

While we are reducing the average discrepancy between State government salaries and those for comparable jobs elsewhere, there still remain sharp differentials in specialized positions. These include many career executive, administrative and professional posts and many classes of technical, clerical and service work. Because of this continuing gap, we find it increasingly difficult to hire and retain such specialists as doctors and nurses, engineers, accountants, technicians and skilled craftsmen. Therefore, I also recommend $2 million to implement a program of selective range revision for many titles that come within specialized categories.

JUDICIAL PAY

There is no more urgent need for an increase than in the salaries of our judges. As noted in my Annual Message to the Legislature last month, "No court system can be better than the judges who are called upon to exercise its functions. Thus far we have been fortunate, perhaps more fortunate than we could expect, in the high caliber of men who have forsaken lucrative law practices to ascend to the bench. The fact that such men have subordinated material rewards to the ideal of public service cannot excuse us from compensating them on a scale which will enable them to meet their reasonable personal and family requirements and expenses. Judicial salaries in New Jersey have fallen markedly out of step with today's cost of living. For this reason, it has become increasingly difficult to attract the best qualified and otherwise willing attorneys to a judicial service which entails so much financial sacrifice."

New Jersey, for many years, had the reputation of paying its judiciary well. Unfortunately, this is not so today. Judges of comparable courts in the Federal government and the States of New York and Pennsylvania are paid substantially higher than their counterparts in New Jersey. In New York State, a salary of $45,000 is paid the Chief Judge of its Court of Appeals and $42,500 for associate judges. In New York's next lower Court, judges receive from $34,500 to $39,000. These salaries compare with $27,000 paid New Jersey's Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and $26,000 paid our Associate Justices.

The Federal District Court judge is paid $30,000. In the State of New York, trial judges are paid salaries ranging from $29,000 to $34,500. They are comparable to New Jersey's judges in the Superior Court who are paid $22,000. Similar adverse comparisons exist with respect to Pennsylvania.

Therefore, I am recommending a $5,000 increase to all judges in the Supreme, Superior and County Courts. This will cost $441,000.

SALARIES OF TOP OFFICERS

The pay level of Cabinet officers in the State government does not reflect the responsibility and obligations of these offices. Decisions made by the department heads in State government have far-reaching effects; most executives in private industry face no greater problems. Comparing the salaries of our Cabinet with their counterparts in industry becomes an academic exercise since comparable private pay would, in most cases, be at least double. Cabinet salaries for both the Federal government and New York State have recently been raised substantially, Federal to $35,000, New York State to $29,875. The majority of New Jersey's Cabinet salaries are $20,000. These salaries have not been included in pay programs for State employees for some years. As a result, there is now relatively little differential between top career employees and the heads of their departments. Good salary administration requires the establishment of logical steps from career salaries to executive compensation. The total cost of the recommended increases for Cabinet officers in New Jersey will be $64,000.

These same considerations apply to division directors whose salaries are treated as line items in the budget. For these directors, I am proposing increases of $1,000 to $2,000, totaling $50,000. The specific amount requested is noted in the budgets of each department.

I am sure that similar comments could be made concerning salaries paid to officers within the Legislative Branch. While recommendations in this area are the prerogative of the Legislature, I stand ready to give sympathetic consideration to such recommendations.

SUPPLEMENTAL RECOMMENDATIONS

I am recommending $1 million for supplemental appropriations in the current fiscal year. Additional State aid to county mental hospitals, required by statute, accounts for $640,000; $100,000 will provide for equipping the new State House Cafeteria; $75,000 will make it possible to activate utility systems and miscellaneous facilities for use by Rutgers at Camp Kilmer; $100,000 is required for the salaries of the eight additional Superior Court judges authorized by the 1964 Legislature, and for whom no appropriation was made; and $85,000 will provide for additional fire fighting costs during the current fiscal year.

CONCLUSION

The budget, more than any other public document, reflects the broad spectrum of responsibility of the State government. In New Jersey, we are put to a particular test: making the most limited revenues¹ of any State stretch to cover the diverse needs of this, the most urbanized State in the Nation.

We have met this test without resort to new or increased taxes. Where we have not been able to undertake broad new programs in full, we have made a start. Where choices had to be made, we have chosen the highest priorities. We have made full provision for contingencies by retention of a working surplus.

There continue, of course, many unmet needs and many inequities in distributing the financial burden of government. During my term in office, I have discussed this question at length and will continue to make known my views in clearest terms.

But, in broad perspective, government in New Jersey continues to do its duty to the people. And if we set duty as a standard, New Jersey, for increasing millions, will be a State in which they can build a meaningful future.

Respectfully submitted,

RICHARD J. HUGHES,
Governor of New Jersey.

PER CURIAM.

In our first opinion in this cause we held that the Legislature of the State of New Jersey was invalidly constituted under the doctrine of Reynolds vs Sims, 477 U. S. 533, 12 L. ed. 2d 506 (1964), but held that the Legislature, although thus malapportioned, had the power by virtue of necessity to enact a statute for the temporary reapportionment of that branch of the government, 43 N. J. 453 (1964). We retained jurisdiction over the controversy to the end that applications could be made in the cause for the resolution of issues left open and all issues raised by such statutes as the Legislature might pass. On March 31, 1965, we filed a second opinion in this cause in which we denied an application for extension of time for the enactment of a temporary reapportionment act and in the course of that opinion indicated that the General Assembly as now constituted was acceptably apportioned for the purposes of a temporary plan. Thereafter the Legislature adopted Chapter 19 of Laws of 1965 which continued the present apportionment of the General Assembly and established an interim plan for the Senate. The statute contemplates an election in November of this year for both houses, the terms to run for a period of two years, this in accordance with our first opinion wherein we held that the Legislature to be elected in November, 1965, could continue in office for a period determined as set forth in that opinion and in any event not beyond the second Tuesday of January, 1968.

Thereupon motions were made on behalf of Joseph J. Maraziti and Bryant Barb for leave to intervene and for a judgment declaring the new statute to be invalid in whole or in part. The applications to intervene were granted and argument was this day had upon the issues so presented.

The statute provides that the Senate shall be composed of 29 members to be elected from 14 Senate districts. The districts are created on the basis of existing county lines. Some of the districts consist of a single county with allocations to such counties of one to four Senators depending upon population. Five of the districts consist of more than one county. One Senator is allocated to two of those districts, again on the basis of the population, and as to the remaining three multi-county districts two Senators are allocated to each, again on the basis of population. With respect to the multi-county districts to which two Senators are allocated, Section 5 of the statute provides that "Where any Senate district is comprised of two or more counties and is entitled to two members of the Senate, no political party shall nominate more than one candidate from among the residents of the county." We note the restriction relates solely to the nomination of a political party and does not prevent the election at the general election of two Senators from any one of the constituent counties.

Intervenor Barb charges that the basic plan of the allocation of 29 members among the 14 districts cannot be reconciled with the doctrine of "one person—one vote" announced in Reynolds vs. Sims, supra, and contends further that the provisions of Section 5 are in any event invalid under the said doctrine, claiming that the restriction upon the nomination by a political party operates in practical effect to insure the election of one member of the Senate from a county with a population far below the representative ratio. Intervenor Maraziti, who does not question the basic plan of the statute, does however advance the same attack upon Section 5.

In approaching the issues in this matter, we are mindful that we are dealing with a plan for the temporary reapportionment of the Legislature rather than its permanent structure. We appreciate also the practical problems involved in making a transition from the historical representative pattern in this State to one in which each county will no longer have an equal vote in one of the houses.

With respect to the first issue mentioned above, that the basic design of Chapter 19 violates the doctrine of Reynolds vs. Sims, we note that that case recognized the propriety of taking into account existing county lines in forming legislative election districts, provided the plan does not submerge the primary concept of equality of vote. If such lines are used, obviously the districts cannot be of equal population, and the deviations are likely to be larger than those incidental to the creation of original districts indifferent to existing or other political subdivisions. Such inequality as may be unavoidable because of the use of county lines may be offset by other considerations. One is that the drawing of original lines involves the problem of gerrymandering. Another is that counties do represent existing political, governmental and economic interests and thus constitute effective units for representational purposes. In our first opinion we noted the importance of the county in the political and economic life of our State, 45 N. J. at p. 462-3.

In indicating in our second opinion in this cause that the General Assembly as now constituted could continue for temporary purposes, we had in mind that while the deviations might well be too great in a permanent plan, those deviations would be tolerable in a transitional one,¹ if the total temporary plan were compatible with the objection of Reynolds vs. Sims. In dealing with Chapter 19 we are mindful that the constitutional issue must be considered in that framework.

¹ Reynolds vs. Sims recognized the propriety of using existing counties with an assurance of a minimum of one member to a county, provided the counties are not so numerous and so sparsely settled as to scuttle the population approach in apportionment. 377 U. S. 533, 84 S. Ct. 1362, 12 L. Ed. 2d, at pp. 537-538.

The present attack upon the General Assembly emphasizes that all of 60 seats are allocated without regard to population, a mode of expression which tends to accentuate the imbalance. The Attorney General replies that of the five counties which have less than the representative ratio, three have more than one half a ratio and the other two are just short of that fraction; that the population of those five counties, if aggregated, would be entitled to 2.71 seats in the General Assembly, so that the allocation of five seats to those counties means that only 2.29 seats out of 60, less than 4%, are required to be apportioned differently from a strict population basis.

Upon the reapportionment in 1962, based on the 1960 census, the average relative population deviation from the theoretical representative ratio was 20.2%; the ratio between the largest and smallest constituencies was 2.96; and the minimum percentage of population in counties theoretically electing a majority of assemblymen was 46.5 Reock, op. cit supra, p. 11. These figures reflect the impact of the five small counties, rather than the experience as among themselves of the 16 counties which share the remaining 55 seats.

With respect to the Senate, Chapter 19 allocates the 29 members among 14 Senate districts on a mathematical basis the validity of which no one contests. The formula is commonly known as the equal proportions method and is the one used in the allocation of the 60 members of the Assembly among the 21 counties following our decision in Asbury Park Press, Inc., vs. Woolley, 33 N. J. 1 (1960). The criticism leveled against Chapter 19 is that, notwithstanding compliance with the mathematical formula, the resulting distribution is marked by disparities in representation beyond those which Reynolds vs. Sims would permit.

The representative ratio is 209,199. The maximum relative deviation from the ideal representation figure per Senator is an under-representation of 27.3% in one district and an over-representation of 20.9% in another district, but in only four of the 14 districts does the deviation one way or the other exceed 10.6%. The average weighted deviation for all 14 districts is 9.4%. The ratio between the largest and the smallest population per seat is 1.61 to 1.00. The minimum percentage of population which can elect a bare majority of the Senate is 47 plus.

The Attorney General points out that with respect to five counties where over-representation or under-representation exists in one house by more than 15%, there is partially offsetting under-representation or over-representation in the other house. Over all, the combined average relative deviation of the two houses would be 5.7%, and in only two of the districts would the figure exceed 9.8%, i.e., in those minus 15.8% and minus 19%.

As we said earlier the single question before us is whether the foregoing distribution will satisfy the demands of Reynolds vs. Sims for the purpose of a temporary Legislature. While we recognize room for dispute, we are persuaded that Chapter 19 is constitutional for such temporary purpose.

In view of the suggestion made during the oral argument that our approval of Chapter 19 might be construed to forecast the view that a like arrangement would be acceptable for permanent purposes, we reemphasize that we are dealing only with the sufficiency of the plan for interim purposes and nothing contained herein should be deemed to suggest that we would find it suitable as a permanent arrangement.

We turn then to the question whether the residence requirement of Section 5 is valid. The parties refer to the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in Fortson vs. Dorsey, 379 U. S. 433, 13 L. Ed. 2d, 401 (1965). There the State of Georgia was divided into 54 senatorial districts of substantially equal population. With respect to those counties in which there were more than one senatorial district, the statute provided for the election of the senators at large within the entire county. Each Senator, although elected county wide, had to be a resident of the district to be represented by him. The Supreme Court sustained this arrangement as satisfying the principle of "one person, one vote" in the absence of a showing that the plan was designed to serve some invidious end.

Chapter 19 differs factually from the statutes sustained in Fortson in two respects. One is that the districts involved in Fortson were substantially equal in population, whereas the counties within the multi-county districts created by Chapter 19 are not of equal population. The other difference is that whereas in Fortson only a resident could be elected from the district, Chapter 19 would permit the election of two Senators from any one of the constituent counties of the senatorial district. We have no doubt that the purpose of Section 5 was to encourage the election of no more than one Senator from a county in such district, but as we have said the voters remain free to defeat this aim. The statute thus seeks to give recognition to the interest of a county as such without regard to its population, without however compelling the allocation of a Senator to an underpopulated county.

It seems to us that Fortson is not controlling and cannot be read to mean that a method which would allocate equal membership to all counties is valid merely because the legislators are elected on a statewide or regional basis. Indeed we doubt very much that provisions such as those contained in Section 5 could be upheld as part of a permanent plan. Nonetheless, we are constrained to conclude it is an admissible approach for a temporary plan of reapportionment.

We must take into account the practical problems involved in moving from a malapportioned Legislature to a constitutional one. The pressing immediate need is to obtain a legislative body substantially close to the demands of Reynolds vs. Sims. That much is achieved by Chapter 19. That the solution may not be perfect or ideal should not obscure the giant step forward.

In our first opinion in this matter we said that we would call for argument upon the question whether the permanent plan may be devised only by a Constitutional Convention if a Constitutional Convention was not called by the Legislature before April 1st. In our second opinion of March 31, 1965 we noted that there was pending legislation to provide for a Constitutional Convention and hence we would not then schedule argument upon that question. In view of the passage of time we hereby schedule argument upon that question for Thursday, June 3, 1965, unless prior thereto a statute shall be duly adopted providing for such a Convention. If a statute to that effect should be adopted any party contesting its validity may upon short notice to all parties of record bring such challenge before us by motion in this cause.

For the reasons we have given we find Chapter 19 to be a valid exercise of the legislative power. No costs.

The Clerk read the following message from the Governor :

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
May 17, 1965. }

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 376

To the General Assembly:

Pursuant to Article V, Section I, paragraph 14(b) of the Constitution, I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 376, with my objections, for reconsideration.

N. J. S. 2A:179-59, which forbids trespass upon railroad property, now requires proof of specific intent to avoid payment of fare, or to commit "larceny, violence or destruction," in order to secure the conviction of a trespasser as a disorderly person. Assembly Bill No. 376 would amend this statute to eliminate the necessity of such proof, so that an unauthorized entry in and of itself henceforth would constitute a disorderly person's offense without regard to the intruder's purpose but would expressly exclude from its scope "lawful activities in connection with a labor dispute".

I have no fundamental objection to such a strengthening of the enforcement provisions of the existing statute. As drawn, however, this bill fails to distinguish between innocent and deliberate trespasses, and thus could be construed to impose absolute liability even upon persons who are unaware that they have made an unwarranted entry upon railroad property. Such an interpretation would run counter to established concepts of criminal justice, and I suggest that the bill be amended to forestall such a result.

While my suggestions for amendment do not provide for this, I would also suggest that the Legislature give consideration to strengthening the companion section of this statute, N. J. S. 2A:179-60, which prohibits the throwing of objects at vehicles, airplanes or railroad cars and the obstruction of railroad tracks. Such activities create a high risk to the general public and the existing disorderly persons' provision should be reexamined to determine whether it is sufficient.

Accordingly, I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 376 for reconsideration with the recommendation that it be amended in the following respects:

On page 1, section 1, line 10, after "shall" insert "willfully".

On page 1, section 1, line 11, after "shall" insert "willfully".

Respectfully,

[SEAL]
Attest:

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 135

Assembly Bill No. 135 would require every candidate for nomination at the primary election of a political party innocent purchaser for value in the usual course of business. Assembly Bill No. 141 would amend this provision to stipulate that such a lien does not attach unless and until the Director of the Division of Taxation files with the clerk of the appropriate Court a certificate identifying the debtor and stating the amount due.

By virtue of R.S. 54:44-3, the Director now possesses discretionary authority to issue such a certificate for recording as a docketed judgment by the court clerk, in order to provide constructive notice to those who might otherwise defeat the State's lien as innocent purchasers for value. From the viewpoint of protecting the State's interests, therefore, the bill before me would add nothing but duplication to this area of the law. The only new feature of this bill would be to cut off the State's lien in cases where a debtor might take steps to transfer property to a purchaser with notice of the debt before the Director has had an opportunity to file the necessary debt certificate. Such a transfer would be in the nature of a fraudulent conveyance, and clearly should not be condoned by law.

Moreover, the existing statutory scheme provides the State with a desirable flexibility in its dealings with different types of delinquent taxpayers. Because the State's lien now arises automatically on the due date of the unpaid taxes, the Director has the leeway to deal sympathetically with taxpayers who are unavoidably delinquent for short periods of time, and to reserve the harsher affirmative enforcement procedure for deliberate tax delinquents. This leeway would be lost if the State were required to file debt certificates in every case, without regard to whether it is pursuing a real tax delinquent or merely embarrassing an honest businessman who intends to pay his taxes in short order. Wherever possible, flexibility in government should be preserved and not discarded.

Accordingly, I am constrained to return this measure without my approval.

This change already has been accomplished by the enactment of P. L. 1965, c. 64 approved by me on May 28, 1965. Chapter 64 amended the definition of "law enforcement officers" to include persons holding the titles specified by Assembly Bill No. 220, as well as certain officers, patrolmen and inspectors employed by the Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 367

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 367, without my approval, for the following reasons:

Assembly Bill No. 367 would establish a new category of fishing license known as “the residents’ family fishing license”, which would permit a family consisting of “parents and their children between the ages of 14 and 18” to fish on a single license for an annual fee of $10.00.

In predicating a reduced fishing license rate upon a community of family interest in a wholesome recreational activity, this measure embodies an appealing idea which has my full support. As drawn, however, the bill presents certain problems.

The basic difficulty lies in the projected issuance of one license to cover the entire family unit, as opposed to the more feasible alternative of granting an individual license at reduced rates to each member of the family. The Division of Fish and Game now receives approximately $60,000 per year in federal aid, under a formula based on the number of fishing licenses issued by the State. A single license for each family manifestly would reduce the number of licenses outstanding, and consequently could result in a substantial reduction of available federal assistance.

Moreover, the single license approach, as set forth in this bill, raises serious questions of administrative interpretation and enforcement. Does the reference to "parents and their children" contemplate that family groups with only one living parent should be excluded? Must the family unit reside under a single roof to be eligible? Would the family license entitle the family to fish only as a group? If allowed to fish separately, how could individual family members identify themselves to law enforcement officers as licensees if another member has physical possession of the single license at the time? These and other related matters require further consideration by the Legislature if a meaningful bill is to be produced.

In addition, the provisions of a replacement bill should conform with Senate Bill No. 24, which I approved earlier this year (P. L. 1965, c. 115), in order to avoid a problem of implied repeal. Should a revised bill be prepared along these lines, it will receive my prompt and favorable consideration.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 445

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 445, without my approval, for the following reasons:

Assembly Bill No. 445 would authorize the courts to require defendants in matrimonial actions to pay the county probation officer a collection "fee" of up to $0.50 for each installment of alimony or support paid through the county probation office.

This measure is identical to Assembly Bill No. 371 of 1964, which I returned to the Assembly without my approval for the following stated reasons:

“The bill appears to reflect the thesis that the expense of such collections should be included in the costs of litigation because the collection facilities of the county probation office are principally designed to serve the private interests of the litigants. But the public also has a substantial interest in the prompt, regular and efficient enforcement of alimony and support orders. Experience has demonstrated that absent such enforcement, many beneficiaries would be receiving some form of public welfare payments to the manifest financial detriment of the public at large. Additionally, an extra charge of up to $26.00 a year might, in some cases, stimulate efforts to avoid this procedure or to have the amount of the judgment reduced to take the collection fees into account. Such efforts would be incompatible with the public welfare.

Since the public as well as the litigants has a definite stake in the effective continuation of this method of collection by the county probation office, the costs of collections constitute a legitimate governmental expenditure which should not be passed on to the particular individuals involved.”

These observations continue to represent my views on this subject. Accordingly, I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 445 without my approval.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 447

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 447, without my approval, for the following reasons:

This bill would require the head of every State, county and municipal department, office or bureau to grant leaves of absence with pay for members of the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police to attend not only the annual conferences of the Association but the regular monthly meetings as well.

While I am fully cognizant of the beneficial work done by the New Jersey Association of Chiefs of Police and would in no way minimize the importance of that organization, I am, nevertheless, constrained to question the wisdom of general legislation which would make it mandatory upon governmental employers to extend paid leaves of absence to chiefs of police so that they could attend monthly meetings.

At the present time, such a privilege is not available to any organization. By way of contrast, the members of more than 30 organizations can attend their annual conventions without loss of pay or vacation and more organizations are added to the list every year. If, however, I were to approve this bill and authorize leaves of absence for monthly meetings, the door would be open and the inevitable would occur.

Because of the undesirable precedent Assembly Bill No. 447 would create, I must return it without my approval. I am willing, however, to consider legislation authorizing leaves of absence for chiefs of police to attend the annual conference provided said leaves are subject to the general limitations set forth in section 38:23-2 of the Revised Statutes.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 621

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 621, without my approval, for the following reasons:

This bill would require the mailing of sample ballots and notices of election to the registered voters of each school district in which elections are held pursuant to chapter 7 of Title 18, at least 10 days prior to every school election. The cost of such mailing would be borne by the local boards of education.

Under existing law, not less than 7 notices of election must be posted throughout a school district at least 10 days before a school election, and elections also must be advertised at least one week in advance in a newspaper circulating in the school district. R. S. 18:7–15, 46.

Additionally, in districts where voting machines are used, local boards of education are now empowered to mail sample ballots if, in the judgment of the board, the public interest would be served thereby. N. J. S. A. 18:7–47.6. While this authority might well be extended to encompass districts in which paper ballots are used, it would seem that the law now generally provides adequate safeguards to insure that voters are properly informed as to the occurrence of, and the issues involved in, school elections.

Both education officials and municipal authorities have indicated to me their opposition to the mandatory requirements of this bill.

I am constrained, therefore, to return Assembly Bill No. 621 without my approval.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 122

To the General Assembly:

Pursuant to Article V, Section I, paragraph 14(b) of the Constitution, I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 122, with my objections, for reconsideration.

This bill permits a municipality to acquire land which has been designated as a future public school site on the master plan adopted by the planning board or the official municipal map adopted by the governing body. Thereafter, this property would be conveyed to the board of education for such nominal or other consideration as shall be agreed to by both parties.

Boards of education often cannot take advantage of favorable market conditions to acquire school sites since they generally do not have funds available for advance purchases of land. This bill will assist school boards by permitting the governing body of a municipality to purchase property for future school purposes and to hold the property until the board of education is financially able to purchase it. I am in full agreement with the intent of this measure.

It has been brought to my attention, however, that Assembly Bill No. 122 could be construed to divest the board of education of its right to determine the location for a school. I have been assured by the sponsors that this is not their intent. Assembly Bill No. 122 should therefore be amended to require the board of education's approval of the school site prior to any acquisition of the property by the municipality.

I am, therefore, returning Assembly Bill No. 122 for reconsideration with the recommendation that the bill be amended as follows:

On page 1, section 1, line 3, after the word “designated” insert “with the approval of the board of education”.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 384

To the General Assembly:

Pursuant to Article V, Section I, paragraph 14(b) of the Constitution, I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 384, with my objections, for reconsideration.

Assembly Bill No. 384 would render mandatory the heretofore permissive authority of municipal governing bodies to appropriate funds for the expenses of local boards of adjustment. The bill also would provide that the attorney to a board of adjustment must be a person other than the municipal attorney. This measure, however, would strip the board of adjustment of its power to appoint and fix the compensation of its own attorney, and would transfer that power to the governing body.

The basic purpose of Assembly Bill No. 384 is to eliminate potential conflicts of interest in municipal affairs arising from dual representation of the governing body and the board of adjustment by the same attorney. This commendable aim reflects the policy recently enunciated by the Supreme Court in this sensitive area, and has my full approval. In view of this legislative objective of insuring independent legal advice to boards of adjustment, however, I can discern no justification for removing from such boards the power to appoint attorneys of their own selection. If a board of adjustment must accept legal counsel that is selected by the governing body, the independence visualized by this bill could be more apparent than real. A fundamental corollary of independent legal advice is the right to choose one's own attorney. I suggest, therefore, that this bill be amended to restore that right to the board of adjustment itself.

Accordingly, I am returning Assembly Bill No. 384 for reconsideration, with the recommendation that it be amended as follows:

On page 1, section 2, line 4, delete "governing body of the municipality" and insert in lieu thereof "board of adjustment".

On page 1, section 2, lines 5 and 6, delete "to the board of adjustment who shall be".

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 525

To the General Assembly:

Pursuant to Article V, Section I, paragraph 14(b) of the Constitution, I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 525, with my objections, for reconsideration.

This bill would amend the motor vehicle law to increase from 20 feet to 30 feet the distance from the end of a safety zone within which parking is prohibited, and to decrease from 50 feet to 30 feet the distance from a stop sign within which parking is prohibited.

I have no objection to the first of these proposals. I cannot agree, however, with the provision which would reduce the area of prohibited parking before a stop sign.

I have been advised by the Division of Motor Vehicles, and by traffic safety committees throughout the State, that the proposed reduction from 50 feet to 30 feet would greatly increase the accident potential at intersections. Because of the increased hazard, I would suggest that the present provision regulating parking before a stop sign be retained.

Accordingly, I am returning Assembly Bill No. 525 for reconsideration, with the recommendation that it be amended as follows:

On page 2, section 1, line 18, delete "30" and insert "50".

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE FOR SENATE BILL NO. 253

To the General Assembly:

Pursuant to Article V, Section I, paragraph 14(b) of the Constitution, I herewith return the Assembly Committee Substitute for Senate Bill No. 253, with my objections, for reconsideration.

This bill would provide for the State registration of power vessels and the fee payable would be in lieu of all local personal property taxes now levied upon such vessels. Since all non-commercial vessels presently are exempted from such local taxes, the effect of the bill is to remove commercial vessels from the local tax rolls upon the payment of the State registration fee.

As I previously announced, I have concluded that it would be against the public interest for me to sign this bill in its present form. While there may be reason for treating commercial boats in a manner somewhat similar to motor vehicles and aircraft, such changes in the tax status of these craft should not be afforded at the expense of recreational boatmen, which would be the result if this bill were to become law.

The registration fee schedule specified by the Assembly Committee Substitute for Senate Bill No. 253 would be applicable to both commercial and non-commercial boats. No distinction is made. It is difficult to find any justification for treating boats which are used for business enterprises in the same manner as those which are owned for pleasure and recreation. If the schedule is appropriate for one class of boats, it must necessarily be inappropriate for the other. This is especially true since, as I have noted, such pleasure boats are now free from local taxation.

Such a parity of treatment would be a negation of the considerations which led to the enactment of a bill to exempt pleasure boats from taxation less than one year ago. It was then agreed by the Legislature and myself that our citizens should be encouraged to enjoy the pleasures of recreational boating without being taxed for the privilege. Consequently, I am returning this bill with recommendations which reflect that aim.

I am also concerned whether the registration fee is realistic in its application to commercial vessels. The fees specified by this bill range from $2.00 per year for vessels under 16 feet in length to $8.00 per year for vessels up to 65 feet long. All vessels over 65 feet would be subject to a fee of $25.00. These fees would replace property taxes, which I am advised in the case of larger vessels currently range in the neighborhood of $400.00 to $500.00 annually.

By way of comparison, the maximum registration fee assessable against a non-commercial passenger motor vehicle is $25.00. Commercial vehicles, however, are subject to maximum registration fees nearly ten times as great, not including construction trucks against which registration fees of up to $1,000.00 can be assessed.

The distinction between commercial and non-commercial is not made in the case of aircraft. The registration formula is based upon gross weight, but few of the heavier craft are used for non-commercial activities so that the fee schedule accomplishes the same result. The fee collectable ranges from $15.00 to $1,000.00

In return for the payment of these fees, all motor vehicles and aircraft are exempted from local taxes. If power vessels are now to be similarly exempt, the fees chargeable to commercial craft should bear some reasonable relationship to the privilege accorded. Therefore, I am recommending a modification of the fee structure.

This measure would also repeal a long-standing prohibition against the operation of power vessels upon inland waters without a license. Under existing law, an individual must be at least 13 years old to obtain an outboard motorboat license, and 16 to obtain an inboard motorboat license. No reason has been advanced for removing from the law this restriction upon the indiscriminate operation of power vessels by children who have not attained a responsible age. Power boats, no less than automobiles, can be lethal weapons in the hands of those who are not ready or able to operate them with competence and responsibility. If anything, consideration should be given to extending our program of licensing operators to tidal as well as non-tidal waters.

Moreover, elimination of the present licensing provision would eliminate approximately $45,000.00 per year in revenues derived from the annual licensing fee of $1.50.

A further problem is that the bill would exempt from registration, as well as from taxation, all vessels having valid Marine Documents issued by the United States Bureau of Customs, upon payment of a token fee of $1.00 per year. This provision would apply to approximately 7,000 boats, most of which are commercial vessels, and would cost the State nearly $42,000.00 per year even within the framework of the bill's present modest fee schedule. Again, no justification has been advanced for this exemption nor has anyone indicated any reason for making a distinction between documented and undocumented vessels for purposes of registration.

Additionally, the bill, in its present form, fails to provide for a reasonable transition period within which the existing registration system could be converted into the new system. And, finally, by repealing that portion of existing law which equates numbering with registration, this bill introduces an artificial distinction between these two terms although they have long been viewed as synonymous by all concerned parties. I have suggested, therefore, that the existing numbering activities of the Bureau be left untouched and that the owners of commercial vessels be issued tax exemption certificates.

On page 1, Title, line 8, delete "the registration and numbering of".

On page 1, Title, line 14, delete ", and to repeal section 20 thereof, and section 4 of chapter 236 of the laws of 1954".

On page 1, section 1, line 2, delete "the registration and numbering of".

On page 2, section 2, lines 3 and 4, delete "Registration and Numbering".

On page 3, section 3, line 29, after "1954.]" insert "(i) 'Number,' 'Numbering' and 'Certificates of number' as used in this act are the equivalent of the terms 'register,' 'registration' and 'Certificate of Registration' as used in the Power Vessel Act (1954) being chapter 236 of the laws of 1954."

On page 3, section 3, line 30, delete “(i)” and insert in lieu thereof “(j)”.

On page 3, section 3, line 33, delete “(j)” and insert in lieu thereof “(k)”.

On page 3, section 3, after line 34, insert the following new paragraph:

“(1) ‘Documented Power Vessel’ means a power vessel which has a valid Marine Document issued by the Bureau of Customs of the United States Government or any Federal agency successor thereto.”

On page 3, section 4, line 5, delete “registered and”.

On page 3, section 4, line 7, delete “registered and”.

On page 3, section 4, line 10, delete “A vessel which has a valid Marine Document issued by the Bureau of Customs of the United States Government or any Federal agency successor thereto, but any such vessel of 500 gross tons or less may be registered under this act and upon registration shall pay such fees as are hereinafter provided for power vessels and shall be subject to all the provisions of this act” and insert in lieu thereof “A documented power vessel”.

On page 4, section 5, line 1 and thereafter, delete sections 5 through 16 in their entirety and insert in lieu thereof the following new sections:

“5. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b) hereof, the owner of every power vessel required to be numbered pursuant to this act shall and the owner of every documented power vessel of 500 gross tons or less which is based within this State may annually apply to the Department for a tax exemption certificate for said power vessel and pay the fee for such certificate in this act prescribed, which fee shall be in lieu of any assessment or personal property tax imposed by the laws of this State;

“(b) The owners of power vessels used solely for their pleasure and recreation shall not be subject to the requirements of subsection (a) hereof and need not apply for a tax exemption certificate.

“6. For the purposes of this act a documented power vessel is based within this State if its owner owns, maintains, leases or rents space in this State for its storage, mooring or servicing on other than a transient basis.

“7. (a) Applications for the issuance of a tax exemption certificate shall be made to the Department on forms prescribed and supplied by it. Upon application and payment of the fees prescribed, the Commissioner shall provide suitable evidence of compliance with this act which shall be displayed in or on each power vessel in a manner to be provided by regulations of the Commissioner.

“(b) Application for a tax exemption certificate for the tax year 1966 and all subsequent tax years shall be filed with the Department on or before June 1 of the tax year or within 30 days of the purchase or acquisition of the power vessel, whichever date is the later.

“8. The following fees shall be charged and collected for the issuance of a tax exemption certificate for each power vessel and for the annual renewal of said certificate:

Length	Fee
16 feet or less	$4.00 per year more than 16 feet but less than 26 feet	$25.00 per year more than 26 feet but less than 40 feet	$50.00 per year more than 40 feet but less than 65 feet	$75.00 per year over 65 feet	$100.00 per year

“9. The Commissioner is authorized to utilize the machine records facilities of other State agencies in the administration of this act.

“10. The Commissioner shall issue a tax exemption certificate, without fee, for any power vessel owned, or leased by, the State, a county or municipality or by any instrumentality thereof or by any agency or authority created by this State or by compact between this and any other State or States.

“11. The Commissioner shall issue a tax exemption certificate, without fee, for any power vessel owned by associations or corporations organized exclusively for charitable purposes.

“12. All fees received for the issuance of tax exemption certificates shall be deposited as part of the State’s general funds with the State Treasurer, who shall keep a record of the same. The said sums shall be credited to a permanent revolving fund for the then current fiscal year and thereafter, from year to year, as a replacement thereof, and shall not lapse into the unappropriated funds of the State Treasury.

“(a) 90% of said sums shall be used for the purposes of meeting necessary expenses to assure a continuous administration of this act, except that at the end of each fiscal year all revenue in excess of a sum calculated to meet the projected annual costs for its administration, shall be used and are hereby appropriated for the purpose of dredging and maintaining lakes, waterways and streams of this State and for the development and maintenance of recreational facilities in areas accessible to boatmen.

“(b) The remaining 10% of said sums shall be used and hereby are appropriated to the Department to expand and maintain the coastal patrol unit of the Division of Fish and Game in said Department.

“13. Nothing contained herein shall be construed as exempting from personal property taxation power vessels which are being held for sale by a manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer of such vessels.

“14. The Commissioner is authorized to issue rules and regulations necessary for the administration and enforcement of the tax exemption certificate provisions of this act, including, but not limited to the establishment of a schedule for the initial issuance of said certificate.

“15. This act shall take effect immediately and shall apply to the tax year 1966 and thereafter. Nothing contained herein shall be construed so as to relieve any person of any property taxes due and payable in the tax year 1965 or in prior years.”

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 223

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 223, without my approval, for the following reasons:

The transfer inheritance tax law provides for the deduction of the "ordinary" expenses of administration of a decedent's estate, including the "ordinary" fees of executors, administrators and attorneys, in determining the taxable value of the property transferred. Where fiduciaries' commissions and attorneys' fees are fixed by a court, deductions in the full amount allowed by the court invariably are accepted by the Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau without question. A problem arises, however, where the parties interested in the decedent's estate undertake to award commissions and fees by private agreement among themselves, without a judicial proceeding. In such instances, it has been the practice of the Bureau to independently review the reasonableness of the amount allowed in fees and commissions, and to refuse to permit a deduction in excess of the amount it deems reasonable or "ordinary".

Assembly Bill No. 223 would eliminate this administrative practice by allowing the deduction in full of all fees and commissions fixed by private agreement, as well as those determined by a court of competent jurisdiction. Under this measure, the Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau no longer could look behind the determination of the beneficiaries and other interested parties as to what are proper fees and commissions, but would be bound to allow deductions in the full amount of the commissions and fees agreed upon.

Some proponents of this measure have accurately observed that the Bureau's practice of reviewing the reasonableness of fees and commissions fixed by agreement tends to "force" fiduciaries into court for a judicial computation or approval of the amounts to be allowed. If I shared the view that it is desirable to avoid judicial settlement of fiduciaries' accounts in favor of private agreements fixing fees and commissions, the arguments advanced in support of this bill would have merit. However, I cannot accept the premise that it is in the public interest to encourage such out-of-court allowances by private agreement, particularly where substantial estates are concerned. While I recognize that this practice has received some legal sanction (In re Hack, 105 N.J. Eq. 334 (Prerog. Ct. 1929)), I also detect a strong and long-standing public policy, enunciated in our statute books, of having the courts pass upon the reasonableness and fairness of fiduciaries' commissions according to the standards and the maximum rates established by law. N.J.S. 3A:10-1 and 2. Since my approval of Assembly Bill No. 223 would provide further incentive for bypassing the judicial process in this regard, I am returning this measure without my signature.

At the same time, I realize that there are instances, usually involving relatively modest estates, in which judicial review of commissions and fees can cause delays and expenses that may be unwarranted under the circumstances. In such cases, I tend to agree that the Transfer Inheritance Tax Bureau should not sit in judgment on the reasonableness of fees and commissions allowed by private agreement. Where this line should be drawn is a matter for further study, and I have requested the Director of the Division of Taxation to hold himself available for discussion and cooperation with the proponents of Assembly Bill No. 223. If a new bill can be prepared along the lines of the considerations projected by this message, I will be pleased to give such a measure my prompt and favorable attention.

Respectfully,

[SEAL]
Attest:

/s/ RICHARD J. HUGHES,
Governor.

/s/ JOHN W. GLEESON,
Secretary to the Governor.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 605

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 605, without my approval, for the following reasons:

Assembly Bill No. 605 is designed to divest the State of New Jersey of its entire interest in all riparian lands which, by reason of their present or former location above mean low tide, are commonly known as meadowlands. The bill would attempt to accomplish this objective by revising the common law definition of riparian lands to exclude meadowlands from its scope.

Like Assembly Bill No. 44 of last year, which I also returned to the Assembly without my approval, this measure is intended to solve the complex meadowlands title questions which have perplexed this State for many years by the simple expedient of surrendering the State's claim to all such property. The value of the State's meadowland interests cannot be calculated precisely, but it has been estimated to exceed $100 million. For example, of the 25,000 acres in the Hackensack Meadowlands alone, some 12,000 acres are completely undeveloped and in their natural state. In all, the State's ownership claims to meadowlands, in the words of the New Jersey Commission to Study Meadowland Development, "may be worth untold millions of dollars." Yet under this bill, the rights of the State to such property would be relinquished entirely.

Many persons have reviewed Assembly Bill No. 605 with regard to the legality of such a proposal. The Legislature's own Commission to Study Meadowland Development sent a preliminary report to each member of the Senate prior to the passage of this bill, stating unequivocally that the bill is unconstitutional. The Commission said:

"It is our considered conclusion that Assembly Bill No. 605 is inherently unconstitutional. Any legislative act, including one that simply restates the meaning of riparian lands, is constitutionally void if its effect is to deprive the School Fund of assets it now enjoys without adequate consideration. We are confident that the Courts of this State would so hold and, for this reason, deplore the suggestion that the bill be enacted and the decision be left to those Courts. Prompt resolution of these title problems is too urgent to sanction the fruitless delay built into this approach.”

Subsequent to the passage of Assembly Bill No. 605, the Commission amplified its views in a final report, stating:

“The power to dispose of its tidal lands is an attribute of state sovereignty, one that New Jersey has exercised in various ways from its earliest days. It is a power that must adhere, however, to the limits placed upon it by the State Constitution. The most significant of these limits is found in Article VIII, sec. IV, which creates the Fund for the Support of Free Public Schools, to which the Legislature, in 1894, dedicated all state-owned tidal lands. By its terms, the Fund is ‘perpetual’ and its assets can not be used ‘for any other purpose’, nor may the Legislature be party to any arrangement for disposing of tidal lands that would impair the corpus of the Fund. Thus, in all its dealings with the tidal lands, the State must regard itself as a conservator of the fund—a role that can not be abandoned under the present Constitution.

* * * *

“The Legislature twice within the last year has passed bills which if signed into law would purport to close out the dispute over Meadowlands titles. Similar in their tone, the 1964 bill, A. 44, and the 1965 bill, A. 605, would abdicate the State’s claim to (and, thus, the School Fund’s interest in) the Meadowlands. Under A. 44, which Governor Hughes vetoed in January, assessed owners could establish a paramount title essentially by adverse possession. Under A. 605, which is now before the Governor, the age-old definition of ‘tidal lands’ is restated to exclude Meadowlands from its purview. Apart from the doubtful wisdom of depriving the School Fund of an ownership claim which may be worth untold millions of dollars, both measures violate the Constitutional bar against impairing the Fund corpus. However urgent the need to solve the titles dispute, unconstitutional legislation is not the answer.”

I can find nothing in the history of this measure which impels me to doubt the wisdom and morality of the Commission's conclusion in this respect. Everyone agrees that the meadowlands problem must soon be resolved so that this valuable property can be developed in a manner consistent with the interests of the State. The solution, however, cannot ignore the patent equities of the State and the involved municipalities, as well as those of the private owners of record. It cannot ignore the fact that while some meadowland owners of record have occupied their property for many years and have developed it at great expense, there are also those who have acquired little more than paper title to meadowlands at tax foreclosure sales or by quit claim deed and who would realize great and perhaps undeserved benefits if a bill like this were approved. And, finally, at a time when improved public education is among the most urgent of all governmental concerns, the solution to this problem cannot ignore the constitutional commitment of the State's meadowland interests to the Fund for the Support of Free Public Schools.

The above observations are made with the realization that it is far easier to criticize an unsound approach than to provide a positive answer. The meadowlands situation is urgent, but I am hopeful that it will shortly be resolved. While I have reservations as to some of the proposals put forth by the Meadowland Commission, I believe that the Commission's report in general furnishes a useful frame of reference within which the movement toward a just and lawful result can be initiated. Toward that end, I shall recommend to the new Legislature that the Commission be reconstituted immediately for the purpose of working directly with the Meadowlands Regional Development Authority and the Department of Conservation and Economic Development on the preparation of legislation that will properly satisfy the legitimate interests of all parties concerned. Every effort must be made to place specific proposals in this regard before the Legislature during the forthcoming session.

Respectfully,

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 404

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 404, without my approval for the following reasons:

Assembly Bill No. 404 would create a bipartisan legislative commission “to make a continuing study of the dissemination of obscene publications and, if warranted, recommend the enactment of remedial legislation to curb the distribution of such publications.”

When this bill was introduced on February 1, 1965, it provided that the commission should consist of 4 legislators and 4 citizen members appointed by the Governor from among the public at large. The bill in its original form also appropriated to the commission the sum of $10,000.00. It was my firm belief that such a panel, constituted so as to provide for direct participation by the people through its citizen members, and equipped with adequate funds to do its work, could make a real contribution in this important area. On that basis, I publicly stated that I favored Assembly Bill No. 404.

Unfortunately, however, the Legislature did not pass this bill in its original form. Over the protests of its principal sponsor and many others, the bill was watered down by restrictive amendments to the point where it has lost much of its force. The most damaging of these amendments reduced the public membership from 4 to 2, thereby depriving the people of an effective voice in the commission's affairs. Operating in a field which encompasses so many divergent shades of public opinion, this commission in particular should have a large enough public membership to accommodate all responsible viewpoints and to guarantee effective participation by the people.

Another amendment cut the proposed appropriation of $10,000.00 to $5,000.00. No explanation was made for such an exercise of “economy” in so important an undertaking. I do not believe that such a limited appropriation can finance the comprehensive study visualized by this bill.

For these reasons, and with the concurrence of the principal sponsor of Assembly Bill No. 404, I am returning this bill without my approval. As a first order of business during the next legislative session, I shall seek to have a commission on obscenity constituted with 8 public members and an appropriation of $25,000.00. I would hope that the new Legislature will join in creating this worthwhile commission.

Respectfully,

/s/ RICHARD J. HUGHES,
Governor.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 483

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 483, without my approval, for the following reasons:

Under existing law, all persons confined in a county jail or penitentiary are eligible to have their sentences reduced for good conduct, by action of the board of freeholders or its committee on the discharge of prisoners. Upon a subsequent conviction, however, the time remitted from the first sentence is automatically added onto the new sentence.

Assembly Bill No. 483 would delete this latter provision from the law, and I have no basic objection to such a deletion. But the bill also would create a new class of offenders—persons convicted of (1) driving under the influence of liquor or drugs; or (2) causing death by automobile—who could no longer receive remission of their sentences for good behavior. It is this feature of the bill which constrains me to return it unsigned.

The offenses which this bill would single out for special treatment undoubtedly are among the most serious for which commitment to a county institution can be prescribed. But they are not worse than many of the high misdemeanors punishable by lengthy terms in the State Prison. Yet under our penal system, all State Prison inmates, from murderers on down, are eligible to have their sentences reduced for good conduct. Moreover, the offense of causing death by automobile may be punished by imprisonment in either the State Prison or a county institution, depending on the circumstances involved and the severity of the sentence. If a flagrant offender committed to State Prison is eligible for time off for good behavior, it would be anomalous to deny the same privilege to an offender sentenced to the county jail because his conduct was not so heinous as to warrant a State Prison sentence.

This bill, then, would run counter to the basic policy the Legislature has established in this area. I am accordingly returning Assembly Bill No. 483 without my approval.

Respectfully,

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 658

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 658, without my approval, for the following reasons:

This bill, which would permit a hospital to destroy a patient's medical records 7 years after his discharge, or, in the case of a minor, upon his reaching age 23 if that is a longer period, and which would permit the destruction by a hospital of all x-ray film after 5 years, was passed in the Senate under emergency resolution on December 13, 1965. On December 23, 1965 the bill was presented to me for action and under the terms of the Constitution I am obliged to act today.

In the brief period since its passage, I have received favorable comment from many hospital and medical spokesmen on Assembly Bill No. 658. It has been stated that, if enacted, the bill would save our hospitals many thousands of dollars now spent in storing unneeded medical histories. However, I have also received statements from equally responsible sources indicating their great concern about the destruction of these medical records. It is argued that records more than 7 years old of prior hospitalization can be of assistance in the diagnosis and treatment of disease.

Unlike many of the measures which come before me, Assembly Bill No. 658 proposes action which, once taken, could never be undone. Records, once destroyed, could not be re-created. Thus, confronted with conflicting opinions would not be difficult for anyone to organize a "nonprofit organization" for the sole purpose of holding lotteries, with all proceeds going for "expenses" and "salaries" of officers and employees. And so long as some form of "entertainment" or other window dressing is provided at a nominal cost to the sponsor, who is to say whether a patron is paying for entertainment or for potential enrichment? This bill, in short, could open the door to unlimited possibilities for subterfuge and circumvention of our anti-lottery laws.

In this connection, it is impossible to ignore the clear mandate of our Constitution that "no gambling of any kind shall be authorized by the Legislature unless the specific kind, restrictions and control thereof" are sanctioned by direct vote of the people on referendum. Art. IV, Sec. VII, par. 2. In 1953 the people did act by direct vote to authorize the types of lottery known as bingo and raffles under tight legislative restrictions and controls, and subject to local option. This authorization took the form of a closely worded constitutional amendment which limited the operators to "bona fide veterans, charitable, educational, religious or fraternal organizations, civic and service clubs, volunteer fire companies and first-aid or rescue squads", with all proceeds going to "educational, charitable, patriotic, religious or public-spirited uses". Upon the adoption of the amendment much attention was given to the subject of effective control, and the Legislature created the Legalized Games of Chance Control Commission to supervise and regulate this delicate area. If I were now to approve Assembly Bill No. 720, these safeguards against the obvious evils which could ensue from any form of gambling would be swept aside.

The sponsors of this bill, recognizing the constitutional difficulties, nevertheless rely heavily upon my action last year in approving a bill to legalize box-top contests. I then observed that, although there was some doubt as to the constitutionality of even a box-top bill, "box-top contests, as I know them, are innocuous, recreational activities which do not partake of the social evils inherent in the virulent types of gambling which the constitutional prohibition brings immediately to mind. Such contests could be characterized as gambling events only in the most technical and legalistic sense, if at all. This is clearly an instance in which constitutional doubts should be resolved in favor of the bill." The proponents of Assembly Bill No. 720 say that the door prize distributions contemplated by their bill are equally “innocuous” and should receive similar treatment. I cannot agree.

The original version of the bill I approved last year would have legalized door prize distributions as well as box-top contests in the broadest terms. For this reason I conditionally vetoed the measure to limit its scope to box-top contests which, as indicated above, I believe are arguably outside the scope of “gambling” if they are not used as a subterfuge for conducting an ordinary lottery. To forestall this possibility, I recommended that the bill be amended to limit itself to legitimate box-top contests in language so narrow and specific as to make circumvention impossible. I signed the bill only after this was done. Moreover, in my conditional veto message, I stated that:

“[I]t is not appropriate for the Legislature and the Governor to broadly legalize [such] contests * * * without submitting such a proposal to the will of the people in accordance with the plain mandate of the Constitution. This is too sensitive and dangerous an area to admit of such abstractly worded legislation. Additionally, the bill’s breadth of language, in conferring blanket approval upon door prize distributions, might undo by legislation the restrictions and controls imposed by the people upon bingo and raffles when they amended the Constitution by referendum in 1953 to permit those activities in certain instances under tightly specified conditions.”

It seems to me that these objections now apply with equal force to Assembly Bill No. 720. Regardless of the innocence of the sponsors’ purposes, the bill is so general in its terms that the opportunities for circumvention in the form of professional gambling would be limited only by the ingenuity of the human mind. In its application to door prize distributions, the measure would improperly invade an area in which the people have spoken directly by amending the Constitution to permit raffles to be conducted only under strict conditions and supervision. It is not for the Legislature, or the Governor, to nullify the expressed will of the people in the manner proposed by this bill. Accordingly, I am returning Assembly Bill No. 720 without my approval.

Respectfully,

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 768

To the General Assembly:

I herewith return Assembly Bill No. 768, without my approval, for the following reasons:

Assembly Bill No. 768, which has been commonly referred to as the anti-obscenity bill, undertakes to set forth specific definitions of the word "obscene" with regard to the exposure, sale, loan, gift or distribution of items to children under the age of 18 years.

The uttering or exposing of obscene literature or pictures has been a crime in New Jersey for many decades. In recent years, the sale or distribution of obscene material to children under the age of 18 has been made a high misdemeanor.

During my first year of office, these general statutes were strengthened by legislation, sponsored in part by the primary sponsor of Assembly Bill No. 768, and approved by me. Chapter 165 of the Laws of 1962 incorporated into our criminal statutes concerning indecency and obscenity, the definition of "obscenity" applied by the U. S. Supreme Court in Roth v. U. S., 354 U. S. 476. Another law further strengthened the enforcement of the State's obscenity laws by permitting law enforcement officials to maintain an action for injunctive relief against persons who handled obscene materials. P. L. 1962 c. 166. A third law prohibited book and magazine wholesalers from distributing material, whether obscene or not, which was not requested or desired by the retailer.

Each of these statutes represented, in my opinion, a meaningful improvement in law enforcement. The validity of these statutes has been tested in the courts and sustained.

As this record demonstrates, not many persons today seriously contend that traffic in obscene material should be tolerated. And, even this number undoubtedly shrinks to an infinitesimal few on the question as to whether children should be exposed to such materials. The problem presented by Assembly Bill No. 768, therefore, is not whether the State's anti-obscenity laws should be strengthened, but whether this particular bill represents a meaningful improvement over the extensive body of law now on the New Jersey statute books. In this regard, it is significant to note that this bill does not expand existing obscenity statutes by establishing new offenses nor does it broaden the penalties applicable to existing offenses.

Assembly Bill No. 768 undertakes merely to set forth a comprehensive definition of what constitutes obscenity. It would establish several specific tests of obscenity against which publications and pictorial material would be measured. Presumably, it seeks to bring an element of certainty to an area of law which, admittedly, is most uncertain.

I can readily understand why the supporters of this legislation have favored it. I believe that most persons would favor the adoption of a workable and simple test which would permit all persons to determine whether materials are obscene under our laws. This question must be a legal one since the United States Constitution protects the right to prepare and distribute publications under the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of speech or press unless such publications are declared to be obscene and therefore beyond the protection of this great constitutional provision.

This bill may seem especially attractive to some because it contains the very detail and specificity which has been so lacking in this area. It creates, for example, what could be termed the anatomy test. If certain parts of the body are revealed or prominently displayed in photographs or movies, the bill implies that such material is obscene. With regard to written materials, a sexual activity test is adopted. If certain sexual acts, such as sexual intercourse, are described in a book or publication, the bill implies that such materials are bad.

The draftsman of this measure, however, must have realized what some of the more ardent supporters of this legislation have not. She was astute enough to know that neither an anatomy or a sexual activity test alone would be sufficient under the requirements of the United States Constitution. So, she added certain additional qualifications to these simple tests.

She provided, for instance, that descriptions of sexual intercourse or pictures of the undraped body would be obscene only if such matters were presented in a manner

(1) as to exploit lust for commercial gain; and

(2) (a) which would appeal to the lust of persons under the age of 18 years; or

(b) which would appeal to the curiosity of persons under the age of 18 as to sex or to the anatomical differences between the sexes.

Thus, what started out to be a simple measure of obscenity necessarily developed into a formula of extreme complexity. And, it is this union of the simple on the one hand with the undeniably complex on the other that creates much of the difficulty about this bill.

It is a basic requirement of due process in criminal proceedings that a criminal statute clearly set forth the elements of the offense.

“It is settled that a statute so vague and indefinite, in form and as interpreted, as to permit within the scope of its language the punishment of incidents fairly within the protection of the guarantee of free speech is void, on its face, as contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment. * * * A failure of a statute limiting freedom of expression to give fair notice of what acts will be punished and such a statute’s inclusion of prohibitions against expressions, protected by the principles of the First Amendment, violates an accused’s rights under procedural due process and freedom of speech or press.” Winters v. New York, 333 U. S. 507, 509 (1948).

While Assembly Bill No. 768 is in some respects exceedingly definitive, the requirements that the material in question “exploit lust for commercial gain” and “appeal to the lust of persons under the age of 18 years” are so subjective as to render their application on any given occasion a matter of wide conjecture. Because of its vagueness, it is doubtful this bill can satisfy the due process requirements of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

The bill also presents a very clear challenge to the constitutional protections of speech and press set forth in both our State and Federal Constitutions. Under the definition of obscenity, this bill would seek to ban the distribution of material to children which would appeal “to their curiosity as to sex or to the anatomical differences between the sexes." No court has ever held that materials can be banned as obscene simply because they deal with the question of sex itself. Again, it is doubtful that this bill can accommodate itself to the constitutional provisions which guarantee freedom of speech and press.

Assembly Bill No. 768, however, raises questions beyond those of constitutionality. I have received an unusually large number of letters and telegrams from persons, especially those involved in the teaching of our youth, who have questioned seriously this bill's provisions. The New Jersey School Library Association, The New Jersey Library Association, the New Jersey Education Association and many other groups and individuals whose concern for our children is beyond reproach have expressed their concern that this bill could seriously interfere with the orderly education of our children in many important areas.

The library associations, for example, provided me with lists of materials, all of which are in standard use by children under the age of 18, which would fall within the specific wording of Assembly Bill No. 768. Books such as illustrated versions of Dante's Inferno, the works of Chaucer, books on the fine arts and works of our leading artists such as Michelangelo and Rodin and even materials as familiar as the National Geographic Magazine would fall within the interdiction of Assembly Bill No. 768. Similarly, whole series of books now used in our schools, which are designed to acquaint growing adolescents with the problems of sex, would fall clearly within the language of the bill unless they qualified under a further exception which purports to exclude "flat and factual statements . . . such as would be found in bona fide medical or biological textbooks."

It is true that not all such works would be held to be obscene because they may not "exploit lust for commercial gain." But, such a decision would ultimately depend upon a determination by the proper law enforcement officials. Our educators and librarians, therefore, would handle this material at their peril. I could see the wisdom of placing such a burden upon smut peddlers and those who traffic in such illicit materials. This bill, however, makes no such distinction.

The genuine concern of these educators, librarians and other professionals involved in the development and education of our children, about the possible adverse effects upon them of this legislation, cannot be ignored or dismissed. I certainly am not now in a position to state that their fears are groundless. By the same token, I cannot state that there is no need for additional legislation to contend with the continuing problem of obscenity, especially insofar as it concerns our children. I do believe, however, that any additional authority which is found necessary to provide greater protection to our children from obscene publications and materials can be expressed in a manner which would be much less disruptive to our educational institutions, our libraries and our cultural endeavors.

I am today also returning to the Legislature Assembly Bill No. 404 for the reasons expressed in the message attached to that bill. In that message I recommend that a commission be established forthwith which would undertake a careful review of the existing obscenity statutes, and of the most recent court decisions concerning this subject with a view to developing such additional legislation as may be required. I would hope that the Legislature would act promptly on this request. In that way, we can seek to achieve the laudable objectives of Assembly Bill No. 768.

Respectfully,

Attest: [SEAL] /s/ RICHARD J. HUGHES,
Governor.
/s/ JOHN W. GLEESON,
Secretary to the Governor.
